BAND KIDNAPS GIRL, 10, FROM RICH FAMILY

HUNT COVERS LAND AND SEA

Victim Is Grandchild of Eminent Detroit Industrialists.

Harwichport, Mass., May 2 (A.P.).—Kidnapers today lured 10-year-old Margaret McMath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nell C. McMath, formerly of Detroit, from a school room here and disappeared with her in an automobile.

The child is the granddaughter of two prominent Detroit men, William R. Kales, president of a large structural steel corporation, and Francis Charles McMath, engineer, banker and industrialist.

Three men apparently participated in a carefully planned plot, one described as a large Negro and the others whites. Only the Negro appeared at the schoolroom, but the white men, seen previously with the colored man in a blue sedan, are believed to have carried out the preparations.

Phone Ruse Employed.

By a fictitious telephone call to the Center School, where the child was in the fourth grade, the kidnapers obtained her dismissal before the school day ended. Meanwhile, another call was made to the McMath residence, the palatial summer home of the Kales family, asking that the telephone be disconnected for ten minutes under the pretense that telephone company employes were working on the lines.

The child's father, formerly connected with large Detroit structural, airplane and engineering corporations, said tonight there could have been only one motive—ransom. He expressed a willingness to deal with the kidnapers in any way they desired and without police interference.

Mother Is Overcome.

"My only interest is to get my daughter back," said McMath. "I have no desire for revenge or to mete out punishment. If the kidnapers will only get in contact with me they will be treated fairly and squarely. If they get in touch with me I will try to do what they want me to do. They can contact me openly if they want to. I will keep my mouth shut."

Mrs. McMath, the daughter of Kales, was overcome with grief at her home while her husband joined State and local police in the investigation. Coast Guards searched the waters off the New England coast for any strange craft upon which the child might be held.

School Near Ocean.

The school from which the child was lured is less than a mile from the waterfront.

Harwichport is a community in the town of Harwich on the southern side of the cape, almost directly north of Nantucket and only a few miles from Woods Hole and the Elizabeth Islands. It was to this section that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh made several futile flights during the period he was seeking to contact the kidnapers of his child.

Make Pleas

Jobless Collegians Will Ask Roosevelt for Aid Today.

Clad in their somber graduation gowns and wearing mortar-board caps, two score young men and women alumni of a dozen-odd American universities expect today to address a militant personal plea to President Roosevelt for betterment of the condition for themselves and others in their walk of life.

Prior to the Executive Mansion visit, the college clan will go to the United States Chamber of Commerce, in annual session, where a "clash" was declared possible by some of the cap and gown group.

Joseph P. Lash, Columbia University graduate and soft spoken chairman of the group, has denounced the commerce body as being mainly responsible for their plight.

The "clash" was explained to mean little more than the possible exchange of harsh words should the chamber fail to grant an interview.

College banners and placards are expected to add a colorful touch to the black-gowned group as it parades to the White House. No interference

3 ARRESTED IN $760 HOLDUP OF TEACHER

Three persons, two men and a woman, are being held for investigation by headquarters detectives in connection with the daring holdup of an Eastern High School teacher yesterday afternoon, as she was about to enter the Mechanics Savings Bank, Ninth and East Capitol streets, to deposit $760 of school bank funds.

The suspects were arrested a few hours after a black canvas bag, containing the school money, was snatched from the hands of Miss Margaret B. Hardy, of 2456 Twentieth street northwest, supervisor of the Eastern High School students' bank and instructor in bookkeeping.

Those arrested said they were John Thomas Andrew Conley, 26, no fixed address; Michael Joseph O'Connell, 2341 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, and Miss Evelyn Jorden, 21, 811 L street southeast.

Police said they found more than $175 on Conley's person. He is alleged to have admitted that it was part of the money taken from Miss Hardy.

Miss Hardy told police that when she stopped her car in front of the bank, a man flashed a pistol in her face, grabbed the bag and fled to a waiting automobile.

Unafraid, she ran after the car and shouted for help as it disappeared toward the Capitol.

Miss Hardy told police she believed the bandits had followed her from the school. When she pulled up to the curb their car came to a stop a few feet in front of her's, she said.

She gave police a complete description of the car and the occupants.

Miss Hardy said the bag contained $400 in cash and $360 in checks. It was covered by insurance she said.

Belief that the bandits had been planning the holdup for some time and had been following the movements of the bank messenger was expressed when Miss Hardy revealed that yesterday was the first time in many months she went to the bank unaccompanied.

Senate Passage Seen Today on Shoals Bill

(Associated Press.)

Concerted regular Republican and scattered Democratic opposition yesterday prevented a Senate vote on the Norris Muscle Shoals Tennessee Valley Basin development bill, but Democratic leaders predicted passage today unless unforseen obstacles are thrown in the way.

As the debate ran past the usual quitting hour, with speeches still planned by the two Alabama Democrats—Black and Bankhead—and Senator Fess, of Ohio, assistant Republican leader, managers of the bill called a halt and expressed the hope the Senate would sit today until the measure is passed.

JUNG ARRIVES AS MUSSOLINI'S PERSONAL AID

Italy to Push Toward Success in London, He Asserts.

BROAD STUDY MADE HERE BY CONFEREES

(Associated Press.)

Mussolini's personal representative, Guido Jung, arrived in Washington last night too late for the dinner given in his honor by President Roosevelt, but he rushed to the White House and met the guests assembled at a reception after the evening meal.

"My country is determined to do all in its power to make the London economic conference a success," the aggressive finance minister of Italy announced upon his arrival in Washington, unruffled by the delay caused by a fog in New York Harbor which held up his ship and eight others.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Problems of the world economic conference are being attacked here from many angles in a driving effort by President Roosevelt to present as broad a basis of agreement as possible between the nations when the conference opens in London June 12. The following significant developments were marked yesterday:

First, the two British experts left behind by British Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross and Arnold E. Overton, have again been forced to delay their sailing as they are still engaged with the American experts on the problem of stabilization of the pound and the dollar.

Second, President Roosevelt and the Argentine delegatoin explored the possibilities of developing Argentine-American trade relations.

Wheat Conferees Leave.

Third, an American delegation consisting of Henry Morgenthau, of New York; George C. Haas, of the Federal Farm Board, and Frederick Murphy, of Minneapolis, left last night for Geneva, where they will prepare for an international wheat conference.

Fourth, France has formally informed the United States that the French government has accepted the tariff truce with the conditions that the French can alter their tariff to meet any sudden depreciation of the dollar or the pound.

Last night at the International Chamber of Commerce Secretary Hull made a plea for abolition of trade barriers and tariff restrictions, which are slowly bringing the world in a descending spiral to ruin.

French Ambassador Andre Lefebvre de Laboulaye called at the Department of State yesterday afternoon following a French cabinet meeting

Dr. Colijn Will Form New Holland Ministry

The Hague, Holland, May 2 (A.P.). Queen Wilhelmina charged Dr. H. Colijn, leader of the Antirevolutionary party, to form a new ministry today.

The Antirevolutionary party was victorious, along with other parties of the right, in the Dutch general election April 26. Dr. Colijn will succeed Charles H. M. Beerenbrouck, who has headed the government since August, 1929.

Kansas Beer Seller Cleared in Test Case

Wichita, May 2 (A.P.).—Robert R. Andrews, 28, who invited arrest and prosecution three weeks ago in the hope of testing the legality of sale of 3.2 per cent beer in Kansas, was acquitted by a district court jury here today of a charge of "sale and possession of intoxicating beverages."

The verdict was hailed in some quarters as a victory for advocates of sale of the brew in the State, while others regarded it as of no particular significance.

Hundred Firemen Fight Church Blaze; 12 Hurt

Rochester, N. Y., May 2 (A.P.).—More than three-quarters of the city's fire apparatus and 100 firemen battled for two hours today to control a fire in the downtown First Methodist Church. The fire destroyed the 33-year-old edifice with a loss estimated at $350,000.

A dozen firemen were hurt, six of them seriously enough to require hospital treatment, and a score of others were overcome less seriously by smoke.

RADCLIFFE CHOSEN SECOND TO WOODIN

Chapman Named Assistant Secretary of Interior; Julian Boomed.

George Radcliffe, banker and attorney, of Baltimore, has been chosen as Undersecretary of the Treasury, it was learned last night, as speculation on the appointment of United States Treasurer centered on W. A. Julian, of Ohio.

Mr. Radcliffe, Secretary of State of Maryland in 1919 and 1920, is first vice president of the Fidelity & Deposit Co., of Baltimore.

Mr. Julian has been a banker many years and is now national committeeman from Ohio.

The President yesterday sent to the Senate the nominations of Oscar L. Chapman, as Assistant Secretary of the Interior, and Jed C. Adams, as a member of the Board of Tax Appeals. Chapman, who hails from Denver, was formerly campaign manager for Senator Costigan, while Mr. Adams is national committeeman from Texas.

Brooks Hays, of Little Rock, Ark., is being considered for a high post in the Department of Labor, it was said authoritatively yesterday. The post he will fill has not been chosen. Jean Whittemore, national committeewoman from Puerto Rico, will have some place in the island government, possibly that of resident commissioner, it also was learned.

The policy of appointing women to Government positions will be extended all the way down to postmaster appointments, Postmaster General Farley said yesterday. Several women already have been chosen for important posts, including one as Minister

HULL DECLARES TARIFF RIVALRY IMPERILS PEACE

Secretary Feels Payment of Debts Linked to Trade Barriers.

PRESIDENT IS SLATED TO TALK TOMORROW

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt's Secretary of State, Cordell Hull, told the American section of the International Chamber of Commerce, in an impassioned speech last night, that America must lead the world back to moderation in tariff policy, and asserted extreme isolation is "the greatest danger to world peace."

Pointing to the huge sums owed to the United States, the Secretary asserted this country's policy since the war has ignored the fact that these obligations can be paid only in gold, services or favorable trade balances.

He referred to the administration's policy as one of "reasonable, moderate, decent" tariffs, not "no tariffs, nor even low tariffs."

Roosevelt Speaks Tomorrow.

Coming at a time when the President is about to seek broad tariff powers from Congress and is taking the leadership in the war against depression through international conversations here preparatory to the London economic conference, the address was followed with close attention.

President Roosevelt himself will appear before the chamber tomorrow night. It was stated last night in authoritative quarters that the Chief Executive would take this occasion, with many of the business leaders of the Nation before him, to "clarify" his position upon virtually the entire domestic economic situation.

It was indicated that in his address he would speak not only of his monetary and inflation plans, but probably also of his ideas on employment, relief and industrial matters. There was some intimation that his speech might be in the nature of a new pronouncement, but additional details remained uncertain.

Views on Debt.

The dinner last night was preliminary to the full-blast opening of the chamber's sessions today.

In his reference last night to the foreign obligations due this country, including the war debts, Secretary Hull said:

"The obsolete prewar economic theory that prevailed here and elsewhere ignored our transformation from a debtor and young, undeveloped country to the greatest creditor and surplus-producing Nation in history.

"It ignores the fact that today our public and private foreign indebtedness of $28,000,000,000, with annual payments of interest and installments aggregating $1,250,000,000 is due this

ROTATIVE FURLOUGHS REPLACE DISCHARGES BY ROOSEVELT ORDER

Texts of New Furlough And Retirement Schemes

Until July 1, 1934, in cases in which the number of officers and employes in any particular service is in excess of the number necessary for the requirements of such service, the heads of the several executive departments and independent establishments of the United States Government and the municipal government of the District of Columbia, respectively, are hereby authorized to furlough, without pay, any officers and employes carried on their respective rolls for such periods as in their judgment may be necessary to distribute, as far as practicable, employment on the available work in such service among all the officers and employes of such service, in rotation;

Provided, That no employe under the classified civil service shall be furloughed under the provisions of this section for a total of more than 90 days during the fiscal year 1934, except after full and complete compliance with all the provisions of the civil service laws and regulations relating to reductions in personnel.

Rules and regulations shall be promulgated by the President with a view to securing uniform action by the heads of the various executive departments and independent Government establishments in the application of the provisions of this section. The provisions of this section relating to furloughs shall not apply to carriers in the rural mail delivery service, but the President is authorized to suspend, or to reduce, for the duration of the fiscal year 1934, the allowance paid to such carriers for equipment maintenance.

Section 216 of the legislative appropriation act for the fiscal year 1933, and such section as continued and amended for the fiscal year 1934, are hereby repealed.

The text of the redrafted 30-year Federal retirement proposal, as reported yesterday to the House, follows:

Whenever at any time hereafter prior to July 1, 1935, any employe of the United States or the District of Columbia to whom the civil service retirement act, approved May 29, 1930, applies, who has an aggregate period of service of at least 30 years computed as prescribed in Section 5 of such act, is involuntarily separated from the service for reasons other than his misconduct, such employe shall be entitled to an annuity computed as provided in section 4 of such act payable from the civil service retirement and disability fund less a sum equal to 3½ per centum of such annuity:

Provided, that when an annuitant hereunder attains the age which would have been the retirement age prescribed for automatic separation from the service applicable to such annuitant had be continued in the service to such retirement age, such deduction from the annuity shall cease.

If and when any such annuitant shall be reemployed in the service of the District of Columbia or the United States (including any corporation the majority of the stock of which is owned by the United States), the right to the annuity provided by this section shall cease and the subsequent annuity rights of such person shall be determined in accordance with the applicable provisions of retirement law existing at the time of the subsequent separation of such person from the service.

In making reductions of personnel due regard shall be given to the apportionment of appointments as provided in the civil service act.

INFLATION APPROVAL DUE IN HOUSE TODAY

(Associated Press.)

The powerful Democratic majority battered down two desperate Republican attempts to block House consideration yesterday of the administration's farm relief-inflation bill and prepared to approve the currency expansion section today before sending the legislation to conference.

Overwhelming approval of procedure for consideration of the measure assured adoption of the inflation section. The farm bill to which it is attached then will be sent to conference for the composition of differences between the Senate and House.

The first important test on the inflation provision came after the Democratic leadership had been blocked again by Representative Snell, of New York, Republican leader, in an attempt to get unanimous consent to debate the proposal for six hours and then vote on the inflation issue. The Democrats then offered and obtained overwhelming adoption of a resolution to confine debate to five hours.

After an hour of heated debate in which Republicans described the inflation proposition as dangerous legislation, and said it would make President Roosevelt a dictator, the resolution was adopted, 261 to 113, on a record vote. The strength displayed by the administration followers in this vote made certain adoption of the currency expansion amendment.

Eight Democrats—Claiborne, Missouri; Dunn, Pennsylvania; Hoeppele, California; Howard, Nebraska; Huddleston, Alabama; Lambeth, North Carolina; Black and Somers, both of New York, voted against the resolution. Three Republicans — Peavey, Wisconsin; Christianson, Minnesota, and Wolverton, New Jersey, voted with the majority.

Making a surprise attack, the Republicans, led by Representative Treadway, Massachusetts, presented a resolution contending the Senate exceeded its Constitutional authority in originating the inflation rider. He said that under the Constitution all revenue and appropriations measures must be initiated in the House. Representative Byrns of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, interrupted Treadway's argument and moved to table the resolution. Byrns' motion was adopted, 170 to 51, by a standing vote. Republican attempts to force a roll call were overruled by Speaker Rainey.

The House completed debate at 7:30 p. m. and adjourned until 12 o'clock today, when the vote will be taken.

SECURITIES CONTROL BILL NEAR APPROVAL

Rayburn Measure Will Shed Publicity on Details of Stock Issues.

(Copyright, 1933, by the Associated Press.)

A rewritten security regulations bill, embodying stronger-than-originally-projected enforcement provisions to guard the public from fraudulent issues and designed to shed a bright light of publicity on new securities, will be reported today to the House.

Chairman Rayburn of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, which drafted the new bill, asserted yesterday after an executive session of the committee that it would be brought up for action in the House Friday under procedure limiting amendments.

Chairman Rayburn's committee will meet in private today to give final approval. It has been worked out with minute care to meet objections raised during a month of consideration.

The administration's provision to make the measure retroactive, which would affect all outstanding securities, was eliminated. Instead, a provision exempting any security which has been sold or ordered for sale to the public 60 days prior to the enactment of the bill was included. This exemption, however, does "not apply to any new offering or any such security by or through an underwriter subsequent to such 60 days."

Instead of permitting registration of securities to take effect immediately upon receipt by the commission of required information and copies of the prospectuses, the provision was changed to prohibit any issue from being registered until 30 days after the information has been received.

If the registration is incomplete or

Frederick Kerr, Stage And Film Actor, Dies

London, May 2 (A.P.).—Frederick Kerr, 74, stage and screen actor, died here tonight.

Frederick Kerr, who had appeared on the stage and in motion pictures in America, was born in London October 11, 1858. He studied for the bar at the Inner Temple, but gave it up for the stage at the age of 21, starting his career in New York. He toured America with John Hare and Mrs. Patrick Campbell and worked in motion pictures in Hollywood. His last New York engagement was in "The High Road."

House Unit Urges Substitution In Report.

SICK BENEFITS ARE ALSO CUT

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

A system for rotative furloughs, in lieu of widespread Federal dismissals, was asked by the House Appropriations Committee yesterday in its long-awaited report on the independent offices bill.

The furlough proposal, with other sweeping recommendations for new Federal savings, will be pushed through the House today or tomorrow under a rule limiting debate and permitting no amendments.

Inserted at the last minute on advice of the President, the rotative plan would supersede the old "administrative furlough," calling instead for uniform distribution of furloughs in agencies hard hit by appropriation slashes.

Several Surprises.

The change was but one of a number of surprises contained in the reported bill. It generally was regarded as supplying a buffer between the great mass of Federal workers and discharges theratened by the imminent Federal reorganization program.

The bill provides for selective retirement of 30-year Federal workers, with the further stipulation that they pay into the retirement fund 3½ per cent of their annuities until they reach the present statutory retirement age.

Employes who are ill and drawing a stipend through the Employes Compensation Commission would have this cut 15 per cent to conform with the general Federal pay cut.

Another new section would deny any pay increases to Federal employes reallocated to higher pay grades by the Civil Service Commission or the Personnel Classification Board.

Retirement Extended.

Authority for the President to retire on half pay, originally sought only for Army officers, was extended to officers of Marine Corps, Public Health Service, Coast Guard and Coast and Geodetic Survey. He already has authority to retire Navy officers on half salary.

A 15 per cent cut was asked in the pay of retired Federal judges, whose compensation prior to retirement can not be touched under the Constitution.

Immediately after reporting the bill, House Appropriations Chairman James P. Buchanan went before the House Rules Committee and obtained a rule limiting debate on the measure to six hours, waiving all points of order against provisions of the measure.

Under this severe rule, no amendments could be offered to any of the sweeping legislative proposals, unless they are sponsored by the committee.

Under Civil Service Commission interpretations, it would be impossible now for heads of departments to dis-

Three Bandits Attack American's Cuban Home

Havana, May 2 (A.P.).—A telegram received by the government telegraph office today said three bandits last night attacked the Santa Clara Province estate of Nicholas Hueff, said to be an American.

Gunfire from the house drove the bandits off, the dispatch said, but not before one of them knifed Hueff's son. One of the bandits was believed to have been wounded.

Dawes' View on Teachers May Stop Chicago Session

N. E. A. Secretary Tells Bankers of Demands From Educators to Shift Convention After Cashing of Tax Warrants Is Spurned.

The National Education Association yesterday threatened to cancel its convention scheduled to be held at Chicago, July 1 to 7, during the Century of Progress Exposition because of the attitude of Charles Gates Dawes and Melvin Traylor, Chicago bank presidents, in regard to recent demands of teachers in the Illinois city for the cashing of tax anticipation warrant for salaries.

Secretary J. W. Crabtree, of the association, addressed the following telegram to Dawes and Traylor:

"Teachers and citizens of the Nation demand our taking our convention to some other city. They hold you gentlemen and other bankers responsible, and are you not? If you do not move immediately you may greatly embarrass us and your own celebration. Please save Chicago teachers, our convention and your celebration."

Officials at the N. E. A. declared that Mr. Dawes' recent outburst when petitioned by teachers asking that banks cash their warrants had brought a reaction against holding the scheduled convention in Chicago. Many thousands of letters requesting the removal of the convention to some other city have been received at headquarters here.

Many of the communications state, it was said, the opinion that Chicago teachers' salaries, many unpaid for a year or more, should be met before any "world's fair" be held.

BLACK SEEKS CURB TO GET 6-HOUR DAY

Senator Would Call for All Purchases Made Under Less Labor Plan.

A move to clinch his plan for a 30-hour week and a six-hour day was inaugurated in the Senate yesterday by Senator Hugo L. Black (Democrat), Alabama, who sought to give force to the project by restricting Government purchases to goods produced under short-work week conditions.

Senator Black offered an amendment to the District appropriation bill, which, if adopted, will have general application throughout the Federal service.

Under his proposal no branch of the Government could buy any article produced by workers operating more than 6 hours a day or 30 hours a week, nor could Government contractors buy goods produced under any other arrangement.

As Senate Democratic Leader Joseph T. Robinson announced the District appropriation bill will be taken up this afternoon, immediately following a vote on the Norris Muscle Shoals project, the proposed Black rider will be put to an early test.

The Senate already has passed the Black 30-hour week bill and the measure, with a number of broadening amendments proposed by Secretary of Labor Perkins, is pending before the House Labor Committee.

The amendment proposed by Black yesterday reads:

"No article or commodity shall be purchased by the United States or any department or organization thereof, which article or commodity was produced or manufactured in any mine, factory, workshop, mill, quarry or manufactory establishment, situated in the United States, in which any operator or worker was employed after the enactment of this law, more than five days in any week or more than six hours in any day.

"Each contract made with a contractor for any public works, shall contain a provision that the contractor will buy no article or commodity to use on or in any public work, which was produced in any mine, factory, workshop, mill, quarry or manufactory establishment, in which any operator or worker was employed more than five days in any week or more than six hours in any day."

Passage of Shorter Week Bill Looming

(Associated Press.)

Passage of a bill to shorten the work week to 30 hours still was a possibility last night, although President Roosevelt has omitted it so far from the things he wants Congress to do before it goes home.

Despite a statement by Senator Robinson (Democrat), Arkansas, following a talk with the President Monday, that the bill was "not in the picture," the House Labor Committee yesterday continued its hearings on the 30-hour-work-week proposals and Chairman Connery announced:

"What Senator Robinson says is his own business. But the committee will go ahead with the hearings, finish them Friday and submit a bill to the House early next week."

Connery pointed out that if necessary, the bill approved by his committee could be sandwiched in between measures the administration particularly wanted. Furthermore, he said, it was not "courteous" of the leader of one branch of Congress to say "what a working committee of the other branch is going to do."

Speaker Rainey said the bill was not on the administration's program "yet," but indicated that if Connery's committee should conclude its work on the measure next week, the House would be allowed to vote on it.

Whether Mr. Roosevelt finally accepts the measure, its sponsors say, depends upon what it contains. The President is against application of the 30 hour week to imports.

WOMAN HARANGUES MEMBERS OF HOUSE

ment, arose in the gallery and clamored to be heard.

"You will never end the depression in a million years at the rate you are going," she shouted at unsuspecting representatives.

House members, who had been silent during most of the harangue, burst into a roar of laughter as the woman disappeared. Ineffectually the presiding officer, Representative Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, pounded his gavel and shouted for the sergeant at arms.

For a while it appeared Miss Richmond had made a complete getaway, but newspapermen located her on the north gallery stairs.

"I am from Chicago, but I am going to stay in Washington until they cure the depression," she told them. "I've got a plan."

Miss Richmond informed an attentive press that Congress is going about things in the wrong way, spending a lot of money the country hasn't got to start business on the road to recovery.

"What is your remedy?" she was asked.

"You have to have a moratorium on everything," she said.

After refusing to disclose her address, proclaiming that she knew more about business than any professor, and announcing she had ten trades she could practice with equal facility, Miss Richmond sauntered off down the stairs without so much as "good-by."

Later, after dining leisurely at the House restaurant, she sought to lay her plan before Speaker Rainey, and demanded a hearing before the Ways and Means Committee, a Capitol policeman quietly accompanied her to the office of Capt. Gnash, chief of Capitol police.

Capt. Gnash, who has a yen for entertaining gallery speakers, and has no serious objection to ending the depression, talked over the project with her in his basement office. No effort was made to detain the woman.

House members, a little stirred up over the incident, recalled the gallery disturbance last December, when Marlin Kemmerer, Allentown, Pa., department store clerk, threatened the House with a pistol. Kemmerer had a plan for ending the depression. After a court hearing, he was sent back to Allentown.

WIDE RANGE BEING STUDIED TO AID ECONOMIC ACCORD

in Paris and informed the Undersecretary of State of the decision of the French government to accept the tariff truce being proposed by American Ambassador-at-large Norman H. Davis in London. However, due to the gold stability of the French franc, Ambassador Laboulaye declared that France was forced to protect her trade interests against further depreciation of the dollar or the pound by making a reservation to adjust French tariffs even during the truce in the event the dollar or the pound sink to lower levels.

British Reaction Withheld.

The British government has not yet indicated its reaction to the tariff truce idea and with the sudden development of bilateral trade agreements between Great Britain and foreign countries, like Argentina, Germany, Denmark, Sweden, it is believed that some opposition may yet develop from British trade circles.

Departure of an American delegation to prepare for the International Wheat Conference was announced yesterday by the Department of State. The United States will not be represented officially, although the delegates were suggested by this Government. Other countries who are also attending are Canada, Australia and Argentina.

Out of the Geneva discussions will come a broad program of consultation for the other wheat importing and exporting countries who will be represented at the London conference. The non-European wheat exporting countries which are included in the present get-together will examine the proposals that will be submitted to the other nations in London for a closer understanding on the international wheat problem. Restriction of production, elimination of trade barriers, exchange of crop statistics will be among the problems to be explored by the three American delegates in consultation with the other delegations.

Discussions Carried Along.

Discussions between economic experts of the Department of State and the Argentine representatives were carried along yesterday afternoon after the President had personally assumed direction of the parleys at the White House. Argentine representatives, Tomas A. Le Breton, and the Argentine Ambassador, Felipe Espil, were with the President in the morning. They returned for the technical discussions in the afternoon. It was learned that the Anglo-Argentine trade agreement signed in London Monday formed the basis for considerable discussion between the experts.

It was learned that neither Senor Le Breton nor Senor Espil consider terms of this agreement as exclusive to Great Britain alone and they indicated that the Argentine government is prepared to accord the same exchange advantages to other countries, the United States included. The meeting at the State Department yesterday was attended by the two Argentine representatives, Senors Le Breton and Espil and Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee; W. C. Bullitt, special assistant to Secretary Hull; Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Rexford C. Tugwell, the acting chief of the Latin-American affairs division of the State Department, Orme Wilson; James P. Warburg and Dr. Herbert Feis.

Senator Pittman gave a lengthy explanation of the interest the United States attaches to the silver problem at the forthcoming London meeting and Dr. Feis went to some length to explain the American position on the tariff truce. Discussion of wheat, which will be the most important phase of these talks, was reserved for today's meeting. The Argentine delegates did little talking yesterday. However, it was pointed out that the "quid pro quo," which Argentina received in return for signing the Anglo-American trade agreement yesterday, was a loan of £10,000,000 to be kept in London to meet the payments on Argentine industrial, agricultural and public works bonds, which are held by British banks or individuals.

Governmental obligations of the Argentine are, however, excepted from the rigorous gold embargo which has frozen all nongovernmental obligations held abroad, and yesterday the semiannual payment was made in gold on the Argentine loan held by New York bankers. It is believed that a very large measure of cooperation will be offered by the Argentine delegation, if some sort of credit on the lines of the British credit established in London is constructed here by private bankers to take care of maturing principal or interest payments on Argentine commercial obligations.

Text of Communique.

The formal communique said:

"American and Argentine representatives discussed financial and monetary problems in connection with the Economic Conference and began the discussion of trade problems, which will be continued tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at the office of the Secretary of Agriculture."

Arrival of Italian Finance Minister Guido Jung and the experts accompanying him was delayed until late last night. Signor Jung will begin his conferences with the President this afternoon. Later in the week the German delegate, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, also will be in Washington.

President Roosevelt is preparing the list of names of the delegates to the London conference which is scheduled to open under the presidency of Prime Minister MacDonald three days before the due date of the next war debt installment. It is believed that the chief American delegate will be Secretary of State Cordell Hull. He will be assisted by his chief technician, Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley.

Other Names Mentioned.

Other names that have been mentioned are James M. Cox, Senator Key Pittman, Representative McReynolds, of Tennessee, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House, and Bernard M. Baruch, of New York.

The president exchanged greetings yesterday by radio with his recent guest, former Premier Edouard Herriot, now on the ocean. The Herriot radio and the Roosevelt greeting crossed as the French statesman sent his congratulations to the President just about the moment that a message of similiar tenor was speeding to the Ile de France.

ROTARY FURLOUGHS ARE URGED BY HOUSE BODY TO SAVE JOBS

charge workers where appropriations were cut below operating expenses. They would have to be furloughed instead.

The clause in the old administrative furlough law which carried this interpretation is embodied in the new proposal.

Discussing this clause before the House Appropriations Committee, Secretary E. Claude Babcock, of the Civil Service Commission, said:

"If the reduction is due to lack of work, then a reduction of personnel would be legal; but if the reduction is due to the appropriation situation, then only furloughs would be in order."

Other Features.

The independent offices bill, to which the furlough, retirement and other economy features were attached, carried $535,568,883 in appropriations, compared with the $1,003,314,981 measure vetoed by President Hoover last session.

Other legislative features of the bill provide:

That the President may modify or cancel any contract having to do with the transportation of persons or things.

That the President may increase the charges for services or articles sold by the Government.

That the President may revise downward the rates of extra pay for flying duty in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard, so that it shall not be in excess of $1,440 a year.

Sea Pay Affected.

That graduates of Annapolis who are not commissioned shall no longer receive one year's sea pay on discharge.

That Federal pensions under private relief acts be reduced 15 per cent.

That the President be authorized to transfer $4,000,000 of Merchant Fleet Corporation funds to the Postoffice Department for meeting foreign mail contract costs.

That the Federal Trade Commission undertake no new investigation except on resolutions approved by both House and Senate.

A minority report submitted by three Republicans — Representatives Taber and Bacon, of New York, and Thurston, of Iowa—objected to giving the President power to cancel transportation contracts, insisting the same objective can be achieved by the Postmaster General under present laws.

Estimate of Cuts.

In reporting the bill, Representative Clifton A. Woodrum (Democrat), of Virginia, explained many of the cuts that will mean separation from the service of large numbers of employes.

General Accounting Office, 150 to 175 employes.

Civil Service Commission, 150.

Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, 140 to 150.

Interstate Commerce Commission (valuation), 600.

Tariff Commission, 25 to 50.

No estimates were given for other offices, all of which were seriously cut.

Budget Real Problem.

"The balancing of the budget for the next fiscal year is a tremendous problem," commented Representative Woodrum.

"This general legislation will assist in accomplishing a part of the economy program, and the appropriations committee is of the opinion that the request for its inclusion should be complied with to help toward this end."

The only reorganization proposal recommended in the Budget Bureau's draft of the bill, calling for transfer of the Botanic Gardens to the Agriculture Department, was omitted from the bill as reported by the House appropriations committee.

Attorney's Death Halts Banks' Trial

Eugene, Oreg., May 2 (A.P.).—Shocked by the unexpected death today of William S. Levens, 60, Assistant Attorney General, Circuit Judge G. F. Skipworth called an early adjournment this afternoon of the trial of Llewellyn A. Banks and his wife, Edith R. Banks, on trial for first degree murder. Levens, representing the Atotrney General's office in prosecution of Banks, died of heart attack late today.

Adjorunment was taken as soon as the jury of six men and six women had been completed after two days of questioning. Two alternates remain to be selected.

Banks and his wife are on trial for slaying Constable George Prescott, Redford, who was shot to death when he tried to serve a warrant for Banks' arrest on a charge of ballot theft, growing out of a political quarrel which split Jackson County into bitter factions.

Store Owner Shot In Maryland Crime

Robber Fires Five Times When Victim Refuses to Give Up Cash.

W. J. Giddings, proprietor of a general merchandise store at Burnt Mills, Md., was shot in the neck last night by a holdup man who escaped after firing five times at Giddings. Giddings was treated by Dr. H. H. Howlett, of Silver Spring, who said his injuries are not serious.

Giddings told Montgomery County Policemen W. H. Merson, Laurence Dixon and Joseph Nolte and Town Policeman Frank Lane that he left the store about 7 p. m. and after locking the door started to walk away when a man stepped from behind a tree and ordered him to throw up his hands.

When Giddings refused to hand over the store receipts the man began shooting. The holdup man was about 25 years old, and wore a brown hat and brown overcoat.

BONUS MARCH VIEW TO BE GIVEN TODAY

Liaison Committee Due to Confer With Howe Once More.

A committee of the veterans' national liaison committee today will confer for the second time with Col. Louis M. Howe, President Roosevelt's public affairs secretary, with the prospect of a 1933 bonus march as subject for discussion.

The same group talked more than two hours with Col. Howe Monday and left, saying they had agreed not to divulge what had transpired. They maintained this attitude last night, but indicated a statement would be made after today's meeting.

Police and Federal officials here remained dubious yesterday as to the prospect of a new bonus march. They said no advices had been received with regard to the departure for Washington of bonus-seeking groups with the exception of a vague report of the beginning of a march by several hundred men from Chicago. Relief agencies here have indicated repeatedly that they would be unable to care for any large number of bonus seekers who might come here. The agencies of national scope have appealed to branches in other cities throughout the country for help in dissuading prospective bonus marchers.

The Vincent B. Costello Post, of the American Legion, last night called upon legion posts throughout the country to discourage all proposed organized marches upon Washington by World War veterans. In its resolution the post pointed out that citizens of the District were suffering financial stringencies, and conditions here should not be made worse by the invasion of an army of unemployed veterans.

Chicago, May 2 (A.P.).—A group of 71 men gathered in a South Side freight yard today to make their way to Washington, they said, as part of a second "bonus army."

Virginia Realtor Tax Is Contested

A. J. Chewning, Jr., Files Case in Supreme Court to Avoid Payment.

(Associated Press.)

A. J. Chewning, jr., who has been engaged in the real estate business at Richmond, Va., filed in the Supreme Court today a case contesting the validity of the State law imposing an annual tax of $10 on those engaged in business as real estate brokers.

Chewning paid the $10 tax for 1931 but refused to pay it the following year. He was tried and convicted at Richmond October 3 last and fined $5.

In his appeal Chewning contends the act of the Virginia General Assembly of March, 1924, as amended March, 1926, regulating and licensing real estate brokers and real estate salesmen, creating a real estate commission and providing penalties for its violation is unconstitutional as an arbitrary exaction and repugnant to the Federal Constitution.

The Virginia Supreme Court sustained the conviction and held the law valid.

Luray Pastors Too Busy To Serve Forest Camp

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., May 2.—Ministers of Luray are kept so busy looking after the spiritual welfare of hundreds of State convicts now camped on the outskirts of this place that they have been compelled to decline holding services at the Roosevelt camp of civilian forest workers now located in the Massanutten Mountains 5 miles west of Luray.

The local ministers have declared that to attempt to conduct services at the civilian camp would mean that they would have to neglect their own churches or give up officiating at the convicts' camp, where they were engaged before the Roosevelt camp was established. The State convicts are building the Eastside highway through Luray.

Mrs. Lucy Davisson Expires of Fall Injury

Clarksburg, W. Va., May 2.—Injuries suffered when she fell down a flight of steps resulted in the death today of Mrs. Lucy Davisson, 82, widow of Scott Davisson, at the home of a daughter here.

She was a daughter of Thomas T. Payne, native of Fauquier County, Va., who settled in this section in 1839. Her husband was a merchant here for years.

Virginia to Participate In Vocation Conference

(Associated Press.)

The Virginia education department and educational leaders in the Old Dominion have indicated their intention of participating in the citizens' conference on vocational education and problems of reconstruction here Thursday and Friday.

The conference is sponsored by the American Vocational Association, the American Council on Education and the National Education Association.

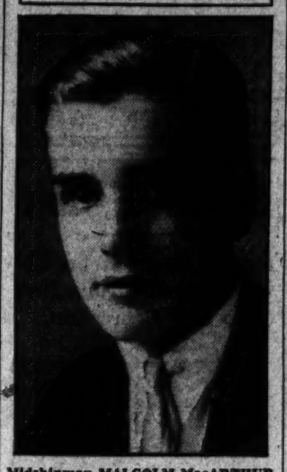
to Denmark and another as Director of the Mint. "Undoubtedly a number of women will be selected for important Government positions which they can fill as well as men," Mr. Farley said.

Meanwhile, the Senate received favorable recommendation on the nomination of J. F. T. O'Connor as Comptroller of the Treasury, and called a public hearing before taking action to confirm Robert Hayes Gore as Governor of Puerto Rico. These nominations were sent to the Senate a few days ago.

There was understood to be some objection in committee to O'Connor, but a vote resulted in the committee making a favorable report. The objection, it was said, was based on his lack of banking experience. He is a lawyer, formerly a partner of Senator McAdoo.

The hearing on Gore's nomination was set for Monday by the Insular Affairs Committee. Objections to him have been received, according to Chairman Tydings of the committee, mainly "from those who oppose him politically and want a native appointed."

RITES TODAY



Midshipman MALCOLM MacARTHUR.

HERBERT CLAUDE, 70, DIES AFTER ILLNESS

Dr. Risk was graduated from Harvard University in 1893. He practiced medicine in Providence, R. I., before coming to Washington. He was a native of Massachusetts.

Besides his wife he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Donald A. Davison, wife of Maj. Davison, former assistant Engineer Commissioner for the District, and Mrs. E. E. Barnes, wife of Lieut. Barnes.

Veteran Publisher Dies in Winchester

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., May 2.—George F. Norton, veteran Winchester publisher and hotel proprietor, died at his home here today following an illness of 10 days due to a paralytic stroke. He was in his seventieth year.

Mr. Norton was born at Lyons, N. Y., and in 1891 moved to Washington, D. C., where he was prominently connected seven years with the Government Printing Office. Leaving his Washington position, he came to Winchester where he assumed the editorship of the old Winchester News-Item. He conducted the paper until 1906, when he sold it to the Byrd interests. He continued in the printing business until 1929, when he sold out his establishment and subsequently became manager of a downtown hotel owned by himself.

Mr. Norton was a Scottish Rite Mason and Elk. The Masons will have charge of the funeral rites which are to be conducted at 3 p. m. Friday at the home here. Surviving Mr. Norton are his wife, who was formerly Miss Ella L. Greene, of New Rochelle, N. Y., and two daughters, Mrs. H. T. Cook, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., and Miss Esther Norton, at home.

"Better Off Dead," Testimony Given

Texas Murder Jury Told Mother of Invalid Child Made Remark.

Linden, Tex., May 2 (A.P.).—Testimony that the mother of Bernice Clayton, 3-year-old invalid, expressed belief the child was "better off dead" was introduced today at the murder trial of Paul Oakley, itinerant preacher, charged with choking Bernice to death while trying to "cure" her.

Mrs. O. B. Snellgrove, a farmer's wife, testified that when she went to the Clayton home last December a few hours after Bernice died the child's mother made the remark.

Oakley startled the jury of Pineywoods farmers and their friends in the small courtroom by announcing he was "Lindbergh" when asked if his name was Paul Oakley. When it came time to make a plea, the defendant cried out, "Paul Oakley was not guilty."

Japan to Bare Sword "Often as Necessary"

Tokyo (Wednesday), May 3 (U.P.).—Japan's army is "prepared to draw the sword as often as necessary" in its relations with China, War Minister Sadao Araki said today.

He denied that withdrawal of Japanese troops from the Lwan River region of China, after a successful advance, was prompted by trouble on the Manchurian-Siberian border.

MALCOLM M'ARTHUR DEAD AT ANNAPOLIS

Nephew of Chief of Staff Succumbs at Academy After Operation.

Funeral services for Midshipman Malcolm MacArthur, 18, son of Mrs. Arthur MacArthur, of 1854 Kalorama road northwest, and the late Capt. Arthur MacArthur, U. S. N., will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock with full military honors in the Naval Academy Chapel at Annapolis, followed immediately by burial in the Academy Cemetery. Capt. Frank Lash will officiate.

The Naval Academy student, a third classman, well known here, was stricken with acute appendicitis last week and operated on last Tuesday. He died yesterday morning.

He had attended the Milton Academy, Milton, Mass., and the Severn School of Annapolis, Md., in preparation for Annapolis. Pallbearers, all classmates of the midshipman, will include Midshipmen Herbert Schwab, Charles Farwell, James Renier, Patrick MacAtee, Richard McGowan, Raymond Thompson and others.

Young MacArthur was appointed to the Academy by President Hoover. As a member of the class of 1935 he had distinguished himself both in athletics and scholarships.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Arthur MacArthur; two brothers, Bowman MacArthur and Douglas MacArthur; a sister, Mary Elizabeth MacArthur, all of 1854 Kalorama road; an uncle, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Chief of Staff of the Army, and his grandmother, Mrs. Arthur MacArthur, of Fort Myer.

Loebe's Bank Account Is Seized by Hitlerites

Munich, Bavaria, May 2 (A.P.).—Nazis today seized the bank account of Paul Loebe, former president of the Reichtag, amounting to 3,000,000 marks ($750,000), and presumably consisting of funds of the Socialist party.

These funds, it was reported, were brought to Munich when it seemed that Bavaria would not be touched by the Nazi revolution.

One Dead, Second Hurt In Danish Plane Crash

Berlin, May 2 (A.P.).—A Danish night air mail plane, which left Copenhagen last night on its first flight to Hanover, crashed near Hanover early today. The pilot was killed and the mechanic severely injured.

ROLAND ACQUITTED IN BURNING OF WIFE

Capitol Heights, Md., Painter Accused of Firing Home Freed in 20 Minutes.

It took a Prince Georges County Circuit Court jury only 20 minutes yesterday to acquit Lyle C. Roland, Capitol Heights, Md., painter, who was charged with murder last November after the body of his common law wife, Margaret Hurley, was found in the remains of the partially-burned Roland home.

J. Wilson Ryon, attorney for the defendant, based his defense on the grounds that the State had not presented sufficient evidence to show that Roland had willfully set fire to the home with intent to murder the woman. State's Attorney Alan Bowie conducted the prosecution. Albert R. Hassall assisted Ryon in the defense.

Judge Joseph C. Mattingly gave the jury five possible verdicts—murder in the first degree, with or without mercy; murder in the second degree, manslaughter, or not guilty.

Dr. James I. Boyd, who pronounced the woman dead the night of the tragedy, testified that Margaret Hurley was burned while still alive.

The jury was asked to retire while the court heard the testimony of Constable Earl Blackwell, the arresting officer, and Justice of the Peace Oscar Poore, before whom Roland was previously brought for a hearing.

Poore testified that he had demanded "the whole truth" from Roland, and had "offered to help him in any way he could rightfully do so." Blackwell testified that Roland had told him he last saw the woman when she left his car and went into the house shortly before the fire. A confession, alleged to have been signed by Roland, was not allowed as evidence in the court.

Irving Main, chief of the Seat Pleasant Fire Department, and Harry S. Ball, Roland J. Carrack and Paul Fowler, firemen, testified they found Roland in the yard of the home when they arrived.

Margaret Hurley was found in the partially destroyed Roland home in Capitol Heights about 8 p. m. last November 21, where they had been living as man and wife for several months. The body was wedged in a small closet on the second floor under the overhanging roof, where it is believed the woman took refuge from the flames.

Alienation Damage Granted Divorcee

Former Wife of Pastor Wins Verdict Against Parishioner.

Omaha, May 2 (A.P.).—A district court jury today awarded Mrs. Iva Baltzly, 59, of Long Beach, Calif., $12,500 in her $50,000 alienation of affections suit against Miss Gertrude Gruenig, 39, of Omaha. Mrs. Baltzly is the divorced wife of the Rev. Oliver D. Baltzly, 61-year-old former pastor of a fashionable Omaha church.

The jury retired last night without a verdict in two hours, but the first ballot today was unanimous.

Witnesses for Mrs. Baltzly testified they had seen the pastor and Miss Gruenig, a parishioner, holding hands, kissing and embracing on several occasions. Both Dr. Baltzly and the defendant took the stand to deny that any other affection than platonic existed between them. Dr. Baltzly obtained an Arkansas divorce in 1931 on grounds of desertion.

Arlington Starts Power Line Plan

Civic Federation Chooses Committee to Obtain Petition Names.

The Arlington County Civic Federation, meeting last night, appointed a special committee to consider ways and means to obtain signatures to petitions requesting the Potomac Electric Power Co. to consider extending its lines throughout Arlington County.

PROSECUTOR READY TO ARREST MILITIA

Cherokee County, Iowa, Is Quiet and Troops Are Told to Keep Out.

Le Mars, Iowa, May 2 (A.P.).—A deft to the militia patrolling two sections of western Iowa following last week's farm rioting came late today from the Cherokee County prosecutor.

County Attorney James Smith at Cherokee, who said he had received reports the troops stationed here were planning to send details into his jurisdiction in search of alleged offenders, announced that if such steps were taken the Iowa National Guardsmen would be arrested and charged with violence.

The Smith declaration asserted there had been no trouble in Cherokee County and consequently, he said, the troops "will have no more authority there than ordinary citizens."

Meanwhile, organization of a military council to prepare the cases of the hundred-odd farmers arrested by Guardsmen in connection with the riots proceeded. The council, headed by Maj. L. Dee Mallonee, of Audubon, with three other National Guard officers as members, is to be assisted by Judge Advocate Frank B. Hallagan, acting as special prosecutor for the State attorney general.

The body in addition to investigating the so-called farm revolt cases will act as the court throughout the area occupied by the troops during the period of martial law.

Pastor Leads Farmers To Save Ill Man's Home

Fergus Falls, Minn., May 2 (A.P.).—A pastor led 300 farmers today in preventing foreclosure sale of a farm belonging to a man ill in bed.

Acquiescing to the demands of the crowd, led by the Rev. John Flint, of the Underwood (Minn.) Unitarian Church, and made up chiefly of Farmers Holiday Association members, Coroner J. L. Curtis postponed the sale for 30 days.

Damascus, Md., Bank Returns to Full Basis

The Bank of Damascus, Md., which has been operating on a 2 per cent withdrawal basis since resumption of business following the banking holiday, yesterday returned to a 100 per cent basis.

The board of directors had taken care of all items which the State bank examiner took exception to without calling on the stockholders or depositors to put up any additional funds, William R. DeLashmutt, president, announced yesterday.

CITIES SECURITIES STOCK LOSS BARED

Dr. Mitchell Says Arkansas Gas Operations Cost Parent $5,819,920.63.

(Associated Press.)

Testimony that the Cities Service Securities Co. suffered a gross loss of $5,819,920.63 in marketing operations "sustaining the market price of the voting common stock" of the Arkansas Natural Gas Corporation in 1929 and 1930 was given before the Federal Trade Commission yesterday by Dr. William D. Mitchell, a commission examiner.

Mitchell's testimony was given at the final session in the investigation of the affairs of the Securities company, a subsidiary of the Cities Service Co., both of which are in the Henry L. Doherty group of utilities. The Arkansas company is a subsidiary of the Securities company.

Mitchell sand the Securities company purchased and resold for the benefit of the class "A" Arkansas company common stock 505,143 of the voting shares.

Explains Operations.

"As the new class 'A' common stock," Mitchell said, "was equal in all respects to the voting common stock, except as to voting powers, 'supervising the market' for the class 'A' common stock would naturally include such operations in the voting common stock as were necessary to sustain its market price.

"It is remarkable that it (the Securities company) purchased those shares at an aggregate cost of nearly $11,786,000 and sold them at aggregate proceeds of a little less than $5,966,000, thereby sustaining a gross loss on the purchase and resale of those shares amounting to $5,819,920.63."

A gross profit on all stock of the Arkansas Corporation handled by the Securities company of $3,886,603.12 was included by Mitchell by combining the gross profit on the class "A" sales and the gross loss on the voting common.

Utilities Lawyer Present.

After accounting for losses from uncollectibility on the Arkansas class "A" and syndicate commissions and expenses, Mitchell said the net lose to the Securities company in the operations was $1,551,626.31. The amount was charged back against the Arkansas Natural Gas Corporation, which for the 2,500,000 class "A" shares sold in the operation received a net return of $21,448,373.69, Mitchell said.

Robert Burns, general counsel of the Cities Service Co., who attended the hearings on behalf of the utilities, remarked that the sum charged against the Arkansas corporation was "actually" the cost of marketing the shares at a rate of approximately 60 cents a share. He added that even this sum would not have been necessary had not the stock market crash interrupted the normal course of the sale.

C. L. AIELLO HEADS HOLY NAME BODIES

Hyattsville Lawyer Chosen President at Election in Emmitsburg.

Caesar L. Aiello, of Hyattsville, Md., was elected president of the Baltimore Archdiocesan Union of Holy Name Societies at the annual meeting of the union yesterday at Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md. More than 600 delegates, representing 41,232 men in western and southern Maryland, Baltimore and Washington, were present.

Mr. Aiello, who maintains a law office in the Hibbs Building here, has been active in Holy Name work for many years. He was for several years president of the organization connected with St. Jerome's Church, Hyattsville, and during 1930-1931 he served as president of the Washington section. During his administration Mr. Aiello was instrumental in reviving several delinquent parish groups, adding to the total membership. Mr. Aiello was succeeded in the local organization by William Joseph Neale, who is its present president.

The Holy Name Society of Washington and vicinity has been invited to attend the May Day celebration at the Catholic University of America Sunday at 4 p. m.

Virginia Gasoline Tax Yields $10,809,600

(Associated Press.)

Virginia's 5-cent per gallon gasoline tax yielded $10,809,600 in 1932.

An Agriculture Department report yesterday showed that total tax was paid in the Old Dominion on 216,191,996 gallons. Gas consumption in the State decreased 5.6 per cent.

Admiral Rossiter To Be Club Guest

Surgeon General of Navy Will Attend Dinner for Alumni.

Rear Admiral Percival Rossiter, surgeon general of the Navy, will be the guest of honor at a dinner to be given by the Old Line Club of Washington, composed of alumni of the University of Maryland, at the University Club tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Admiral Rossiter was graduated from the University of Maryland Medical School in the class of 1895.

Dr. Raymond Pearson, president of the University of Maryland, and other officials from the College Park and Baltimore branches of the university, will be present.

Dr. A. W. Valentine, Dr. Noble P. Barnes, Wellstood White and George F. Pollock composed the committee on arrangements.

BETTER CONDITIONS SOUGHT BY ALUMNI

from police is expected. The White House has indicated entrance to the Executive Offices will be permitted, but whether the President himself will greet the group had not been decided last night.

Both Houses of Congress will be memorialized by the group during a day of activity mapped out yesterday at a quietly intensive series of conferences.

If time permits the collegiates will also visit the Department of Labor to present to Secretary Perkins the program they suggest for a solution of their difficulties and for the improvement of education.

The collegiate protestants arrived yesterday by train, bus, private car and via the "thumb" hike route. Their headquarters were established at the Y. W. C. A. Hall, Seventeenth and K streets northwest, where a large and comfortable assembly room was allotted them.

All appeared to have sufficient funds to tide them over their visit to the National Capital. Though presenting a considerably more dignified and orderly appearance than previous hunger, unemployed and bonus marchers, the group generally maintained they were "just as militant."

Lash was formally named chairman by the group yesterday, and John J. Barnes, vice chairman. Barnes is a Washington State College alumnus and came all the way from Berkeley, Calif., to join in the "white collar" march.

The discoursive dignity of a college classroom was apparent yesterday as the collegiates mapped their demands and planned their program.

Meeting in a large room supplied with comfortable wicker chairs, many of the conferees puffed at campus type pipes. All the men were dressed with the quiet care of the studious type of college man. The women were modishly attired, their taste generally touching the sports style.

Among colleges represented are Columbia, City College of New York, Brooklyn Law College, Fordham University and New York University, Hunter College, all New York institutions; Stanford University, George Washington University, University of Kentucky, Ohio State University, Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College, Harvard, Dartmouth, Drexel Institute, Pace Institute of Accounting, and Syracuse University.

Most of the group are teachers and this is believed to account for their outstanding demand for betterment of educational conditions. There are several Ph. D.'s, several lawyers, several engineers and one or two each of other professional groups.

Three of the delegation are undergraduates from Hunter College, of New York, one of the world's largest universities for women. These young women are seniors and say they represent the views of Hunter College Self-Government Association.

Last night the delegates heard several noted Washington speakers on current economic problems, stressing the situation of the college man.

Among the speakers were Leifur Magnussen, president of the Monday Evening Club and a member of the League of Nations' International Labor Committee; Louis Lorwin, of the Brookings Institution, and Dr. A. C. C. Hill.

Lorwin told the group that revolutions followed an evolutionary economic period. Citing the Bolshevik revolution in Russia and the Hitler rise to power, he declared the Roosevelt regime represents a revolution "although few realize it."

R. F. Green Heads Bank at Rockville

Kensington Branch Cashier Is Elected to Succeed Senator Hilton.

Richard F. Green, cashier of the Kensington branch and who has been acting as executive officer, has been elected president of the Farmers Banking & Trust Co., of Rockville, Md., it was announced yesterday. He succeeds State Senator Robert G. Hilton, who asked to be relieved of the arduous duties because of ill health. Senator Hilton remains as chairman of the board of directors and secretary and will continue to have offices at the bank.

Mr. Green was nominated by Senator Hilton. The board of directors adopted a resolution commending Senator Hilton for excellent service throughout his long connection with the bank. Other officers elected were: Albert M. Boulc, first vice president; Thomas W. Perry, second vice president; Maj. E. Brooke Lee, third vice president; F. Bache Abert, treasurer, and J. Hampton Jones, assistant secretary.

ADVENTISTS START $2,000,000 DRIVE

World-Wide Campaign Is Launched at Session in Takoma Park.

A world-wide campaign to increase by $2,000,000 the Seventh Day Adventist membership fund was inaugurated yesterday following a heated discussion among prominent leaders of the denomination at their annual spring council at Takoma Park.

The Rev. A. G. Daniells, of Loma Linda, Calif., president of the general conference and now head of the managing board of the College of Medical Evangelists, urged leaders in every general conference, union and local conference to arouse their constituents to aid the denomination in the most perplexing period of its history.

It was recommended that special seasons of prayer be held in all churches, that all goals adopted by the denomination be met, and that the missionary work abroad not only be held intact but that financial assistance be given to aid in carrying the advent message to every nation on earth.

A special effort is to be made to secure 100 per cent of the membership of the denomination at the Sabbath-school exercises. It was stated that 20 per cent of the membership fails to attend.

To aid health programs being promoted on the Pacific Coast, a request was presented to leaders of the council to publish a journal in which health would be discussed.

100 Chinese Slain By Mohammedans

Massacre Follows Rebels' Capture of Eastern Turkestan City.

Peiping, May 2 (A.P.).—One hundred Chinese were slaughtered when Mohammedan rebels captured Yarkand, an ancient city of 60,000 population in the East Turkestan Province of Sinkiang, foreign dispatches from Kashgar said today.

All foreigners in Yarkand, including Swedish missionaries, were believed to have escaped safely.

The incident was one of many similar ones in the long-continuing civil war between Chinese and Mohammedans. According to reports reaching Peiping the Mohammedans have occupied the western portion of Sinkiang.

Governor Explains Shenandoah Delay

Pollard Says Tardiness in Acquiring Park Is in Circuit Courts.

Richmond, Va., May 2 (A.P.).—Gov Pollard today said delays in the Shenandoah National Park proceedings were in the circuit courts in the region, and were not due to departmental tardiness.

Commenting on a few complaints that have come to him, the governor said the land acquisition details all are in the hands of the circuit courts having jurisdiction over the park area. He said the conservation and development commission has reported that 160,000 acres of the area have been acquired and that exceptions and answers in the case of 20,000 acres now in litigation are before the courts.

As soon as all of the exceptions to the condemnation awards are acted upon by the courts, the entire area will be taken over and the money deposited to compensate the land owners.

Masquerading Thieves Rob Milk-Fund Party

Denver, Colo., May 2 (A.P.).—All the peasant-garbed masqueraders who danced, 250 strong, at the Paul T. Mayo home here Saturday did not come to contribute to the Katherine Mayo Milk Fund, which was the purpose of the ball.

Police learned today that four or six of those who, disguised as Bavarian peasants, frolicked with the socially elite, made off with valuable cases, table ornaments, a horse show trophy and an expensive bag containing valuable articles belonging to one of the legitimate guests.

DR. NELSON FAVORS TENNESSEE PROJECT

Virginia University Geologist Backs Roosevelt Plan to Develop Basin.

The President's program for development of the Tennessee River basin finds ardent support in Dr. Wilbur A. Nelson, Corcoran professor of geology at the University of Virginia. Under his direction, first reports on the possibility of such a project were made in 1918.

Then State geologist of Tennessee, Dr. Nelson, became greatly interested in development of the Tennessee Valley and spent much of his time in preparing first reports which led to drafting of the present bill now before Congress.

Dr. Nelson is in Washington to attend sessions of the United States Chamber of Commerce. He is candidate for election to the chamber as director of the Department of Natural Resources Production. Interviewed in his suite at the Washington Hotel last night, Dr. Nelson said he saw no reason why the President's program should not be successful.

"The entire Tennessee River Basin could be developed as a whole," he declared, "rather than power plants distributed here and there throughout the valley. Photographic maps of the entire region, taken from a high altitude, would greatly aid in planning the project."

Dr. Nelson is author of numerous scientific papers and is a member of the Association of American State Geologists.

SECURITIES CONTROL BILL TO HOUSE TODAY

inaccurate, the commission may hold up the issue for a hearing of its promoters or issuers.

Striking out the revocation provisions "the commission is hereby empowered to make an examination in any case, in order to determine whether a stop order should be issued," the new draft reads in part.

Other important features of the revised measure include:

Prohibits any interstate transportation of securities not registered with the commission.

Requires registration to be accompanied by the signatures of a majority of the board of directors, principal executive and financial officers; comptroller, accounting officers, or by a majority of the managing board—all of them to be held accountable individually and collectively for civil action by purchasers in the event of sale through fraudulent or untrue statements.

Good Faith Deposits.

Stipulates that in case of foreign or territorial securities, the principal United States representative and underwriters shall sign the registration.

Requires that postal money orders or certified bank checks amounting to 1-100 of 1 per cent of the total value of the issue must accompany registration.

Provides that any person aggrieved by a commission stop order may obtain a review before the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, but that during appeal the stop order will remain in effect.

Stipulates that prospectuses on domestic and foreign issues must be filed with the commission and must contain the registration information and such other information as the commission requires. This applies to advertising of securities through any means of communication.

The new draft declares that it is unlawful to make or cause to be made to any prospective purchaser any representation that registration with the commission means that the commission "has in any way passed upon the merits of or given approval to, such security."

The commission is given power to make rules and regulations, prescribe forms of information and power to investigate, subpena witnesses and the right to obtain injunctions in Federal courts against violaters of stop orders.

It is unlawful for any person in sale of securities in any means of interstate communication to "employ any device, scheme or artifice to defraud, or to obtain money or property by any means or any untrue statement of, or omissions to state a material fact" or in any way to cause fraud upon a purchaser.

NORTHEAST SAVINGS STOCK SALE PUSHED

North Capitol Bank, Which Closed Last Year, Pays $35,000.

More than 75 per cent of the new stock needed to reopen the Northeast Savings Bank has been subscribed, it was announced yesterday by G. F. Hoover, conservator for the bank. The sale of 10,000 shares will provide the needed capital, and more than 7,500 have already been absorbed.

The conservator of another closed bank, the Potomac Savings Bank, yesterday called on Walter J. Cummings, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, but declined to say what he talked about. The conservator, George W. Offutt, is also president of the institution.

At the North Capitol Savings Bank, which closed last year, between 1,100 and 1,200 patrons yesterday received a percentage of their deposits. From $35,000 to $40,000 was paid out, it was estimated by Receiver John S. Bryan.

The Departmental Bank remained open last night until after 9 o'clock. W. B. Allman, receiver, declared that more than 800 patrons were accommodated. He was unable to reveal the exact amount of money released to depositors.

More Luray Farmers Seeking Seed Loans

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., May 2.—Seventy-seven more farmers of Page County this year have made applications for seed loans from the Federal Government than last year. The borrowing farmers are contenting themselves with the minimum amount—$25—that the Federal Government will advance for putting out their 1933 crops.

J. D. Moore, of the Federal Seed Loan Department, and G. H. Clark, local county agricultural agent, have prepared 92 applications of farmers who want help. Last year only fifteen farmers made similar applications.

79 BEER DEALERS FILE SALE REPORT

Russell Warns 1,478 Still Out to Submit Figures and Taxes at Once.

Seventy-nine more holders of temporary permits yesterday reported sales of 700 barrels of beer during April in returns filed with the District tax assessor. This brings the total reports to 122 out of 1,600, and the revenue at $1 a barrel to $1,220.

Deputy Assessor Charles A. Russell issued a warning to all licensees not to delay the filing of reports, as all municipal beverages taxes must be paid by the tenth of the month. He announced that free notary service is being provided at the assessors' office.

The Beverage Permits Board yesterday began an investigation of the sponsor of a beer advertisement in an afternoon newspaper. The advertiser, who offered beer for sale both on the premises and to take out, has no license, records show. Moreover, no licensee is permitted to engage in off-sale and on-sale business at the same place.

The board yesterday afternoon was assured by Engineer Commissioner Gotwals and Auditor Daniel J. Donovan that four or a half dozen District employes would be temporarily assigned to aid in the inspection of the places of business of temporary licensees, preparatory to the issuance of annual permits.

The Police Department has already made some inspection and will continue to assist in the work. The board plans to make a tour of many of the establishments selling beer for consumption on the premises. A careful check also will be made of drug stores which have off-sale permits to see that they are not selling the beverage for immediate consumption.

LEGION'S CARNIVAL WILL OPEN TODAY

Costello Post to Sponsor Midway Which Features Daring Girl Diver.

A carnival, described as the largest ever presented in Washington, will open today on the show grounds at Wisconsin avenue and Thirty-fourth street northwest, under the sponsorship of Vincent Costello Post of the American Legion. It will continue for 10 days.

The big free feature attraction will be Beatrice Kyle, champion girl high diver, who turns a complete somersault in midair with her clothing ignited, and dives into a blazing tank of gasoline. This act will be presented twice daily.

On Friday night, May 12, a feature, the Hollywood Public Wedding, will be presented, with an appropriate setting, attendants, flowers, decorations and music. Any couples desiring to be married at that time are asked to apply at the carnival office.

Various other features, stunts and contests will be interspersed with the regular events during the 10-day stand.

NADOLNY PROPOSES LIMIT TO GUN SIZES

German Delegate Also for Abolition of Tanks to Show Good Faith.

Geneva, Switzerland, May 2 (A.P.). Germany through her delegate to the world disarmament conference today disavowed the "opinion that Germany wishes to avail herself of disarmament to proceed with rearmament at the highest possible level."

Count Rudolf Nadolny, the German representative, proposed the British arms plan be changed to provide a maximum caliber of 105 millimeters for mobile guns and to abolish all tanks.

"There are still great difficulties, but they are not insuperable," Count Nadolny declared after suggesting the amendment and explaining that if the German proposals are rejected his nation should be allowed all land, naval and air armaments deemed necessary for defense by other countries.

"The German government has sufficiently proved its good will," he continued.

After praising the attitude of President Roosevelt and Norman H. Davis, special American envoy to Europe, regarding conciliation of conflicting viewpoints on disarmament, Count Nadolny said:

"We have accepted in principle the period of transition for the practical realization of full equality rights for Germany.

"This proves there is absolutely no foundation for the opinion that Germany wishes to avail herself of disarmament to proceed with her own rearmament at the highest possible level. The contrary is the case."

Political Conventions Pay Profit to Chicago

Chicago, May 2 (A.P.).—A final auditor's report today disclosed that the two major political conventions of 1932 were held in Chicago with a "profit" of $12,497.

That amount, the balance after payment of all bills, was refunded on a basis of 4.44 per cent to citizens and business houses who contributed $281,899 to bring the conventions here.

Rome and Naples Get Unclean Rain

Mud and Ashes Shower Ruins Clothes of Population.

Rome, May 2 (A.P.).—Showers of mud and ashes caused inhabitants of Rome and Naples and the intervening country to scurry for cover this afternoon.

Pedestrians and automobiles caught in the 10-minute downpour in the capital acquired a coating of a yellowish, watery mixture. In Naples, dry yellow ashes rained on the city.

Scientists disagreed as to possible explanations. Director Alessandro Malladra, of the Vesuvius Observatory, said a heavy wind caught up ashes from the volcano and distributed them over a wide area. Scientists in Rome offered the explanation that the mud shower was caused by a wind from Africa bringing with it sand mixed with water.

Argentine-British Pact Seen U. S. Trade Blow

London, May 2 (A.P.).—American commercial circles in London tonight feared a further diminishing of the dwindling American export trade as the consequence of an Anglo-Argentine trade treaty.

In return for mutual treatment as a member of the British Empire for Argentine meat products, Argentina, under the terms of the treaty published tonight, has given exchange and import concessions which are likely to be a great aid to English interests and perhaps hurtful to American interests.

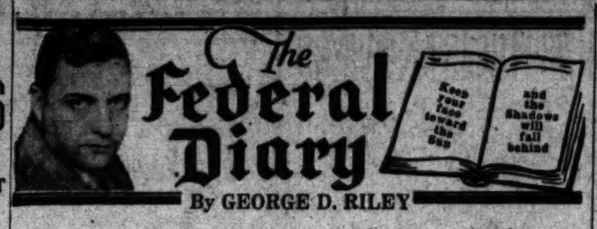
Capital Woman Gets Sister's Body

Virginia Morris, Victim of Plunge in New York, Listed as Suicide.

New York, May 2 (A.P.).—The body of Miss Virginia Morris, 32, was claimed at the morgue today by her sister, Mrs. Hoyt P. Hutchinson, with whom she lived at 819 Somerset place northwest, Washington, D. C.

An autopsy performed by Acting Chief Medical Examiner Thomas A. Gonzales showed that Miss Morris died from a skull fracture suffered when she plunged yesterday from an eighth floor room she had occupied for the week-end in the Hotel Peter Stuyvesant, 2 West Eighty-sixth street.

Police listed it as a case of suicide, but Mrs. Hutchinson expressed the belief that her sister did not jump from the window.



BECKY (AND BECKY ONLY).

BEHOLD a Government worker who cares not an atom whether the dollar is debased or whether Federal salaries are cut 15 or 115 per cent. So long as the old feed bag contains the regular allowance of oats each day, cafeteria prices may soar mountain high for all our Becky cares.

Becky, we may say, cuts Government grass for her living. If she could speak the language of mankind she might credit the Superintendent of Public Buildings and Public Parks with responsibility for ordering out the garden mower each spring and ordering it back each fall, but let it never be said that the superintendent does the work. From April to October, with patience unbelievable, Becky plies up and down the Mall, dragging her ponderous mower behind her.

So if you are ever stirred with natural pride over the appearance of the grass round about the museums, just pay your respects to Becky, a Government mule.

Becky occupies the unique job of combining the machine age, the human element (the driver) and the fast-passing mule days. Almost any day now and until Jack Frost plays pranks you can see Becky making hay while the sun shines.

Remember also that Becky provides employment for two fast-fading industries—harness-making and horse-shoe-making. She is an aid to the agricultural industry, too, for she eats oats—not rolled, mind you—just oats. Oh, for the care-free life of Becky—no mortgage payments, no house rent, no fixed charges, no insurance premiums, no car fare, no furniture bills on the excitement plan, no autos, no card party prizes, no beer tax, no poll tax, no gasoline tax. They speak of the life of Riley. What of the life of Becky?

THE Federal Diary's first annual golf tournament May 25 at Indian Spring will start about 8 a. m. Since all entrants are Federal employes, some may wish to conserve as much leave as possible and only be away from their offices part of the day, J. Leland Acuff, general chairman, said last night.

Therefore, the committee will try to accommodate as far as possible any who will write to the Federal Diary and indicate their preference as to starting time. It is believed that all entrants will have teed off by 1 p. m. Starting time of each entrant will be published in The Federal Diary before May 25. Meanwhile, the handicap committee asks that all handicap information, score cards, three or four, attested by another player, be sent along by May 12.

GREEN ASKS 5-DAY GOVERNMENT WEEK

Council Requests President to Back Legislature to Halt Pay Cuts.

Urging that Government workers be put on a 5-day week without salary reduction and that Government wage cuts cease, President William Green and the executive council of the American Federation of Labor yesterday called on President Roosevelt. At the close of the conference Mr. Green said:

"The council requested the President to initiate and support legislation providing for the application of the 5-day work week to Government employes without reduction in pay. Such action would offset to a very great degree the ill effect which followed the imposition of the reduction in salaries and wages upon Government employes.

"The council expressed grave apprehension over the economic and social effect which the wage reduction policy pursued by both the Government and private industry, is having upon the lives and the minds of laboring people everywhere. The council expressed the opinion that the time had come when a halt should immediately be called to the imposition of wage reductions and instead wage increases must be inaugurated in order to avoid a further decline in buying power which might result from a currency inflation."

Mr. Green said he was still hopeful that the Black 30-hour week bill would pass at this session, but that events of the last few days had made him apprehensive. The council also told the President they favored appointment of a labor representative on the American delegation to the economic conference in London in June.

The council also recommended to the President a $5,000,000,000 public works program, legislation to stabilize the coal industry, and railroad legislation which will not cause wholesale dismissal of rail employes.

Two Fugitives Caught With Warden's Machine

Hartford, Conn., May 2 (A.P.).—Two prison trustees, a man and a woman, who escaped from State Prison at Jackson, Mich., last Saturday night in an automobile stolen from the warden's garage, were arrested here edrly today.

The woman posed as the warden's daughter and the man as the warden's chauffeur. They told Hartford police they were "on a tour through the East."

Mahatma Disciple Forgoes Fast Idea

Dr. Margaret Spiegel Ends Plan After Five-Minute Talk With Gandhi.

Poona, India, May 2 (A.P.).—Dr. Margaret Spiegel, a young disciple of the Mahatma Gandhi, who yesterday announced the intention of joining the aged leader in his coming three weeks' fast, abandoned such a plan today. Her decision followed a five-minute talk with the mahatma, who insists he will begin a fast in protest against untouchability May 8, even though doctors say it may be fatal.

Dr. Spiegel, a Jewess, who fled from Germany on the accession of Chancellor Adolf Hitler to power, probably will follow another of the mahatma's disciples, Miss Nila Cram Crook, to Gandhi's home in accordance with his desire.

Dr. Spiegel, announcing that she would try to force Gandhi to give up his plan, yesterday encamped outside Yeroda Jail where the leader is imprisoned.

Pershing Visits Fair En Route to Capital

Chicago, May 2 (A.P.).—Gen. John J. Pershing visited the Century of Progress Exposition today. Forty years ago, as a young cavalry officer, he served as a guard at the Columbian Exposition of 1893 a few miles south of the present fair.

"I'm amazed at the new exhibits and the grounds," Pershing said. "I'll return some time after the opening June 1, if my health permits." Pershing was en route to Washington from Lincoln, Nebr., where he recovered from a recent illness.

Two Aviators Survive After Striking House

Norfolk, Va., May 2 (A.P.).—C. O. Smith, pilot, and William Holland, mechanic, narrowly escaped death or serious injury when an airplane piloted by Smith, crashed into the top of the home of Mrs. George Christopoulos at Chesapeake Beach early today.

Smith was knocked unconscious when the plane crashed through the roof of the Christopoulos home its splintered propeller coming to rest almost against a bed in one of the rooms of the upper floor.

Argentine President Ends State of Siege

Buenos Aires, May 2 (A.P.).—President Augustin P. Justo today issued a decree lifting the state of siege which has been in force throughout the country since December 19, 1932, as the result of radical plots.

The Justo administration will give Argentina the second try in fifteen months at normal government when congress reassembles tomorrow. It was dissolved last December upon the suspension of consitutional guarantees.

New York Bill Denies Common-Law Marriage

Albany, N. Y., May 2 (A.P.).—A bill ending common-law marriages in New York State was signed today by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman.

No common-law marriage after the signing of the act can be recognized by New York courts under the bill which amends the domestic relations statutes, so that no marriage is valid unless duly solemnized.

KELVINATOR—THE Biggest Thing in 1933 REFRIGERATION

NEWS! we maintain the price of $98

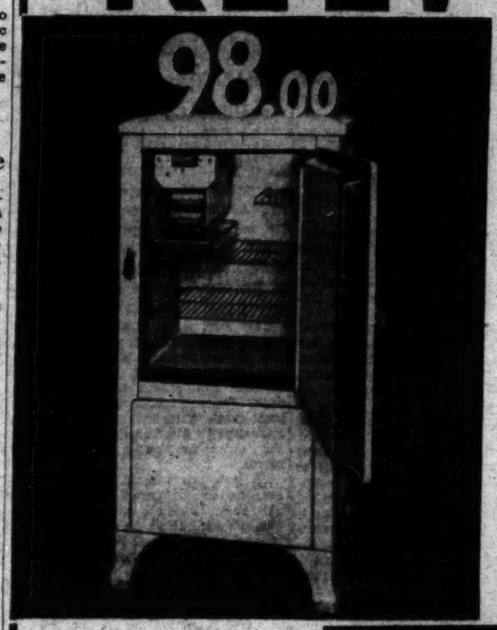
$98 ON THE MODEL R-42

KELVINATOR



We've advertised that the price might GO UP after May 1st, because we anticipated the necessity of paying MORE than earlier for the high quality materials used to manufacture the low-priced Model R-42 . . . and in ALL standard Kelvinators. Millions of homes have Kelvinators . . . millions of people work when Kelvinators are made and sold . . . and so buying power prevailed . . . and THE MODEL R-42 CONTINUES TO OFFER YOU A MECHANICALLY PERFECT . . . CORRECTLY BALANCED . . . FULL SIZED . . . FULL-POWERED KELVINATOR FOR ONLY $98.

QUICK MECHANICAL FACTS ABOUT THIS FULL-sized FULL-powered MODEL R--42

3 Generous Sized Food Storage Shelves.
4.18 Cubic Feet Actual Food Storage Space.
2 Freezing Trays, Giving 42 Ice Cubes per Freezing.

RIGHT $126.50

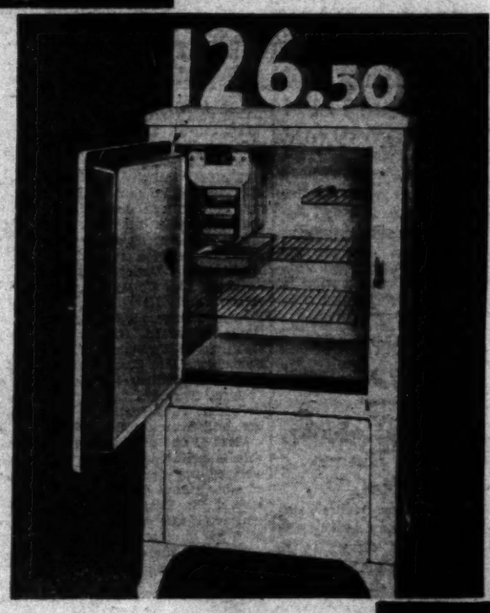
4 Shelves with 10.41 Square Feet of Area.

5.16 Cubic Feet of Actual Food Storage Space Guaranteed.

3 Freezing Trays giving 63 Ice Cubes per Freezing—5.1 pounds.

AT THE SENSATIONALLY LOW PRICE OF ONLY $126.50.

See this model . . . note its advantages. THEN you will agree that it's the biggest thing in 1933 Refrigeration!



DON'T WAIT

This beautiful model is a standard 1933 Kelvinator. Not a new model built to meet a cheap price! The power plant is a standard Kelvinator unit—the same as used in larger, more expensive models. NOT undersized . . . it DOES NOT run ALL THE TIME to hold low temperatures. But only about a THIRD of the time—like all the other Kelvinator models. HERE IS lower price, lower upkeep, longer life, greater economy, a leader by every standard of judgment. DON'T WAIT . . . for we have no definite indication HOW MUCH LONGER we can keep this model R-42 UNDER A HUNDRED DOLLARS.

—AND STILL ANOTHER 1933 KELVINATOR UNDER $150

It's really remarkable! That we can offer three beautiful models—every one a full-sized, full-powered 1933 Kelvinator for less than $150! The Model R-53 ($126.50) pictured and described above brings to you one of the finest values the industry of QUALITY electrical refrigeration has ever produced! Or if your refrigeration requirements are greater still, the Model R-64 ($149.00) pictured at the right gives you larger space, more convenient food storage arrangement AND YET KEEPS WITHIN THE BUDGET OF THOUSANDS OF AMERICAN HOMES! The Model R-64 features Kelvinator's Keep-Cold Defroster (refrigeration while defrosting—no melting of ice cubes), 4 shelves, 13.25 square feet of space, 6.37 cubic feet food storage, 3 freezing trays giving 63 cubes . . . AND ONLY $149. See these models—then decide!

AX FALLS HEAVILY AT NAVAL ACADEMY

More Than Two Score Civilian Instructors Must Quit; Others to Go.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 2.—The economy ax which has been hovering over the Naval Academy for some time fell heavily today when it was learned that Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent, had served notice on more than two score civilian instructors of midshipmen that their services will be dispensed with July 1. Recent mandates from Washington, caused the action, it is said.

The group includes coaches of four athletic teams of midshipmen, who, rated as instructors in the department of physical training, received about 40 per cent of their pay from Government funds appropriated for the academy, the other 60 per cent coming from the treasury of the Navy Athletic Association. The jobs of these, however, are not in jeopardy, as it is stated their services will be continued and the athletic body will make up the difference.

Coaches Indirectly Affected.

In the academic departments, the instructors who have been given notice include men with service ranging from 4 to 20 years or more. The list it is said, includes the thirteen upon whom such notice was served several months ago, but whose status was thought to have been satisfactorily adjusted by intervention of Congress in including in the appropriations for the academy funds to carry them along at least for another year. This group waged an energetic campaign to save their jobs, and apparently felt secure when their plea received congressional favor.

More Pressure Elsewhere.

Meantime, however, additional pressure was put on the Government's retrenchment plan, and academy authorities were advised to further cut down. Admiral Hart has made no formal statement in the premises, but it is understood he maintains the view, as originally, that it, that with the decreased number of midshipmen, the academy can go along with fewer civilian teachers.

The economy program is to be extended even further, it also was learned today, in that the force of other civilian personnel at the academy is to be cut 10 per cent or more.

Henrico Officials Back Todd Record

Supervisors Throw Out Andrews Report of County Shortage.

Richmond, Va., May 2 (A.P.).—The Henrico County board of supervisors today unanimously rejected the State auditor's report of the county's finances, asserting it was "inaccurate and incomplete."

Before action on the auditor's report, submitted by T. Coleman Andrews, before his retirement, the board heard a report by Commonwealth's Attorney Harold M. Ratcliffe and Robert E. Scott, which said that charges against Treasurer Thomas J. Todd did not involve moral turpitude, and since the county had not suffered from the alleged technical shortages in the treasurer's accounts, he did not think a criminal prosecution was warranted.

The charges in the Andrews report resulted in an order by the governor to the attorney general of the State to instigate ouster proceedings against Todd. The move is still pending.

Arlington Women For Appeal Action

Resolution Urges Plea to Pollard to Call Extra Assembly Session.

The Arlington County Woman's Democratic Club last night at Clarendon indorsed a resolution offered by Mrs. Crandal Mackey, directing the secretary to write Gov. John Garland Pollard urging the holding of a special session of the General Assembly to set up machinery for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The club called upon all Arlington County Democrats to see to it that their poll taxes are paid on or before Saturday, in order that they can vote in the primary in August and at the general election in November.

County Treasurer Charles T. Jesse announces his office is open every day until 4:30 p. m., excepting Saturday, when it closes at 1 p. m.

FOUR STATES RALLY FROM WIND ATTACK

Spasmodic Tornadoes Said to Have Caused Loss Above $2,000,000.

(Associated Press.)

Spasmodic tornadoes that hopped about crazily from Louisiana to Illinois during a two-day assault on the Mississippi Valley left at least 63 dead in their paths, more than 500 injured and property damage in excess of $2,000,000.

The winds got a running start in the Mississippi Delta Sunday and for 24 hours wove a weird pattern of destruction in scattered sections from Minden, La., to northwest Illinois.

The toll by States:

Louisiana	41
Arkansas	10
Mississippi	7
Illinois	5

Sunday's tornadoes were comparatively mild and were confined to the Mississippi and Arkansas deltas. Eight were killed—seven in Mississippi and one in Arkansas. But Monday, the winds renewed the attack and jumped about from Minden, where at least 35 were killed, to Morrison, Ill. Even Chicago felt fitful gusts of the storm.

Minden bore the brunt of the disaster. The injured were taken to Shreveport in ambulances and trains. Many were treated in temporary hospitals at Minden.

BANK IN CHERRYDALE WILL SEEK CHARTER

Depositors Hope to Open in 30 Days With Approval of Commission.

The committee representing depositors of the Peoples State Bank of Cherrydale, Va., which since March 2 has been operating on a 5 per cent basis, at a meeting last night at the bank unanimously decided to apply to the State Corporation Commission for a charter in the name of the Old Dominion Bank of Arlington County. It is expected by the committee to have the new institution in operation in 30 days.

A subcommittee, George F. Cook, William W. Livingston and Walter U. Varney, interviewed State Corporation Commissioner M. Bristow at Richmond, Va., yesterday, and reported steps taken by the committee for the reorganization received the approval of the commissioner.

Walter U. Varney has been named attorney to represent the depositors.

Three Candidates to Run For Governor of Virginia

Smith, Peery and Deal in Race as Democratic Filing Closes and Campaign Gets Under Way at White Stone Festival Today.

Richmond, Va., May 2 (A.P.).—Virginia voters tonight looked forward to a three-cornered race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in the August primary, while the three qualified candidates prepared for a flying campaign start at the White Stone May Day festival tomorrow afternoon.

As the filing period closed tonight a check of the list showed State Senator William Worth Smith, jr., of Louisia; George C. Peery, of Tazewell, and Joseph T. Deal, of Norfolk, had qualified for the fight for nomination.

For the other three posts subject to the 1933 State-wide primary the incumbents were unopposed. They are Lieut. Gov. James H. Price, Attorney General John R. Saunders, and United States Senator Harry Flood Byrd. Each is seeking renomination for his respective post.

All three of the candidates for gubernatorial nomination have accepted invitations to speak at White Stone, in Lancaster County, tomorrow afternoon, in a political feature to a bi-county May festival for Lancaster and Northumberland counties. They are to start at 2 p. m.

They have indicated they will elaborate on the platforms they previously announced. All of them favor repeal of the eighteenth amendment, but they vary in opinion as to State legislation and necessary machinery incident to repeal. They have indicated that they will touch on prohibition as well as other issues forecast for the coming campaign.

Tonight, the deadline for filing declarations of candidacy, passed without the qualification of a bone-dry candidate predicated by repeal opponents. The day's developments brought the decision of former State Auditor T. Coleman Andrews not to run for the governorship nomination, as well as the last-minue qualification of Mr. Deal, who formerly served as a member of the House of Representatives from Norfolk.

Blair Citizens Elect Royster as President

Edwin Royster was elected president of the Blair Citizens Association at the annual meeting at the Takoma-Silver Spring High School last night. Other officers are Mrs. J. Walter Mitchell, vice president, and George W. Mergell, treasurer. The secretary will be appointed by the new president. Paul Taggart was elected delegate to the Montgomery County Civic Federation for a period of three years and William E. Martin was elected alternate.

Miss Lavinia Engle, chairman of the Speakers' Bureau of the Montgomery County Social Service League and member of the House of Delegates from this county, discussed the work of the league.

Groves Gets Purple Heart.

Theron Rice Groves, of Alexandria, has just been awarded the Order of the Purple Heart by the War Department. Mr. Groves, a member of the former A. E. F., was wounded and gassed while in France.

Engaged

Miss Willie Greene Day to Marry Walter E. Perry in June.

WILLIE GREENE DAY.

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Willie Greene Day, who recently resigned as executive director of the Montgomery County Social Service League, to Walter E. Perry, prominent Bethesda merchant, was made last night by her mother, Mrs. Mary Thomas Day, of Portsmouth, Va. The wedding will take place in June.

Miss Day has been seriously ill at Columbia Hospital, and her illness was given as the reason for her resignation. At that time it was rumored that she intended affiliating with a Washington charity group when she recovered. Her condition is reported as being greatly improved.

Mr. Perry is a brother of Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, former president of the Montgomery County Commissioners and is welf known in Montgomery County. He is prominent in the work of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce and other civic associations. His first wife, who was a member of the Montgomery County Board of Education, died about a year ago.

Harry King Indorsed In Commission Race

Harry King, past president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, was unanimously indorsed by the directors of the organization yesterday as a candidate for District Commissioner.

The directors voted to ask the Commissioners to give beer-selling licenses to retail establishments in residential zones. Importance of the proposed Chesapeake Beach Ferry linking Washington with the Eastern Shore was discussed by Thomas P. Littlepage, president of the chamber. A loan for the work is pending before the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

OWINGS AND PALMER RETAIN PARK PLACES

Duckett Stays on Sanitary Board and Brickert is Forest Warden.

At an executive meeting of the Prince Georges County Commissioners yesterday afternoon Irving Owings and George Palmer were reappointed members of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

T. Howard Duckett, of Washington, was also reappointed a member of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, and Theodore Brickert, of Bowie, Md., was appointed forest warden for the Bowie district. The district has just been established.

It was announced at the meeting that the State roads commission had advised Prince Georges County that an appropriation of $106,449 had been granted for lateral road improvement.

W., V. & M. Buses Continue Fare Cut

System of Regular Stops in Arlington Under Consideration.

Leon Arnold, president of the Washington, Virginia & Maryland Coach Co., appearing before the Public Utilities Commission at its meeting last night, announced that the temporary reduction in fares over bus lines into Washington which was to end Sunday will be continued until further notice.

Arnold discussed with the commission a proposal for regular bus stops throughout Arlington County. As soon as the plan has been completed the commissioners will request the county board to pass an ordinance to establish stops and penalize parking of automobiles at designated bus stops.

J. W. Howard, general manager for the northern Virginia district of the Virginia Public Service Co., informed the commission that his company has no intention of reducing its rates in Arlington County pending the investigation by the State corporation commission. He further stated that at the present time the earnings of the company do not justify any reduction.

Rain-Drops Cause Blast In Building at Rectory

Rain dripping through a hole in the roof caused the ignition and explosion of a cardboard box of carbide early last night in the shed in the rear of the rectory of St. Mary's Catholic Church, at Fairfax Station, in Fairfax County. The damage was small.

THE ROAD TO ADJOURNMENT.

Congressional leaders think they can see the end of the present session about five weeks hence. But it is a rather dim vision. A tremendous volume of legislation awaits approval before President Roosevelt will be willing to let Congress go home for the summer. No doubt the wish that the legislative program might be cleared up before the World Economic Conference is father to the thought that adjournment may be possible in early June. The administration will be fortunate indeed if this plan can be carried out.

Congress has done remarkably well during the last two months, considering all the cross-currents and red tape that enter into the important legislation it has passed. On some occasions the wild men of the Senate have wasted time, but they have been less conspicuous than usual. The House has done considerable talking about nonessentials, yet it never fails to rubber stamp an administration measure within a short time after it reaches the floor. Both houses have been on good behavior—much better than can be expected from now until the end of the session. Yet with all this cooperation and with constant prodding from the White House, Congress has passed only about one-fourth of the vital legislation which goes to make up the "new deal."

This does not mean, of course, that only one-fourth of the work outlined for the extra session has been done. A number of measures, such as the farm relief bill, are in the last stages of enactment and may be expected to appear on the President's desk for signature within a week or two. But there is a large volume of proposed legislation that has not yet been sent to Capitol Hill from the White House, and this includes several measures of a highly controversial nature.

Measures that seem certain of enactment with no difficulty are the Muscle Shoals, District of Columbia appropriations, farm relief, and home mortgage bills. Some difficulties may arise on the railroad measure which is yet to be sent to Congress. The bill for control of securities has already hit a snag because of some ambiguous and unduly drastic provisions. No agreement seems to have been reached as yet on the public works bill. President Roosevelt has done well in discarding the 30-hour-week-minimum-wage nostrum, but Congress may insist upon its enactment along with the public works measure. Industrial leaders are also coming forward with an emergency economic plan which they may urge upon the President and upon Congress.

The three most controversial measures with which the extra session is scheduled to deal are still in nebulous form. They are tariffs, war debts and the Glass banking bill. No agreement on the fundamental principles of banking reforms is in sight. One group is trying to have deposits guaranteed, forcing strong and conservative banks to make up the losses of weak and dishonest ones. Another group is trying to strengthen the banking system so that deposit insurance will not be necessary. If a satisfactory statute emerges from this controversy the country will be fortunate indeed.

President Roosevelt is trying to find a formula whereby Congress may give him authority to make tariff bargains without the necessity of congressional ratification. Congress will doubtless be hostile to any suggestion of this kind. Members of Congress do not dare to surrender such a power. If the President ultimately decides to ask Congress to make him the tariff arbiter for the Nation, a protracted fight may result.

Perhaps the war debts are an even more delicate subject than reciprocal tariffs. Congress instructed the President more than a year ago not to make any further concessions on the debts without specific authorization. Nearly every member is unwilling to make any further sacrifices until Europe is ready to offer something in return. This issue may keep Congress in session long after the World Economic Conference has convened.

An early adjournment is much to be desired. Congress is evolving so much permissive legislation that it will leave behind a great deal of uncertainty under any circumstances, yet the complete enactment of the Roosevelt program will give business a guide to the future. Senator Robinson is to be commended for pushing toward an early adjournment, even though it may be impossible to achieve his aim. Congress may work with more dispatch and purpose if it has a definite goal in view.

WOMEN STOCKHOLDERS.

A recent survey of the stockholder lists of a number of large business organizations shows that 41 per cent of their stockholders are women. It is evident that in this field, as in other lines, through investment and inheritance, a dominating control of wealth and industry will soon be in the hands of women. It is an interesting development, but there is no reason to believe that it will result in a concerted move by women to control industry. Women do not dominate politics even though female voters are in the majority.

It is in the utility stocks that women show the greatest proportionate holdings, having nearly 44 per cent of the total outstanding issues today. Women have gratified their desire for ownership in companies with whose products they are familiar. They have particularly large holding of food stocks, yet transportation systems and large industrial establishments have also proved attractive to them. Women must be more conservative than men in their investments since their holdings of preferred stock predominate.

ADMINISTRATIVE FURLOUGHS.

President Roosevelt's administrative furlough plan, submitted to Congress as a rider to the independent offices bill, will save the jobs of thousands of Government workers. It is not a pleasant outlook for the employes who must take payless furloughs in addition to the reduction of salaries, but jobs that extend through nine, ten or eleven months of the year are far better than no jobs at all. No doubt the rank and file of Government workers will be grateful to President Roosevelt for this effort to distribute available work.

It is obviously inconsistent for the Government to sponsor a 30-hour week in industry while compelling its own employes to work 39 hours per week or more and dismissing large groups for the sake of economy. If the 30-hour week has any merit as a weapon against unemployment in times of emergency, it can be applied most effectively in the Government service. The administrative furlough will actually decrease the Government pay roll, but it will distribute the work among the employes and thus avoid dismissals in thousands of cases.

This measure is an effective answer to Secretary Perkins' effort to secure a compulsory 30-hour week in industry, together with minimum wages. One objective of her bill is to prevent industry from reducing wages when hours are reduced under the share-the-work plan. But does the Government propose to afford protection to its own employes who may lose three months' pay under the administrative furlough? No! The Government intends to use the share-the-work plan to effect economies, in spite of Secretary Perkins' claims that compulsory application of the plan to industry would increase the purchasing power of the workingman. It is significant that the President has cast aside this fantastical scheme to put industry into a strait-jacket.

The administrative furlough should be recognized as a severe hardship imposed on a majority of Government workers for the benefit of those who would otherwise lose their jobs. In this light only can it be justified. It will help to soften the blows that are bound to fall upon Government workers through the abolition of many bureaus and functions. But it establishes a practice that can be justified only in an emergency and that should be abolished at the earliest possible moment.

RUSSIA AND JAPAN.

Rumors of a possible break between Japanese military authorities in Manchuria and the Soviet government over control of the Chinese Eastern Railway assume a more serious character with the latest reports of Japan's action and official statements emanating from Moscow. The Soviet directors of the railway have definitely refused the demand made by the Japanese for the return of rolling stock formerly in possession of the Manchurian line, and Moscow now openly charges the Japanese with plotting to seize the railway and turn it over to the control of Manchukuo.

The Soviet broadside accuses the Japanese, under the direction of their consul general at Harbin, of fomenting attacks upon trains and demoralizing railway service to such an extent that international traffic with the Siberian division of the line had been suspended. The Soviet alleges that the ultimate aim of these disorders is to create a condition that would give the Japanese excuse for taking possession of the railway and ousting all Russian officials and employes.

Whatever the motive and regardless of who instigated the trouble, there seems to be no question as to the disruption of traffic and general disorder along the C. E. R. Seven wrecks in quick succession forced suspension of all train service. Chinese brigands are held responsible, but Russian officials no longer credit these explanations.

Meanwhile the sudden abatement of the Japanese advance south of the Great Wall in North China has attracted much attention since the troops released there have been rushed back to Manchuria to strengthen the garrisons along the disputed railway to the border town of Manchuli. Developments of the last few days have, naturally, increased the tension already existing in northern Manchuria and on the other side of the border in Russian territory, and little effort is being made to avoid an apparently inevitable clash.

SLIMY TRAIL TO MOSCOW.

William Conley, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, has performed a notable service to the country and to veterans by emphatically denouncing the scheme for another bonus march to Washington. His plea to veterans ought to be broadcast throughout the country. These are his words:

> I plead with all veterans—disabled or otherwise—that they have no part in the communistic drive, but present their proposals through orderly channels rather than be caught on the slimy trails that lead to Moscow.

Plans for another march to Washington are under way in a number of cities, encouraged if not originated by Communists. Mr. Conley clearly recognizes the intent of the proposed demonstration. It is designed to assemble large groups of unemployed and disgruntled men in the Capital with a view to fomenting trouble. Few genuine veterans are in sympathy with the revolutionary policies of these groups, but when they join in a march upon Washington to coerce Congress on the bonus issue they become tools in the hands of traitorous agitators.

Leaders of the ex-service men's organizations do not wish to see their former comrades disgraced, as many of them were in Washington last July. It is to be hoped that all of the veterans' organizations will present the issue in its true light to their members and to the unorganized veterans. When thoughtless veterans are in danger of becoming the tools of communistic agitation the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and similar organizations incur a solemn duty. If all the groups of veterans join in exposing the true aims of the agitators who are trying to concentrate destitute ex-service men in Washington, American veterans may be spared another disgraceful and futile adventure.

OCEAN AIR LINES.

Recent announcement that the Pan-American Airways had acquired important air line interests in China started rumors that this progressive company would inaugurate a trans-Pacific service connecting its American and Alaskan lines with the Orient. No formal announcement of such ambitious plans has yet been made, but it is evident that the company is preparing to enlarge the scope of its foreign service, since it has just placed contracts for the building of six large transoceanic flying boats which will cost $1,750,000.

These contracts are divided between the Glenn L. Martin Company of Baltimore and the Sikorsky Aviation Corporation of Bridgeport. The ships are all to be delivered within two years, the first one from each plant within one year. It is significant that these big planes are to be based on specifications prepared by Col. Lindbergh, who is chairman of the Pan-American's technical committee. Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh were the pioneer fliers to explore and demonstrate the feasibility of the flying route across the northern Pacific.

The Pan-American lines already encircle the Caribbean and South America. For these and more local lines additional equipment costing $1,000,000 is under contract. It is no secret that this company is also prospecting the possibilities of trans-Atlantic plane service. It has been investigating both the northern route, by way of Newfoundland, and the southern lane, via Bermuda and the Azores.

American enterprise in air transport deserves every encouragement, and there should be no skimping of Government mail contracts giving needed aid to this new industry.

The House is peeved because the Senate was radical first, but maybe some new and strange addition to the farm bill can be thought up by tomorrow.

"Go get your rule and jam it down our throats!" shouts Bert Snell, Republican House leader. "Anything to oblige," politely replies Joe Byrns.

RED FEUDALISM

From the New York Herald Tribune.

Soviet Russia's officially announced plans for a sifting and redistribution of population are so astoundingly big and arbitrary that they look like symptoms of panic if not of despair. The simultaneously published rules for party cleansing have much the same aspect. The western frontier, the big cities and the industrial towns everywhere are to be swept clean of "undesirables," which presumably describes all persons who are not manifestly in sympathy with the Communist regime. All members of the Communist party whose sincerity is in doubt, and all who have acquired bourgeois tastes, viewpoints or associations are to be ejected.

Obviously the occasion for all this is serious unrest throughout the country, arousing a profound fear in the Kremlin of the hordes that famine has driven into the cities and towns, and grave doubts in this crisis of the loyalty of many who call themselves Communists. The two purposes of these projected measures are therefore to clear the defenses of the state and its arterial system of all likely rebels and to get all the drifting peasants outside the proletarian strongholds and reattached to the land—as serfs to the state.

The red feudalism which will be bound upon Russia if these measures can be carried out will be strikingly similar to the medieval system under which a fighting caste, in most European countries, held the agricultural population bound to the land, to be bought or sold, lost or won, with it. A hundred and thirty million or more peasants must be permanently attached to the soil and disciplined in production on the terms of the commissars, so that the red hierarchy, its army, its Ogpu, its bureaucracy and its loyal factory population may be assured of regular supplies of food and raw materials.

Seventy-two years ago in March, Czar Alexander II issued a decree that put an end to serfdom in Russia as a political institution. Economic serfdom prevailed throughout Russia until 1917, however, when the word went out that the big feudal estates were to be divided up among the tenant farmers and Russia's peasant soldiers deserted the trenches and hurried home to secure their titles. It was to defend these titles that the Russian peasants rallied to the red flag and defended communism fiercely against Wrangel, Denikin and Kolchak. Latterly they have been discovering for what they fought from the nationalization of agriculture. Their reaction to this discovery resulted in famine, city congestion, demoralization of industry and the state of unrest which has now prompted the Kremlin to think up this desperate scheme for revisiting upon the entire body of the peasantry a serfdom far more extensive and more rigid than that which Alexander abolished in 1861.

Uncle Flimflam.

POST HASTE.

The first day's parley disclosed that swapping Argentine wheat and cattle for American cattle and wheat was not very practical. How about Coca Cola for yerba mate?

Before the tariff truce can be arranged Great Britain is going to have so many biparty trade pacts signed up that a general tariff agreement at the economic conference will be a rigged jaw puzzle.

Women now own nearly half the stock of big corporations. This should make Miss Perkins pause in her demand to be made back-seat driver for industry.

Sport note from Manchukuo: The Japanese aerial track-bombing team was out for spring practice on the Chinese Eastern Railway yesterday.

Chicago, the city that can't pay her school teachers, dug up $10,000,000 for beer the first three weeks. And it passes for the world's fair city.

Congress will endeavor to hide its embarrassed head under adjournment before it has to witness its functions performed by individuals at the London conference.

Secretary Wallace's first radio explanationing of what agriculture is might be considered academic, but at least, the course began properly with kindergarten diagrams.

Japan has such taking ways in Manchuria, no wonder Tokyo considered the attempt of Russia to sell her the Chinese Eastern Railway an affront.

Those who complain of the loss of congressional checks and balances should remember Profs. Moley, Tugwell and Ezekiel.

A boycott we would approve, even though the results be fatal to the enterprise, would be a news taboo on all Communist bonus marches.

Cooking up individual deals here with various nations is not so difficult, but wait until they are all scrambled together in London.

The President doesn't mind work that breaks Miss Perkins' idea of a day's labor 150 per cent, but can he stand 50 White House banquets in a row for visiting conversationalists?

"He That Sweareth to His Own Hurt, and Changeth Not" Walks With the Highest.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

I AM the world's worst real estate operator. Four times in my life I have bought property on the installment plan, paid down much more than I could afford to lose, and in the fullness of time surrendered my equity because I could neither find a buyer nor complete the payments.

In no instance did Congress come to my assistance. Nobody urged my creditor to give me more time or a lower interest rate. I had made a bargain and I had to make good. The property wasn't mine because I hadn't paid for it. Since I couldn't pay for it, there was nothing to do but deed it back to the owner.

When the first post-war boom ended, half of the people in my section "owned" property under mortgage. Values fell and the property wasn't worth as much as the debt on it.

What happened then? The mortgage holders foreclosed, and people who could raise no money lost their homes and their farms. And again Congress did nothing to delay or avert the sad business of paying the fiddler.

When the banks in my town closed their doors several years ago, the receivers proceeded at once to convert their paper assets into cash. Mortgaged homes and farms were sold. Property owners became renters, and once more the people in Washington made no effort to interfere.

Shylock got his pound of flesh. The unfortunate wept over the loss of their homes, but they didn't blame the Government. They owed money they couldn't pay and the property pledged as security had to pay instead.

At that time people took it for granted that an honest obligation had to be met. A debt was something unwelcome and dreadful, but an honest man paid it. Signatures on the dotted line meant something.

If you borrow $10,000 on a $15,000 property, it is thereafter absurd to call it yours. And if the mortgage is foreclosed, it is absurd to weep over the loss of your home. It isn't lost now. It was lost when you pledged it for the loan. You took the other man's money and promised him the home. You got the good of his money; why shouldn't he have the good of your property? Does your hard luck justify defrauding him?

It is decent and fair to adjust indebtedness to the present value of the dollar, but there is too much talk of saving debtors by defrauding creditors.

If a man's word is no longer good—if he finds a trick to escape repaying money he borrowed and spent, and yet retains the respect of his neighbors—we have hit bottom in more ways than one.

POLITICAL COMMENT

The President as Dictator.

Kansas City Star.

The Senate's action on the farm relief inflation bill by an overwhelming majority undoubtedly reflects the experimental mood of the country under stress of the depression.

Under the provisions of the act the President will be made the virtual dictator of the farm industry. Through his Secretary of Agriculture he may attempt an artificial lift in the prices of the chief farm products and he may seek to control production. He will be given autocratic powers over the national monetary system, which vitally affects the general price structure, although in unpredictable ways. He will have the authority to shift the United States from a gold to a silver basis, or if he elects to remain on the gold standard to alter that standard radically.

A Gift to Silver Miners.

Kansas City Times.

The climax of inflationary sentiment in the Senate has been reached in the vote in favor of an amendment authorizing the President to order the free coinage of silver at any ratio to gold that he may adopt. The proposal would benefit nobody except the miners of silver. The belief that it would create a bimetallic standard is contrary to all experience. It would merely place the currency of the country on a silver basis, with a huge subsidy to the silver mining industry. It would be an attempt to boost the value of silver in a dollar which was only 20 cents before the recent speculative activity.

Even if the amount of gold in a dollar should be reduced to the coinage value of silver the country would have a money system subject to fluctuations in the relative values of the two metals.

Mr. Roosevelt's Restraint.

Boston Transcript.

This test of the strength of the President with the Congress and his adherence to the ends he has in view should hearten the country. However opinions may differ concerning the wisdom of the inflation measure which subsequently passed the Senate, Mr. Roosevelt intends to use the broad powers given him in accordance with a definite plan. With the new credit and currency he purposes to meet maturing obligations of the Government. To hand to the veterans more than two billions of dollars would obviously defeat in large measure the President's program. He made it plain, therefore, that he did not want the authority and would not use it were it confered upon him. There has recently been talk that the President was going far toward the left. Here is demonstration of the fact that his course has well-defined limits beyond which he will not go.

Trying Everything.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

From a very good beginning the Roosevelt credit-expansion program is degenerating into a catch-all for the sundry panaceas favored by his supporters. Obviously, as a practical political leader, the President was obliged to include in his inflation program some provisions calculated to win over the silver senators. Likewise, he had to make at least a gesture of outright currency inflation to draw into the fold those spokesmen of the farm belt who are wedded to the slogan, "Cheap money."

Beer Inflation.

Boston Globe.

Nobody has any idea of what inflation really means until he has consumed a dozen glasses of 3.2 beer at one sitting.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Believes Inflation Will Work Successfully—Wants New Measurement of Value in Dollar.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In criticizing the action of the Senate for passing yesterday the amended farm relief bill, your leading editorial of April 29 adopts a contemptuous attitude toward the majority of the Senate which is neither justifiable nor edifying. By your temerity in prophesying that "the first effect of the Senate's action will be to shake confidence" you yourself are of course doing your utmost to produce that injurious effect. There are excellent reasons for believing that the effect of the amended farm relief bill will be very different from those which your prophetic imagination describes. It would have been more illuminating to your readers if you had stretched your imagination a little further and depicted also the desirable results which it is the purpose of this bill to achieve. To say that the Senate "has chosen to demoralize all values in its blind effort to stabilize prices" is obviously an unwarranted attack of the honorable purposes as well as the intelligence of our legislative leaders.

With your praise of Senator Glass, I am in complete sympathy, but your own remarks misrepresent and falsify his position. The leader of opposition to an important legislative measure performs a necessary and extremely valuable service. Both the Senate and the people of the United States are indebted to Senator Glass for bringing to that rather thankless task the resources of profound erudition, practical legislative experience, acute critical capacity and unquestioned integrity. Hysterical, self-seeking and purely partisan opposition bears no relation to such faithful legislative service. It is no credit to our legislative experience nor to our political judgment when we mistake the one for the other.

In the opinion of many legislators and students of economics, who are by no means blind and by no means desirous of demoralizing all values, the old system of basing the economic values of the world on fixed weights of a rare metal has outlived its usefulness, to say the very least. There is much evidence that the persistence of a system of international economics based on the gold standard is the direct cause of the present confusion in values and in the processes of individual human labor and the social integration of human life. The maintenance of gold standards in recent years has obviously been powerless to control values of labor, of the products of labor, of the means of production. It is necessary to reestablish working relations among these objects of primary importance to civilization.

The amended farm relief bill is intended to assist in accomplishing that constructive purpose. That it has been subjected to the expert criticism of Senator Glass and has nevertheless been passed by the Senate of the United States should not destroy public confidence as you urge, but should create new confidence and strengthen the confidence that has been built up by an administration that is capable of far-sighted planning and swift, fearless, energetic and effective leadership, by a legislature that is capable of acting, that is not afflicted by a malady of deliberation, but deliberates that it may act the more intelligently.

GRANT HYDE CODE.

We're Off!—Off Gold, Off the Constitution, What Are We Headed For?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We are off the gold standard and the free coinage of silver at Mr. Bryan's 16-to-1 ratio is in the offing.

We are off hard money, so that we can have three billions of paper money at last, maybe six; but wages never go up when inflation carries commodities skyward, putting extra burdens on the shoulders of those who are now overloaded and least able to bear it.

We are off the Constitution, giving power to the President which belongs to Congress alone, so that, at will, he may drain the gold out of our 100-cent dollar, till it is worth only 50 cents.

What are we headed for?

Offers Plan to Cut Traffic Accidents in Half.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am glad to see that there is to be a special seven-month drive for traffic safety by a number of important agencies. Their intensive propaganda by picture posters will no doubt have a very good effect on thousands of careless motorists. But I am sorry they don't give more attention to law enforcement.

If the police authorities everywhere would join the safety campaign by using every means at their command for the arrest and punishment of traffic-law offenders, without fear or favor, the number of accidents and deaths would at least be cut in half within a year from now.

Italians Are Guests At White House Dinner.

THE PRESIDENT AND MRS. ROOSEVELT entertained at dinner last evening in honor of Signor Guido Jung, Minister of Finance of Italy, who is here to confer with the President. The guests included:

The Ambassador of Italy, Signor Augusto Rosso; Dr. Eugenio Anziotti, Dr. Giuseppe del Vecchio, Dr. Giuseppe Piserchia, the Counselor of the Embassy and Marchesa Diana, the Secretary of State and Mrs. Cordell Hull, the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, the Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Daniel C. Roper, Senator and Mrs. Key Pittman, Senator and Mrs. Pat Harrison, Senator and Mrs. David A. Reed, Representative and Mrs. Hamilton Fish, jr., Representative and Mrs. Sam D. McReynolds, Representative and Mrs. Luther A. Johnson, Admiral William V. Pratt, Mr. Louis McHenry Howe, Ambassador and Mrs. Breckinridge Long, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Ben H. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. James Clement Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Swagar Sherley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warren, Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. William Corcoran Eustis, Col. and Mrs. Frederick Stuart Greene, Mrs. Elliott Peckham, Miss Nancy Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Nancy Hughes, Miss Maria Teresa Bourgoise, Miss Marguerite LeHand, Capt. Walter N. Vernou and Col. Campbell B. Hodges.

In the afternoon Mrs. Roosevelt received the Colonial Dames.

The Ambassador of Belgium and Mme. May will entertain at a dinner in the embassy on Friday evening.

Envoy and Mme. Debuchi to Have Luncheon in Philadelphia.

The Ambassador of Japan and Mme. Debuchi will be the honor guests at a luncheon to be given on Monday by the former United States Ambassador to Japan and Mrs. Roland S. Morris at their home in Philadelphia.

Following the luncheon the Ambassador and Mme. Debuchi will attend the dedication of the cherry blossoms along the River drive in Fairmont Park, and will return to the Capital that evening.

The Ambassador of Argentina, Senor Felipe A. Espil, will entertain at a men's dinner tomorrow evening in the embassy in honor of the Argentine Ambassador to Paris, Senor Dr. Tomas LeBreton, when the Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull, will be among the guests.

On Friday Senor Espil will give a large reception at the embassy for the distinguished visitor when the guests will include members of official, diplomatic and resident society.

The delegate from Germany to the President's conference, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, will arrive in New York Friday on the Deutschland and will come immediately to Washington, where he will be the guest of the German Ambassador, Dr. Hans Luther, during his stay.

Reception Today At Polish Embassy.

The Ambassador of Poland, Mr. Stanislaw Patek, will entertain at a reception this afternoon in celebration of the Constitution Day of Poland.

The Minister of the Netherlands and Mme. van Royen entertained at dinner last evening.

The Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. William Woodin have had with them for a few days their daughter, Mrs. Woodin Miner, who returned yesterday to New York.

Senator and Mrs. Robert D. Carey entertained at dinner last evening at Wardman Park Hotel.

Representative and Mrs. Herman P. Koppleman, of Connecticut, have as guests at the Mayflower the latter's sister, Mrs. Ruth Feinberg, of Hartford, Conn., and her daughters, Miss Gloria Feinberg and Miss Shirley Feinberg.

On Monday evening, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Douglas, of Woodberry, N. J., were dinner guests of Representative and Mrs. Koppleman.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. William N. Haskell have issued invitations to the wedding of their daughter, Miss Mary Haskell, to Mr. Richard Markey Egan, which will take place May 24 at the Church of St Ignatius Loyola in New York.

Admiral and Mrs. Rossiter Lease Alexandria House.

The new Surgeon General of the Navy, Admiral and Mrs. Perceval S. Rossiter, have leased the old house of Mr. and Mrs. Ben B. Cain, jr., at 619 South Lee street, Alexandria. This house, overlooking the Potomac River, has one of Alexandria's largest and most charming gardens. Admiral and Mrs. Rossiter, with their daughter, will move to their new home next week, from the Naval Hospital, where they are now stationed.

Mr. Francis White, Assistant Secretary of State, and Mrs. White have arrived from Washington and are at the New Weston, in New York City.

The Director General of the Pan-American Union, Dr. L. S. Rowe, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Pan-American Annex in honor of the Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Dominican Republic, Senor Dr. Maximiliano Henriquez Urena. In addition to the guest of honor, those in attendance were:

The Minister of the Dominican Republic, Senor Don Roberto Despradel; the Assistant Secretary of Commerce, Mr. John Dickinson; the Counselor of the Dominican Legation, Senor Don Ulises F. Espaillat, and the First Secretary of the Legation, Senor Don Augustin Acevedo Feliu; Dr. Esteban Gil Borges, Assistant Director of the Pan-American Union; the Right Rev. Mgr. James H. Ryan, Rector of the Catholic University of America; the Rev. Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, President of Georgetown University; Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, President of George Washington University; Dr. James Brown Scott, Secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace; Mr. Orme Wilson and Mr. Joseph P. The Meanderer

Discovers Gingham Evening Dress Forecast in Meanderer Column Two Days Ago.

If only the Meanderer's prophecies would always bear out as well as has the one about gingham evening dresses! Three days ago, in writing about the capricious things that are done with cotton fabrics for evening wear, the Meanderer declared she "would not be surprised to see a gingham evening dress any day now." The gingham evening dress has arrived in Washington. The blue plaid gingham dress little sister wears to school may have been cut out of the same bolt of material from which the gingham evening dress is made for big sister.

No silk or organdy frock has any more extravagantly swirling skirts than has this new blue gingham evening gown. Its trimming is simple—merely neck facings of white pique with a removable tailored tie of pique and a white jacket supplementing the costume is of white pique, also. The cut of the frock is as daring as that of any of the more elegant fabrics, meaning that a slit-like opening in the back extending to the waist has no fastenings whatever. The short puffed sleeves generously expose the shoulders. The gingham frock is attracting much attention and admiration in the "Young Washingtonian Shop" of a big department store on F street.

Suits of men's-wear linen in natural color, cut smartly and well tailored, cost just $5.95 in the store showing the gingham evening dress. This heavier linen does not wrinkle so easily as does most linen. The linen suits are preshrunk.

The Billie Burke dress, with round collar and tucked shirtwaist front and long, rippling skirt, has been developed charmingly in white mousseline de soie for $15 in a frock showing in the department store featuring the gingham evening dress.

Honeycomb washable silk makes a group of practical, cool and attractive dresses for summer, assembled in a G street department store, where prices have been reduced in a week's gigantic sale. These washable dresses sell for $10.75.

Young daughters may be fitted in one and two piece frocks made of linen, seersucker or pique in styles as chic as could be desired, in the department for sizes 11 to 17 in a G street shop. These clever small-size frocks are priced at $2.95.

Airy, cool summer frocks may be created quickly and easily from the sheer, tempting materials displayed at low prices in the G street department store in its big store-wide sale. The popular plaid organdies sell there for 59 cents; embroidered organdies, in lovely colors, sell for 79 or 98 cents a yard; an unusually sheer cross-barred white organdy, and another organdy in all white pin-stripe and dot combination, sells for 85 cents a yard; and in 44-inch widths, many of the summer materials much like those just mentioned, sell for $1.19 a yard.

Summer evening wraps of white or black transparent velvet in the modish gathered Victorian effects are fresh arrivals in the G street store. They sell for $10.75.

Sheer crepe dinner dresses, with graceful jackets, have deep blue or brown flowers on white backgrounds. These conservative gowns, using only one color with white, are in women's sizes, for $16.50, and also are found in the G street store the Meanderer has been exploring for exceptional values.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

THE WHY OF SOME ECZEMAS.

DR. CAREY P. McCORD says that we have so divided and specialized man's work that we now recognize 7,000 occupations. In 5,600 of these the workers are exposed to some kind of occupational hazard. About 1,000 chemical, bacterial and physical causes are now recognized as due to occupation, or, at least, as closely associated therewith. This does not mean that there are that many different occupational diseases, since one disease may result from any one of many causes. For instance, a dermatitis, sometimes called eczema and sometimes nettle rash, may be caused by exposure to any one or perhaps a hundred substances, and asthma has an even more miscellaneous parentage.

In America alone, Dr. McCord says, there are in each year more than 50,000 cases of skin disease due to occupational exposure. He gives the following illustrations of disorders of different kinds, but all due to exposure in the day's work, or the day's life other than work.

A saleswoman in a department store had an asthma. It was not due to feathers or pollens, but was caused by the dye used on furs she sold. Two men working in a tobacco factory had peripheral neuritis. It was not caused by nicotine. It was due to arsenic sprays used on the growing plants. Worming tobacco in the old-fashioned way was back-breaking and not very effective. But there are drawbacks to the new method.

Many persons clean their clothes with noninflammable fluids. Some of them develop carbon tetrachloride poisoning. We use insect powders, either as powders or in solution as sprays, to kill or repel insects in our homes and workshops. Both the powdered drug plant and the solvents used to put it in a spray form have mild toxic properties. At certain seasons of the year we hunt rabbits. Since rabbit meat is quite as good as chicken, beef or squirrel, we bring our game home, skin it, cut it up and eat it. Some of us pay for this indulgence in tularemia.

After a day's labor, when our hands are greasy and dirty, we like to clean up with a sandsoap, generally one with a trade name. These cleaners are apt to be combinations of soap and silica, known to be a very dangerous compound. If breathed as dust from a sand-soap powder, a rapidly progressive and severe form of silicosis results. Used as sand, soap is generally employed and occasionally some one is harmed.

Workers in sawmills and planing mills are subject to some forms of wood poisoning and some of them get diseases due to fungi.

Continuing in the same tempo, Dr. McCord tells of one plant where several workmen developed bladder tumors. These were the result of benaldine. Other analines are capable of producing tumors. In certain industries the skin is more or less continually soiled by mineral oils and coal tar substances. In these circumstances tar cancers develop. Silicosis is a hazard in more than one occupation. Ulcers of the stomach may be caused by exposure to fumes of zinc sulphate in galvanizinig plants.

Today's Recipe

Lemon Filling.

1 tablespoon granulated gelatin
4 tablespoone cold water
3 egg yolks
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
⅛ teaspoon salt
1-3 cup lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
1-3 cup boling water
3 egg whites, beaten

Soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes. Beat yolks and add sugar, flour and salt. Add juice, rind and boiling water. Cook 5 minutes in double boiler. Stir frequently. Add gelatin mixture and stir until it has dissolved. Cool a little. Fold in egg whites. Pour into crust, cool and chill. When ready to serve, cut in wedge-shaped pieces. Serve plain or topped with whipped cream.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A fine black and white plaid is fashioned into a very smart traveling coat with odd cut and great comfort. (Courtesy of Bernard et Cie, Paris.)

AND then we started buying lace! Well, now, we've told you more things about lace—we've told you how it was made, when it was first made, what the different names of the different types of lace were—and almost everything about lace except what to do about it when you needed some yourself. And then the fun began!

Now, when you need 5 yards of lace for a negligee, or 10 yards if you are going to ruffle it—and you are blandly told by high coiffured saleswomen (indoors for high hat, see?) that YOU can't buy anything that YOU would use for less than $1.50 a yard, &c., &c.—well, it gives you to think—because you have to THINK it as the law forbids saying it.

Another thing which gives you to think is the detestable way that $2 lace has of giving out on your handmade lingerie. This is discovered to be caused by the lace being put on too tightly for continued strain—watch this when you applique lace—unless the fabric is left on underneath, of course—and be sure to put the lace in LOOSELY between the designs of the fabric.

Well, so then what do we do? Needing 6-inch wide lace and not finding it for less than a dollar and something a yard, I bought three lengths of 2-inch wide lace—two of them with scalloped edges, one as insertion, and had them hemstitched together! Making in the end a prettier piece of lace than any $2 one I saw.

Another lace pitfall is the lace of dresses which crushes too easily. I am only trying to point out to you how you MUST select lace for the use to which it is going to be put—where there is any strain, a strong lace, not necessarily coarse, but very strongly woven ON the net background, and the net itself strong. Or lace that is going to be sat upon or folded into traveling bags must be uncrushable, whilst lace that has to float and fall and ruffle must be floatable—and interesting. AND—one must not be intimidated by salespeople, ever—even though one usually always generally na'chelly is!

An then when it comes to coats! A traveling coat is one that has many uses—one does not have to always use it for traveling, you see. But for sportswear, for morning walks for shopping, for wearing to the office—give us a traveling coat like the one I sketched for you today! Bernard et Cie. is long on coats of this type, and each one is as, if not more, interesting than the other one. Black and white plaid in a fine cross weave makes this one, and the straighter and boxier silhouette is hinted at if not exaggerated. Isn't it nice?

AND bags! This week's illustrated leaflet tells you how to make all sorts and kinds and shapes and degrees of practical and impractical bags—and you may be sure that each and every one of them is chic and smart, expensive looking, and looks anything but like a homemade purse. There are ways—and, in case you doubt it, I myself am carrying three of these bags—one in felt, you know, our old standby in felt with a slide fastener? The other in "volante" velvet—that means the way it is cut, you see. And the other in organdy ruffles for evening. And ARE they nice—yes, they ARE nice . . . better send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for them and see for your own self.

And I sketched a pair of evening shoes I thought you would like to see.

Au revoir

A SQUEEZE THROUGH BAD DEFENSE.

IN a recent Howell game played in New York City, a very interesting hand came up. The first problem that had to be solved by the North and South pair was how to reach a game contract after West had opened the bidding. Assuming that four-odd in hearts was reached, the next problem was the best plan of play to fulfill this contract, followed by correct handling to give Declarer a play for five-odd. Since the game was scored on a match-point basis, overtricks were of considerable importance.

West, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ A K 8 7 ♡ Q 9 3 ◇ K 2 ♣ A Q 9 4
♠ 5 3 ♡ K 5 ◇ A J 10 6 3 ♣ K J 6 3	N W E S	♠ Q J 10 9 6 ♡ J 8 4 ◇ Q 5 ♣ 8 5 2
	♠ 4 2 ♡ A 10 7 6 2 ◇ 9 8 7 4 ♣ 10 7

The bidding: (Figure after bid in table refers to numbered explanatory paragraph.)

West	North	East	South
1◇	Dbl.	1♠	2♡(1)
Pass	4♡	Pass	Pass
Pass

1—A doubtful free bid. South, however, decided to show his suit at the level of two while he could, in view of his partner's Takeout Double. He feared a two-spade bid by West, followed by two passes, and then, of course, he himself would have to pass.

West's Opening lead was the 5 of spades, which was naturally won with the King in Dummy. Declarer immediately saw on the bidding that it was not the type of hand on which to try to ruff his losing diamond tricks in Dummy. But in view of the bidding, he saw considerable hope of being able to discard some of his losers on the club suit if the double finesse was successful. Accordingly, his next play was to test out the trump situation. The best way of playing this type of trump suit is to play for the opposing honors to be split and to finesse two up to his own hand.

The Queen was led from Dummy so that, if the King were wrong and the Knave right, two entries into Declarer's own hand would be found. West won this trick with the King and had no better alternative than a second spade lead. This trick was won in Dummy and Declarer returned to his own hand through a successful finesse against the heart Knave. He now immediately led the Ten of clubs. West, realizing that a double finesse would probably be made, decided to cover, knowing that the South hand was short of entries. The Queen won this trick in Dummy and a spade was returned and ruffed in Declarer's hand.

South, realizing that to have a possible squeeze for five-odd he must keep a club entry into Dummy, now led up to the diamond King. West won this trick with the Ace, and at this point could have made a star defensive play. If he now had returned a club, Declarer's last entry-card would have been removed from Dummy before the squeeze cards could be played. However, West was not sufficiently discerning and almost automatically returned another diamond. This diamond trick was won with the King in Dummy and a trump led and won with the Ace in Declarer's hand. The lead of the last trump now hopelessly squeezed West. If he discarded his top diamond, South's diamonds would be good, and if he released another club there would be three club tricks left in Dummy. He chose to adopt the possible winning course rather than the sure losing course and discarded a low club, hoping that South would not take a second finesse in that suit.

South, of course, realizing the situation, led the 7 of clubs, played the 9 of clubs from Dummy and won the last two tricks with the Ace and 4-spot. Due to sound play by Declarer and a slip by the defense, a highly doubtful contract of four-odd was converted into a successful game with an overtrick.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

How should North and South bid the hands below, and what should be the eventual contract?

	♠ Q 8 ♡ K J 5 ◇ 8 7 6 ♣ A Q J 9 5
	N W E S
♠ A J 10 6 ♡ A ◇ Q J 10 5 ♣ K 10 8 7

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

What Today Means

"TAURUS."

IF MAY 3 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:50 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., from 7 p. m. to 8:25 p. m. and from 10:45 p. m. to 11:35 p. m. The danger periods are from 12 noon to 1:10 p. m. and from 3 p. m. to 4:15 p. m.

Influences operating on this date will in all probability prove to be of an exciting nature and it will be difficult for you to keep from "flying off the handle." If you have the opportunity of taking your profit from some transaction, it might be wise to do so. If you are a parent, you will probably be impatient in your attitude toward younger people.

The child born on this May 3 will probably take little interest in his school work and in much that goes on about him. Fond of animals, he will be happiest when he can be out of doors. Life in the country will do much to "bring him out." Inclined to brood a great deal.

If May 3 is the date of your birth, your life will probably not be as happy as it might, for you would seem to have a shifting nature and a mind that can never quite know for a certainty what it wants. If you can "pin yourself down" to doing one thing, you should make a moderate success. A caustic tongue, coupled with a hasty temper, does not make for your general popularity. You have comparatively few friends, but those you make, you hold.

If you were born on May 3 you no doubt have a mind that works quickly and with fair accuracy; at times you are prone to render snap judgments. Once you have made up your mind and reached a decision, heaven and earth can not make you change your position; you may come to realize that you are wrong, but you will not admit it to the rest of the world. The word "stubborn" is too mild a descriptive term for your attitude on these occasions. You are no doubt very much interested in those of the opposite sex, but the chances are that you do not get along with them too well. On the whole, your married life should prove happy, but it will be punctuated with all too frequent spats and disagreements. You will be happiest in the wedded state after one or more children have come into your home.

Successful people born on May 3:

Jacob A. Riis, reformer.
Wilbur O. Atwater, chemist.
William L. Wilson, statesman and educator.
William Proctor, pharmacist and educator.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

HOW VIRTUE PAYS.

IN a discussion of methods of discipline, a young teacher remarked that she believed it possible to avoid both arbitrary punishment and arbitrary reward by showing the child that it pays to be good.

The idea is a pleasant one and, if true, would simplify enormously the parent's task. If justice always prevailed, if pleasure always directly resulted from doing what is right, children could certainly learn to be good by seeing that it pays.

But, from the child's point of view, does it indeed always pay to be good? Does it pay, for instance, to refrain from forbidden candy when brother eats it and does not get caught?

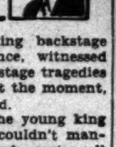
Does it pay to lend a playmate a favorite toy when he lends nothing in return? Does it pay to have worked especially hard on a lesson on a day when one is not called upon to recite?

The recompense for being good is in all too many instances an abstract moral one, and we have to rely upon the child's developed moral sense to appreciate it. Obviously, the younger a child is the less we can make use of this appeal.

There is, however, another form of recompense for right-doing which is not a logical result—and that is the approval of those whom the child loves. Although this approval does not always follow in a way that the child can appreciate as reasonable, he nevertheless can see that it is worth while to be good for this reason if for no other.

As far as possible, we should make the child see the reasonable side of being good. But often we must rely upon the child's desire to keep the love of parents or teacher as the only way of inducing him to make certain necessary sacrifices.

A New Yorker at Large



By MARK BARRON.

NEW YORK.—A steady customer of one of those fashionable French hairdressers in Fifty-seventh street is Marion Florence, sister of Robert Nathan, the novelist.

One afternoon when she came in for a hair wave, the hairdresser observed that she was wearing a blue pin on which was some gold lettering.

"It occurs to one to ask," inquired the hairdresser, "what should be the meaning of such a pin?"

"That," explained Miss Florence, "means that I am a Daughter of the American Revolution."

"Oh, this is most terrible," the Frenchman said, throwing up his hands in horror. "Always I have thought Madamoiselle such a nice, sweet girl, and now you tell me you are a revolutionist."

Backstage Tragedy.

In one scene the young beggar prince, attired in his ragged raiment, walks to the altar in the cathedral where he is to receive the coronation. As he kneels at the altar, a group of angels surround him for a moment, and then he emerges wearing an ermine robe, a golden crown and carrying a jewel-encrusted scepter.

At this point, it is necessary for young Master Mahoney, who plays the king, to make a very quick change from his rags to royal garments.

As his cue arrived, the young king found that he simply couldn't manage the robe, crown and scepter all at the same time. At last, in agony, he appealed in a loud stage whisper to a gorgeous chorus girl who stood above him, clothed in raiment of gold, wearing a seraphic smile, and holding a sprig of gilded lilies.

"Please," he appealed, "help me with this robe."

The orchidaceous girl never moved a muscle or winked an eyelash.

Four Die in Rural Fire.

Rockwood, Me., May 2 (A.P.).—A woman, her daughter-in-law and two of the latter's children were burned to death today when fire destroyed a small frame dwelling on the banks of Moose River a mile above this town. The dead are Mrs. Evelyn Burke, Mrs. Fred Burke, Stephen, aged 5, and another child.

Business Men Asked For Orchestra Help

Aid of the business men of the city is being enlisted in the drive to save the National Symphony Orchestra. A committee headed by Mrs. James Clement Dunn is soliciting the business leaders of Washington. Frank R. Jelleff and Julius Garfinckle have already entered substantial subscriptions. Since yesterday the sum needed to complete the subscription fund and thus save the orchestra from being forced to disband has been reduced from $10,200 to $9,500.

Any subscription, no matter how modest, will be greatly appreciated, and should be sent to National Symphony Orchestra, C. C. Cappel, manager, Woodward Building.

Newman Club Plans For Sunday Breakfast

The Newman Club, of George Washington University, will hold its regular corporate Communion at 9 a. m. mass Sunday at St. Patrick's Church. The Rev. John K. Cartwright, the club's chaplain, will be the celebrant.

After mass the members and their guests will assemble at Sholl's, 1219 G street, where breakfast will be served. Mgr. O'Dwyer, of Catholic University, will speak.

Roosevelt Assists Woman Get Teeth

President's Efforts Obtain Plate for Impoverished Georgia Resident.

Savannah, Ga., May 2 (A.P.).—An impoverished woman residing in a rural section near Savannah is going to get a set of false teeth through the intercession of President Roosevelt.

She found it necessary to have her natural teeth extracted and the duties of providing for her children left nothing for the purchase of a plate. The thought occurred to her that maybe the President could help, so she wrote him, explaining her plight.

A few days later the Savannah chapter of the Red Cross received advice from its national headquarters in Washington, saying the White House had requested that teeth be given the woman. A local dentist is making the plate and relief agencies will pay the bill.

Girls Take to Bicycles.

Oklahoma City, May 2 (A.P.).—Bicycles are back for Oklahoma City lassies. Several sports dealers are putting in bicycle rental departments and one is planning to form a club.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

As a climax of a long-drawn-out controversy the National Association of Broadcasters yesterday asked the Department of Justice to investigate certain alleged practices of the American Society of Composers. Oswald F. Schuette, representing the broadcasters, charged that the composers were pooling their copyrights in violation of the anti-trust law.

Accordingly Attorney General Cummings will make a thorough investigation of the matter. As a further effort to secure a reduction in the tax on broadcasting stations for using copyrighted music the broadcasters had previously retained Newton D. Baker and the move to ask the Department of Justice to intervene has been in the offing for some time.

However, when the threat was made, E. C. Mills, of the composers, replied that the Justice Department had years ago investigated the society at the request of the motion picture producers, on a similar charge, and had given the composers a clean bill of health.

It is said in one usually well-informed quarter that the composers do not fear the consequences in connection with the radio investigation, regardless of what the Department of Justice may find.

"If the Attorney General should find the composers guilty of the monopoly charge and order them to dissolve," this man said, "the composers would, of course, dissolve. However, I predict it would be but a short time until the large composers would band together again. Perhaps the smaller ones would do the same, but the big fellows would be in a position to demand the same fees and continue to rake in the money. The only difference would be that they would not have to whack up with the little fellows as they are doing now."

MRS. RUTH BRYAN OWEN, newly named United States Minister to Denmark, will be heard over the WJZ network tonight at 8:30 as she addresses a meeting given in her honor in Town Hall, New York, by the League for Political Education.

The program with Donald Novis and Leon Belasco's orchestra will reach listeners each Wednesday night in the future at a new hour and over a different network.

With Conrad Thibault as the first guest artist the new time schedule will go into effect over WRC tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

Tom Curtin, adapter of those police dramas, tells of an old lady who visited Welfare Island Prison. "I suppose love of drink brought you here," she said to one of the convicts. "Heavens, no," exclaimed the prisoner, "you can't get nothin' here, lady."

A new-type program will be introduced over Station WRC at 10:15 o'clock tonight, when John Lee Higgins, the poet, presents "In a Poet's Study," made up of original works. Mr. Higgins will be assisted in the interpretations by Tagra Bogar and Justin Winkle. There will be a musical background.

GERARD SWOPE, president of the General Electric Co., and Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, will be heard over WRC at 11 a. m., during a meeting of the National Chamber. Harriman will open the broadcast with a message to the delegates, and Swope's talk will be on "Essentials for Business Recovery."

Capt. W. J. Stannard and the Army Band will give a "Boys' Week" program at 10 a. m., today.

He will include in the program "Youth Triumphant," Hadley; "Boys' March," Elhers, and "Pride of the Capital," by Maj. R. J. Herandez. The last-named is a new march dedicated to the Army Band.

There will also be a "Boys' Week" talk, "Boys and Schools," by Dean John W. Withers, of New York University (WMAL, 2:45 p. m.).

WHEN Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians gather around the microphone on the stage in the National Press Club Auditorium at 9 o'clock tonight for the Old Gold program, heard over WJSV and a coast-to-coast network, there will be approximately 900 guests. This audience will be almost half again as large as it was last Wednesday night.

Washingtonians witnessing these broadcasts are among the few who have watched Fred Waring work before the microphone, since the programs in New York are put on in a closed studio. Guests are not strictly barred, but there is not much room after the orchestra is set up. Waring, while not opposed to a studio audience, feels that a radio program should be heard through a receiver.

However, Nelson Bell, our dramatic confrere, recalls when Fred worked before an audience and got a big kick out of it. It was back in the crystal-set days, when Nelson used to be master of ceremonies for "Crandall's Saturday Nighters." The first portion of the program was broadcast from the WRC studios, then the whole crowd would go over to the Metropolitan Theater, where the patrons, having been invited to remain after the last show, awaited them. The stage was transformed into a studio, the transformation, including the setting up of transmitting equipment, being a part of the show. The broadcast would continue into the early morning hours. Fred and Tom Waring were stars of the "Crandall's Saturday Nighters" many times, and recall with Nelson the grand times they used to have.

Other big radio names who were frequently featured were Kate Smith and Norman Brokenshire.

Nelson is justified in laughing up his sleeve at those who think they are doing a novel thing by inviting listeners to witness a broadcast. If he was not the pioneer, he was certainly among the first to make a radio studio program something to watch as well as to listen to.

James Hay, jr., newspaper writer and humorist, will be heard in "Going to Press" at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon over WJSV. Jim Hay is the one who, in the old days, took the Press Club alligator out for a taxicab ride.

"Chimes of Normandy" will inaugurate a new schedule for Light Opera Gems when it is broadcast tonight at 9:45 o'clock over WJSV.

Now that George Burns and Gracie Allen have returned to the New York studios from Hollywood, the Royal Canadians have deserted Manhattan and will broadcast from Boston during the program over WJSV at 8:30 p. m.

Tribute will be paid to the late Ernest R. Ball, composer of ballads and popular songs, during a program, "The Neglected Minstrel," over WMAL at 3:45 p. m. "The Neglected Minstrel" will be based on episodes in Ball's life.

IRVIN S. COBB, the noted humorist from Paducah, inaugurates his new series of programs over WJSV tonight at 8 o'clock. For more than twenty years his brand of wit has been an American institution. Cobb is to have complete free rein to talk about anything that occurs to him.

The Polish Ambassador, Stanilas Potek, will be heard during a program celebrating the 142d anniversary of Polish Constitution Day over WMAL at 9:30 p. m.

Josef Lhevinne, pianist, in recognition of Poland's Constitution Day, will play an all-Chopin program during his recital at 8:30 p. m., over WRC. Lhevinne will open his program with the first movement of Chopin's Sonata in B minor. He also will play two Mazurkas and two Etudes and will conclude with the Prelude in F-sharp major and the Polonaise in F-flat major.

Beginning tonight the dynamic stage and vaudeville favorite, Irene Franklin, makes her radio debut in a semi-weekly series of song programs, and will be heard each Wednesday and Friday evening thereafter.

Irene, who will present her radio act at 9:15 p. m., over WMAL, began her career in a "straight" role as a child actress in an Augustus Thomas play. Some years later she switched to vaudeville, and swept into nation-wide popularity with her song, "Red Head, Red Head, Gingerbread Head."

She toured the country many times in variety, and also starred in musical comedies, her latest being Jerome Kern's "Sweet Adeline."

Her distinctive style of singing is suited to such popular numbers as "Be Your Age" and "My Husband's First Wife," which Miss Franklin sings in her program tonight. She will be assisted by Jerry Jarnagin, well-known piano purveyor of hot rhythms.

Rails Lead Stocks Higher In Quiet, Lagging Market

Two-Tenths Gain Recorded as Sales Drop to 3,894,630 Shares.

New York, May 2 (A.P.).—Rails offered a tow to a lagging and quieter stock market today, but had to do most of the advancing themselves.

Carrier shares rallied with unusual vigor in the afternoon and closed with a burst of strength for net gains of 1 to 5 points. Several other sections of the list, notable industrials, were unable to find enough new buying fully to offset sales, though final prices outside the rail section were above the day's lows and some utilities advanced. Sales totaled 3,894,630 shares.

Professional traders doubtless felt that the carrier stocks had been lagging on recent advances and were entitled to a flurry. However, current traffic statistics are showing distinct improvement for half a dozen Western roads loaded more freight last week than in the corresponding period of 1932.

Santa Fe jumped 5 points and Union Pacific and Delaware & Hudson around 4. Illinois Central, Atlantic Coast Lines, Lackawanna, Lehigh Valley, Louisville & Nashville and New York Central were up 2 or more, while a number of others improved at least a point. Elsewhere, net losses were fairly plentiful. Bethlehem Steel, American Can, Du Pont, Sears-Roebuck, Radio, U. S. Rubber, Coca Cola and General Foods lost fractions. Oils weakened under omission of the Socony-Vacuum dividend, which had been 10 cents quarterly. That issue was off 2 points at the worst, while New Jersey and California Standards lost more than a point. Allied Chemical was down ½. American Telephone closed just under par for a small decline. Metal issues were sluggish.

Stocks.

Rails led stocks higher in spite of a quiet, lagging market. Most of the advances were made by rails. The average gain was two-tenths of a point. Sales dropped to 3,894,630 shares.

Bonds.

Secondary rail loans led the market. An average gain of five-tenths of a point was recorded. Sales decreased to $16,026,000.

Curb.

Erratic movements characterized trading and utilities enabled the market to recover earlier losses. A further sag was halted by oils. Sales volume dropped to 387,000 shares.

Wheat.

Prices were run up to the highest level since 1931. A notable reduction reported in the spring crop acreage aided the advance. Corn and oats were up. May wheat sold at 71⅛ to 71¼ cents.

Cotton.

Moderate reactions in trading were followed by recoveries on trade and commission house buying, and the market closed 1 to 5 points higher. July sold at 8.23. Liverpool reported a reactionary tone in dealing.

UTILITIES AID CURB TO RECOVER LOSSES

Oils Lessen Further Drop in Lighter Sale of 387,000 Shares.

New York, May 2 (A.P.).—Erratic movements were characteristic of today's movements on the Curb Exchange. An early reaction which brought losses of fractions to more than a point was reduced as utilities took on a firmer aspect.

Irregularity in the late afternoon again gave the list a jagged appearance, although oils turned up slightly at the close to register a slight gain in Standard Oil of Indiana, while Standard Oil of Nebraska firmed a point.

Among the utilities closing fractionally higher were United Gas and American Gas & Electric. Electric Bond & Share dipped 1½, then regained all but a minor fraction. Investment trusts were steady to fractionally improved, while mining shares were somewhat heavy, Newmont losing a major fraction.

U. S. Public Debt Increases $3,000,000,000 in 1 Year

(Associated Press.)

The Nation's public debt has increased $3,000,000,000 in the last year. On April 30 it stood at $21,441,209,176 compared to $18,596,695,430 on the same date a year ago. The debt increased $78,744,899 in April.

The Government's deficit for nine months of the 1933 fiscal year totaled $1,585,625,498 at the end of April as compared with $2,334,105,142 for the similar period of the previous year.

The Government's receipts from income taxes and customs duties continued to decline, the former amounting to $583,168,665 for the nine months as compared with $873,303,905 for the similar period of the previous year. Customs duties brought in only $207,289,317 as compared with $292,375,894.

Miscellaneous internal revenue, which includes collections from levies made in the billion-dollar tax bill and from beer taxes collected during April, amounted to $69,310,282 for the month and $657,872,436 for the nine months. Miscellaneous internal revenue brought in only $420,738,151 for the similar period of the 1932 fiscal year, but none of the new taxes had been levied at that time.

Treasury officials declined to estimate how much tax had been collected from beer during April and said the final figures probably would not be available until the middle of May.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Reports from the United States that securities bearing gold clauses would not be paid in gold when the obligations became due, caused foreign bonds with such clauses to weaken. The market otherwise was fairly good with a sharp rise in transatlantic issues on the 'overnight advance in Wall street. Industrial and gold mining shares were the best of the other sections. Argentina rails easy.

Paris—Trading on the bourse was irregular as a result of profit-taking following yesterday's advance. Later the market became confused by liquidation and the closing was irregular.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse closed firm.

BOND ADVANCES LED BY SECONDARY RAILS

Low-Priced Groups Popular as Sales Decline to $16,026,000.

New York, May 2 (A.P.).—Secondary railway loans resumed their leadership in the bond market today by scoring gains of 1 to 5 or more points and, at the same time, United States Government securities rallied smartly.

Trading activity was principally confined to the low-priced transportation group, transactions in other divisions showing no unusual volume. Sales totaled $16,026,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate loans advanced half a point.

The more active transportation gainers included some liens of Alleghany Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake Corporation, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, Kansas City Southern, and New York Central, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific and Southern.

Gold in World Up to '32 1,085,000,000 Ounces

(Associated Press.)

Now that gold in all its forms has become perhaps the world's most absorbing topic, the United States Bureau of Mines has calculated the total production of the precious metal since its mining became definitely recorded.

From 1493 through 1931 the world total was set yesterday at 1,085,000,000 ounces. The United States production, beginning in 1792, has totaled 226,384,295 ounces, worth $4,679,778,700. The peak year was 1915, with an output worth $101,036,000.

Preliminary estimates for 1932 fixed the world production at 22,500,000 ounces. The silver yield that year was put at 160,000,000 ounces, with the total since 1493 15,300,000,000 ounces.

WHEAT VALUES RISE TO HIGH 1931 LEVELS

Cut in Spring Crop Acreage Aids Gain; Corn and Oats Advance.

Chicago, May 2 (A.P.).—Lively right-about reaction ran wheat up about 2 cents a bushel late today to high price records, unequaled since 1931.

Unofficial crop reports indicated notable reduction of United States 1933 spring wheat acreage, and that less than 29,000,000 acres of domestic winter wheat would pay to harvest, the present growth condition being the lowest ever known at this date. Evidence of quickened progress of inflation measures at Washington counted also as a stimulus to wheat price upturns.

Wheat closed nervous, at some setback from the day's top, but ⅞ to 1⅛ above yesterday's finish; corn, ¾ to 1 up; Oats, ⅛ to ½ advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10 cents.

Position in Consumption.

Notwithstanding that 1,000,000 acres of spring wheat on the Pacific Coast have been substituted for winter wheat destroyed, today's crop reports suggested that the United States is almost certainly now in a position where normal consumption will use up all domestic wheat grown this year, and make heavy inroads into the surplus carried over from previous crops. In this connection, stress was laid on the fact that No. 2 red wheat for immediate delivery to mills commanded 77¼ cents a bushel in Chicago today, a price far above that of any future delivery, and that similar wheat in New York had overtopped $1 a bushel, spot cash.

Public speculative buying of wheat strongly reentered the market today after early price setbacks that were associated with preceding weakness of securities and with delays to farm legislation.

Corn and oats developed independent firmness owing to likelihood of curtailed acreage owing to bad weather. Provisions rallied with grains.

COTTON PRICES RISE ON TRADE'S BUYING

July Sells at 8.23, With the General Market Up 1 to 5 Points.

New York, May 2 (A.P.).—Moderate reactions in cotton today were followed by further trade and commission house buying. July contracts, after selling off to 8.03, or about 17 points net lower, rallied to 8.27, or back to yesterday's high price, and closed at 8.23. The general market closed very steady at net advances of 1 to 5 points.

Active months sold about 14 to 18 points net lower during the early trading under Southern selling and liquidation promoted by easy Liverpool cables and talk of a weaker technical position following the rapid advances of the past few days. The decline to 7.95 for May and 8.25 for October, however, brought in fresh buying orders and the market steadied during the middle of the day in sympathy with the rallies from early declines in stock and grain markets.

Covering and Rebuying.

There was covering or rebuying by early sellers as well as a continued trade and commission house demand on the late advance to 8.00 for May and 8.50 for October. Closing quotations were a few points off from the best under realizing.

Much of the early selling was attributed to a disposition to take profits following recent advances or pending the further development of farm relief policies.

There may have been a little selling on reports of increased fertilizer sales in the South during April, as compared with last year, or a private report pointing to an increase of 8 per cent in acreage intentions. Liverpool cables reported reactionary tone in that market under local and continental profit taking. Exports today, 15,029, making 6,609,528 so far this season. Port receipts, 20,919. U. S. port stocks, 4,216,578.

APPLE FETE QUEEN GETS CROWN TODAY

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., May 2.—With an air of festal merriment, Winchester late today welcomed a native Belgian girl, Mlle. Francoise May, daughter of the Belgian Ambassador at Washington, who tomorrow and Thursday will reign as Queen Shenandoah the Tenth of the annual apple blossom festival.

Escorted by the Virginia State Police, Mlle. May arrived in Winchester accompanied by Count Francois de Buisseret, first secretary of the Belgian Legation, and Mrs. B. B. Dutton, chairman of the queen's committee of the fete. The party went immediately to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Philip W. Boyd, where Mlle. May and Count de Buisseret will be entertained during the fete.

The festival opens tomorrow and tonight 32 princesses from girls schools of Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and the District of Columbia were arriving for the queen's court.

Dern to Place Crown.

Tomorrow Secretary of War Dern, who will crown Mlle. May, will arrive. Ambassador and Mme. May and their two daughters, also are expected here tomorrow to witness the coronation.

Tomorrow afternoon the festival will officially open with the coronation on the esplanade of Handley High School at 3 p. m. The ceremonial is adapted from the old English rites of the time of Alfred the Great and the Floralian rites of ancient Belgium.

Secretary Dern will crown Mlle. May while the minister of the crown, R. Gray Williams, Winchester attorney, presents the oath. The church will be represented by the Rev. Robert B. Nelson, rector of Christ Episcopal Church here, while Mayor Charles R. Anderson of Winchester will present a key to the city.

Immediately following the coronation, 1,000 pupils and faculty members of Winchester public schools will give a pageant depicting the coming of spring in many lands.

Blosson Balls Scheduled.

Wednesday evening the queen will receive her court in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Stouffer, in Courtfield. A "mummers' parade," sponsored by Winchester and nearby fire departments, also will be held. Several apple blossom balls are scheduled for local dance halls.

At 11 a. m. Thursday the pageant, "In Springtime," will be repeated in Handley Stadium. The queen and her court will be entertained at luncheon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Russell.

"The Trail of the Pink Petals," the grand feature parade, will move at 2 p. m. Thursday. Musical organizations, commercial floats, cadet corps and artistic arrangements representing leading business and civic organizations of the East will participate. The queen and her court will ride in a special division headed by a military band.

The queen's ball will be Thursday evening in Shenandoah Valley Academy Gymnasium, while a number of balls are scheduled for other Winchester halls.

Capital Girl Scouts To Guard Apple Queen

Part of the guard of honor for Miss Francoise May, daughter of the Belgian Ambassador, when she is crowned queen of the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival today, will be Troop 53, Washington Girl Scouts.

Miss May is captain of the troop, which will go by bus to Winchester to be present at the crowning. Mrs. Gerritt F. Miller, honorary captain, will take them.

Blessed Andre Fournet Is Ordered Canonized

Vatican City, May 2 (A.P.).—Twenty-three cardinals meeting with the Pope in a semipublic consistory, together with 53 patriarchs and bishops, today approved canonization of Blessed Andre Fournet, French founder of the congregation of Daughters of the Cross.

The canonization will take place June 4 in St. Peter's. The new delegate representing the United States, Archbishop Cicognati, was present as secretary of the congregation of rites.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL.

YESTERDAY, just a bit south of this point, something was said concerning Darryl Zanuck's enthusiasm for "modern headline stories, packing a punch aimed at the boxoffice."

Richard Barthelmess

It was not uppermost in our thoughts at the moment, but, as it turns out, "Central Airport," the Richard Barthelmess feature now occupying the screen at the Earle, offers a perfect example of Mr. Zanuck's eagerness to put news to practical account in his film making.

An honest confession being good for the soul, it is Prof. Frank La Falce, expert in scientific research for the Warner Brothers' local offices, who calls attention to the fact that in the January issue of the Popular Science Monthly there appears an account of the manner in which two Navy airplanes, lost in a fog, were guided to an improvised landing field, illuminated by automobile headlights, by the unison honking of the motor car horns.

After viewing the picture in which Mr. Barthelmess and an approximately priceless cargo of human freight is guided to earth in an identical manner, a great many of the cash customers are reported to have expressed themselves as confident that it couldn't be done.

Mr. Zanuck, who evidently also reads the magazines as well as the newspapers, knew that it could before he ordered it filmed as the climacteric action in the thwarted love story of Mr. Barthelmess and the charming but indissolubly married Miss Sally Eilers. That, they say, is the way Mr. Zanuck is.

Speaking of the Earle, one wonders how a camping trip ever contrived to wind up on the stage of the Warner Brothers ace house in a week of personal appearances. That, however, is what seems to have happened to Miss Joan Blondell and her comparatively new husband, George Barnes.

Miss Blondell having completed her immediate errands about the picture studios, and Mr. Barnes, one of the film industry's foremost cameramen having momentarily run out of film, or something, they decided—or so one hears—to do a little leisurely honeymooning on a motor car camping trip.

No sooner have they begun seriously to look about for a suitable spot to pitch the Packard in the cramped and diminutive State of Texas than word comes of this date on the Warner time in this Capital City of these more or less glorious United States of Amiracle if we ever get going again!

By some devious and tortuous process they can not quite explain, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes wound up a night or two ago in Pittsburgh, whence they arrived in Washington late in the night of Monday, which was by way of being night before last.

Yesterday, having in the meantime been comfortably ensconced—whatever that may be—in the Wardman Park Hotel, they adhered rigidly to the actor's custom of arising at the crack of dawn and visited Mount Vernon, the U. S. Senate, a few of the downtown shops and a cosmetician or two, where Miss Blondell stocked up against makeup needs that are not the first concern of a camping trip!

On these excursions and forays, Miss Blondell is said to have been perfectly disguised in a red wig and a pair of smoked glasses, thus avoiding being dismantled by the souvenir hunters and catching writer's cramp from the autograph books.

The jaunt will probably turn into a cramping trip for her today.

That is to say that having spent last evening with friends in Baltimore—unless the ladies and gentlemen (sic) of the Fourth Estate are being given the merry old run-around—Miss Blondell and Mr. Barnes will be guests of honor at a luncheon soiree today at 1 in the Warner Clubrooms, when and where the ladies and gentlemen (sic) of the press also will be plucked from the breadlines and sumptuously wined and dined, or, times being what they are, maybe only beered and beaned.

Each of us, of course, will have an autograph album and nine or ten fountain pens in each pocket, which, as any one can plainly see, will put a stop to Miss Blondell's vacation right there!

And that isn't, or ain't, as the case may be, all by again as much.

Today, at an hour as yet undetermined as this is being written in the murkier hours of a showery Tuesday midevening, Norma Talmadge and George Jessel, who will headline the stage bill at Loew's Fox, come Friday, arrive in town two days ahead of their starting gun.

It is being bruited about among the better informed receptionists that Miss Talmadge and Mr. Jessel are being five-o'clock-teased by Mr. Barron and his executive associates tomorrow afternoon.

It seems that these movie queens never reign but they pour!

It appears that that mischievous young rodent, Master Mickey Mouse, has now gone in for physical, as well as mental, refreshment in the large, or wholesale, manner.

A late afternoon emissary, spic and span in a freshly starched uniform, drops by the office to deposit a large, hefty and frigid carton of a new commodity to which Mickey now lends his name—a delicious chocolate-vanilla frozen dainty on which this column fairly foundered on a warm and soggy Monday afternoon.

Thanks to Mr. Cliff Sparks, who sponsors the new summer cooler-offer, we are able to assure all and sundry that it will be equally pat, henceforth, to remark either that Mickey Mouse is a nice screen star, or that Mickey Mouse is an ice cream star.

He is both—and if you don't believe it you can ask our doctor!

And to add to the confusion in the mind of the dramatic desk as to whether this is May or Christmas, Mr. Leonard B. Schloss, manager of Glen Echo Park and a national leader in his field, plays his gracious role of harbinger of hot weather by mailing the amusement editors season passes to all the wonders of the park that are to be thrown open to the public this Saturday, May 6, as well as to that perfectly appointed solace of the heated term, the Crystal Pool, which will not be available for sunburn and splashing until Saturday, May 27.

This is a friendly gesture which Mr. Schloss makes annually at about this time of year and one of which we are keenly appreciative. We are grateful to him now, but when the temperatures go off the cold standard and get up around the 100 mark we not only thank him—we bless him!

Washington will soon have two outlets for foreign-made films not now accorded general release through either the downtown or residential movie houses.

In addition to the Washington Film Guild, under the managerial guidance of Harry Rosenfeld, which is now presenting the best of the Russian product in Sidney Lust's Hippodrome Theater on Thursday and Friday nights at 11:30, the Foreign Cinema Guild of Washington, W. Ray Gingell, managing director, will inaugurate its activities in the State Theater, 6968 Wisconsin avenue, Bethesda, Md., on Thursday, May 11, with first local screenings of "Der Raub der Mona Lisa," or "The Theft of the Mona Lisa," which will be shown in English at 6:30 and 9:45 p. m., and in German at 8:30.

The picture is based on the actual theft of da Vinci's "Mona Lisa" from the Louvre in 1911, an episode, incidentally, that played an important part in the developments of Gaumont's "Rome Express," recently shown at the Rialto.

"The House of Death" will be Mr. Rosenfeld's next presentation at the Hippodrome, and following "The Theft of the Mona Lisa," either "Two Hearts That Beat in Three-Four Time," or the French dialogue film, "Moon Over Morocco," will be shown in Bethesda.

Combining vacation visit and singing engagement, that favorite and talented Washington artiste, Dorothy Skinner, returns to her home town this week as the feature of the new floor show at the Madrillon, where Janice and Federico, dancers, also are appearing.

At the Club Michel's theatrical night, tonight, Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians—following their Old Gold broadcast and last performance at the Earle—and Olsen & Johnson, from Loew's Fox, will be guests of honor. Well, anyhow, guests.

"And that," as the little turtle remarked when things got hot, "is why I think I'll pull into Michel!"

NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

RKO-KEITH'S

By NELSON B. BELL.

Ordinary nightmares ought to have no terror for Fay Wray. After having undergone the most horrifying experiences and nerve-shattering ordeals as principal beneficiary of the Gargantuan infatuation of Kong, the 50-foot gorilla in "King Kong," she now is subjected to the perils of the deep and the destructive interest of a giant squid, which Mr. Ralph Bellamy, only by dint of most extraordinary heroism and exercise of Herculean strength, manages to reduce to a cloud of black ink with an acetylene blow torch.

This was a feat of twofold import on Mr. Bellamy's part, since while he was rescuing the rich young woman with whom he, as a roughneck deep-sea diver, had gradually fallen in love on an expedition to the tropics, his partner, the old U-boat commander, was over on the other side of the ship salvaging $3,000,000 in gold bullion with a magnificent display of that particular brand of social and commercial perfidy known as the double-cross. The fact that the bottom dropped out of the treasure chest just as Capt. Schlemmer got it to the surface, and a hoisting chain fouled his foot and dragged him down to a sudden and sodden death 60 fathoms deep, sort of evened things up. Especially since, in the final fadeout, Mr. Bellamy and the girl seem to have reached an understanding. In fact, seem to have clinched it—after the manner of all self-respecting fadeouts!

At any rate, that will give you a sketchy idea of what "Below the Sea" is all about. An authentic expedition in search of deep-sea pictures and rare specimens and a renegade treasure hunt are combined with some deftness, a considerable amount of hokum and some introductory storm scenes that are probably as realistic as are apt to be encountered until somebody decides to film "Moby Dick" all over again!

The expeditionary portions of the picture are in the best Williamson manner and would be interesting as marine exhibits apart from any important bearing they might have upon the final working out of the exciting story Jo Swerling has evolved from material that may not be said to be virgin to the screen.

Ralph Bellamy, usually a suave and polished young man of impeccable deportment, is surprisingly convincing as a rough and tough diver. Miss Wray, as the wealthy young woman who makes it her business to hunt for trouble and usually finds it, strengthens the conviction that she is slowly undergoing a strange metamorphosis from one of the cinema's shrinking violets into one of the most ominous of its seductive menaces. No less effective than these two is Fredrik Vogeding, as Capt. Schlemmer, the former U-boat officer, who knows where the treasure is buried and would much rather silt your gullet than let you share in any of it.

These three are adequately supported and are surrounded by a complete equipment of apparently genuine deep-sea gadgets with which Jack Holt has familiarized the picture-going public perhaps to a greater degree than anybody else.

The supplementary bill has a Masquers' burlesque melodrama, "Lost in Limehouse, or Lady Esmeralda's Predicament," as its chief feature, with Laura La Plante, Walter Byron and a long list of notables featured in an endless catalogue of ridiculous caricatures. Reinald Werrenrath, surrounded by a collegiate glee club, is star of another short-reel subject in which Graham McNamee describes the beauties of the University of California.

A Scrappy cartoon comedy, "Scrappy's Party," introduces many clever drawings of world celebrities and the RKO-News completes a well-balanced run-of-the-movie-mill entertainment.

SACRED AND SOMBER MARK G.W. CONCERT

Program Most Enjoyed Is When Men's and Women's Clubs Sing Together.

The sacred and the somber scored last night at the annual spring concert of George Washington University Glee Clubs at the Willard Hotel. Although enlivened with some lighter and airy efforts, the concert was essentially of the measured melancholy of the hymn.

The audience, which filled the large ballroom and remained to dance, was pleased with the guest tenor, Nils Falkman, who sang Richard Strauss' "Traum Durch die Dammerung." He also was heard in the incidental solos in Gounod's "Sanctus," sung with effect by the combined men's and women's clubs.

In fact, the occasions when both clubs were heard together were best enjoyed. The voices were especially effective in "National Hymn" of Warren and a special arrangement of an Easter hymn of Rubenstein. The combined clubs also were splendid in "Praise to the Lord," an antique hymn arranged by Christiansen.

There was considerable departure from the sacred in the group offered by the women's club. They sang "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" and concluded with the rollicking "Cachuca and Finale" from Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Gondoliers."

The clubs again proved the capable direction of Robert Howe Harmon, under whose tutelage their outstanding singing has been developed. Grace Ruble Harmon accompanied the choral singing, while Mr. Falkman was accompanied by Miss Sarah Stulman.

Names of Baby Jaguars in Post Contest to Be Announced Today.

The baby jaguars at the Zoo will be named at noon today when Lou Brown, director of publicity at the Fox Theater, announces the winner of The Post contest.

Mr. Brown announced that more than 7,000 suggestions for names have been received and three persons have been busy the last two days sorting the names.

The first prize is $25 and the ten Post readers who suggest the next ten best names will receive pairs of tickets to the Fox Theater, where "Zoo in Budapest" is playing. The contest closed at 6 p. m. Monday.

STORY OF CREATION IS TOLD ONCE MORE

Haydn Score Treated With Understanding in New Society's Singing.

The biblical story of the beginnings of this terrestial globe was told again last evening as the four months old Washington Oratorio Society, under the able leadership of George F. Kortzenborn, sang Haydn's timeless "The Creation" at the Central High School, under the auspices of the Community Center Department of the District of Columbia.

Principal singing roles were carried by Esther Ingram, soprano, as Gabriel; Neal Parrish, bass, as Raphael, and George F. Anderson, tenor, Uriel. Capably accompanying the society, although their playing was at times lost in the expanses of Central's auditorium, were Marjorie Davis at the piano and Gertrude Dyre at the organ.

With admirable restraint, the society presented only the first two parts of the oratorio, the third, in which the characters of Adam and Eve are presented, was omitted—but 'twas a beautiful world that was created.

Whether in solos, duets, trios, or parts requiring the entire personnel, the Haydn score was treated with sympathetic understanding and reverence that quite belied the age of the organization, a truly comprehensive treatment of a work of sufficient proportions firmly to establish the Washington Oratorio Society, with no further ado, as one of the city's finest choral organizations and one to which Washington can point with pardonable pride.

If the succeeding months register accomplishments comparable with the society's first four, it is inevitable that the fondest hope of any choral society will be reached—the singing of a major oratorio with the National Symphony Orchestra. Indeed, here is an organization that will bear close watching by all lovers of vocal music.

Former U. S. Legal Aid Arrested as Fugitive

East Chicago, Ind., May 2 (A.P.).—Edward A. Wickey, former assistant to the U. S. Attorney General, was arrested today on a fugitive warrant charging misappropriation of United States Treasury checks. Wickey, a prominent lawyer and industrialist, posted $5,000 bond at Fort Wayne, Ind.

The indictment was voted by a Federal grand jury at Washington and he will be taken there for trial. He was charged with misappropriating checks for $450 and $509 drawn on the Treasury in connection with a California estate for which Wickey was representing the trustee.

STUDIO ISSUE GOES BACK TO COUNSEL

Having apparently answered the question of whether a music studio in a residential zone is a home occupation in the affirmative, the District Commissioners yesterday referred the matter again to Corporation Counsel William W. Bride following a hearing.

Although Mr. Bride had ruled that the studio is not a home occupation in the meaning of the zoning act, and had recommended prosecution of the operators, and although the Commissioners had sustained this finding only a short while ago, they subsequently discovered that they had taken an exactly opposite view in 1929.

The case concerns LaSalle Spier, who conducts a musical studio at 2235 Bancroft place. Complaints against the musical noises which have emanated from the place have come to the Commissioners spasmodically over a period of three years.

Only recently neighbors of Mr. Spier employed counsel, as did the music teacher.

Yesterday following arguments on both sides the Commissioners agreed to let the attorneys submit further briefs to Corporation Counsel Bride, who would be asked thereafter whether he still recommended prosecution of Mr. Spier.

Daniel E. Gargea, secretary to the Commissioners, on October 31, 1929, upon advice of Maj. D. A. Davison, First Assistant Engineer Commissioner, and following investigation by the building inspector's office, wrote to Mr. Spier as follows:

"I am directed by the Commissioners to inform you that no occupancy permit is required in order to permit you to give piano lessons in these premises. Such a pracice constitutes a legitimate home occupation under the zoning regulations."

Among the complainants who are urging prosecution are Commander A. G. Stirling, Mrs. Elinor W. Exnicios, C. Y. Wheeler and Henry M. Ward, all of whom live on Bancroft place.

Collegians to Play Three-Act Comedy

Mask and Bauble Club at Georgetown Offers Closing Bill.

Closing its season, the Mask and Bauble Club, of Georgetown University, will present the three-act comedy, "Wings Across Europe," tomororw night and Friday night, the first time this play has been given here by a dramatic club. The presentation, an ambitious offering for the collegians, will be in the Trinity Church Hall, Thirty-sixth and O streets, at 8:15 p. m. daily.

This satire on the British cabinet had a run of eighteen months in New York, where it was produced by the Theater Guild. It deals with the efforts of a young scientist to get the British government to accept his scientific discovery whereby he hopes to revolutionize the living conditions of humanity. R. Vernon Murphy, a veteran player with the college group, will have the role of the young scientist. The cabinet members will be portrayed by Joseph S. Kirby, T. Roland Gallagher, Frank B. York, jr., Elmer P. Freischlag, John T. Leal, George D. Crowley, Richard E. Coyle, James F. Stewart, Donald F. McCahill, Paul H. Ducharme, Neil T. Regan and John J. Power, jr. Others in the cast include Thomas J. McCarthy, J. Nicholas Shriver, Vincent Carlan and James D. Curtin.

The final dress rehearsals will be held tonight and tomorrow. Arthur B. White is in charge. This is the first public play this season by the club.

How's Business at your "SECOND ADDRESS" Mr. Merchant?

YOU were mighty careful in selecting the location for your store. You wanted to make it easy for your customers to visit.

But what about your "second address" — your telephone address?

Many people find it impossible to get away from home or office whenever they wish to shop in person. To these people, your advertisements are the windows and counters of your store. Your telephone is the door through which they enter and buy.

But only if you invite them. Make your telephone address known to them by featuring it in your advertising. Tell them how welcome they will be when they visit you by telephone.

TIGERS TURN BACK YANKEES IN MOUND DUEL, 3-2

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Cleveland, Ohio, May 2.

DISSENSION cropped out on the Washington ball club this afternoon. The wrangle started during the Nats' brief practice as the aftermath of a foot race among Johnny Kerr, Al Schacht and Moe Berg. The fellow who crossed the line the winner was, of all persons, Mr. Berg, which calls for a hurried explanation.

It was a walking race around the track that circles the playing field, one of those heel-and-toe affairs that provides the laugh at every track meet. Mr. Berg, it seems, knows how to walk professionally, while Kerr and Schacht merely know how to walk.

Kerr and Schacht Squawk Loudly.

After trailing Berg to the finish line, Kerr and Schacht squawked loudly. Berg, they said, was picking 'em up all right, but he wasn't laying 'em down according to Hoyle.

As a matter of fact, his two victims alleged Berg was running, not walking. The heel must hit the ground first under the walking race rules and Berg's heels, which were plainly visible to his opposition from the outset of the race, weren't being planted on the ground before his toes struck, so they said.

But Berg shouted them down. "Just like Ugo Frigerio, the great Italian walking champ, that's how I walk," declared Moe. "Frigerio and I are just a couple of great walkers. Did you see the hip movement? Just like a swivel. That's the difference between walkers and great walkers.

"Where do you guys get off, accusing me of running?" Moe wanted to know. "If you were smart about it and really wanted to win, you'd insist on me running. Then you'd have a chance against me in a walking race."

Grove Just a Cousin, Says Boken.

Modest and shy, Bob Boken is far removed from the fresh rookie, but he pulled one after his winning hit off Lefty Grove last Sunday that is worthy of retelling.

Boken was mauled by his happy teammates after his return to the bench following his clean single that scored Kuhel with the winning run off Grove. "Atta boy, Bob," Cronin shouted.

"Nothing to it," said Boken. "He's just my cousin."

New Parks Robbed Foxx Of Record.

The big plant that houses the Indians' baseball park here is credited with depriving Jimmy Foxx of a new home-run record last year, when his 58 homers fell 2 shy of eclipsing Babe Ruth's mark of 60.

After July 31, with the Indians moved into the new Municipal Stadium, only one visiting player was able to clout a homer into the stands. In 1927, when Ruth set up his record of 60, 3, 4 and 5 homers a game was not uncommon in the old league park here.

Changed conditions in St. Louis also affected Foxx's home-run total. Ruth's record was established before the right field stands in Sportsman Park were screened. At least five balls that Foxx bounced against the screening last season were restricted to doubles.

New rules at Yankee Stadium also had a bearing on Foxx's total. Twice he bounced balls off the turf into the low bleacher seats and was held to doubles, hits that went for homers when Ruth was totaling his crop of 60.

Baseball Day Wasted in Cleveland

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor The Post).

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 2.—The Nats are still holding their own in the West. The four-game winning streak they brought along with them from the East is still intact after two days' sojourn here. The team that won't be beaten can't be beaten, especially on open dates and when the "rain—no game" sign is hanging out.

Capt. Billy Evans of the good ship Cleveland early this morning is reported to have swung his telescope to the Southwest and sighted a 2-by-4 cloud making its way in the general direction of Lake Erie. Downtown it was invisible to the naked eye and the workaday folk were seeking shelter from the sun's warmth, but Capt. Evans from his bridge atop the new Municipal Stadium said it looked like rain, my hearties, and there would be no game today.

Manager Joe Cronin of the Nats was righteously indignant, especially when the afternoon blossomed into a perfect baseball day. There was the suspicion that Cleveland was glad to welcome an extra day of rest for its pitchers, while no good would come of the Nats' second day of idleness at a time when the team was playing what is known in this league as winning baseball.

Nats Work Out But Can Not Play.

The heavens did open to the extent of a few drops of moisture around noon time, but Manager Joe Cronin shooed his pitchers and infielders out to the ball park for a bit of exercise, especially Earl Whitehill, whose pitching assignment for today will carry over to tomorrow. The field was slightly damp, but by game time there would have been no complaints.

Thus, with only two games remaining for the Nats in Cleveland on the present western tour, Cronin's men will be called upon to face the pitching of the cream of the Indians' staff. Mel Harder will go to the box for the Tribe tomorrow and Wes Ferrell on Thursday.

When Washington comes back to Cleveland on the next trip, Oral Hildebrand, the present sensation among Western pitchers, will be available to Manager Peckinpaugh. Due to the five-hit game he hurled against the White Sox here yesterday, he had not been listed to oppose the Nats in their three days here, a circumstance that probably sharpened the vision of Billy Evans when he sighted that Singer midget cloud this morning.

It seems that this fellow Harder, who will oppose the Nats tomorrow, has lost three games and won none this season, but it also seems that Joe Cronin is not underestimating him. Harder lost one of his games 1-0 and another 2-1, and if he represents any easy picking, so does a cactus patch, or words to that effect.

Good Pitching Has Helped Indians.

The Indians have been getting smart pitching all season, it seems, especially when it is noted that the Tribe with a combined batting average of .217, is outhitting its opposition by 5 points. Figure it out for yourself. But the fact remains that at one point last week, there was only one .200 hitter, not .300, on the Cleveland Club.

In an effort to inject some batting power into the club, Peckinpaugh yanked Eddie Morgan and his .194 average off first base and installed Harley Boss, although in a gesture of confidence toward his rookie shortstop, Bill Knickerbocker, he has made no change in that position despite Knick's unimpressive .128 average, representing five hits in 39 times at bat, one for extra bases. The slugging Joe Vosmik is clouting the ball for a grand .145.

Another item that probably contributed to the keenness of Billy Evans' weather eye is the fact that Bill Cissell, the regular second baseman, is nursing an injured leg and will welcome the additional day of rest.

Everybody with Nats worked out today at the imposing Cleveland stadium with the exception of Outfielders Manush, Goslin, Schulte, Rice and Harris. Union rules of the outfielders construe rainy days as holidays, especially in Cleveland, where the overworked outfielders have no fences to lean against while the rest of the boys are playing ball.

Lee, Philly Fly-Hawk, Lost to Team 10 Days

Philadelphia, May 2 (A.P.).—Injured in an attempt to stop a sizzling grounder from the bat of Pie Traynor, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Hal Lee, Phillies' left fielder, will be out of the game for about 10 days.

The accident occurred in the seventh inning of yesterday's Pittsburgh-Phils contest. Lee made a diving attempt to get in front of the horsehide as it shot by him. He suffered a wrenched shoulder, a twisted wrist and a sprained ankle.

BARBERS CHANGE NAME.

Tony Burroto's Barber nine will have the name Certified instead of United before their occupational title hereafter. The team is seeking a game for Sunday. Call Metropolitan 7990.

Post Drops Fine Collections At Request of Pres. Griffith

In deference to the request of Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club, The Post has decided to withdraw from the movement started by Nat fans to take up a collection of $200 in dimes to pay the fines assessed by American League Head Will Harridge on Second Baseman Buddy Myer and Pitcher Earl Whitehill. These two popular players were banished and fined for their part in the fistic battle with Ben Chapman and the New York Yankees when these two teams met here last week. Donations received will be returned by mail to those who gave their names and addresses, while anonymous contributions will be turned over to the Washington Community Chest fund.

President Griffith takes the stand that such a collection would set a bad precedent and would have the effect of stripping the league head of his disciplinary powers.

"It is with regret that I have learned of the collection sponsored by The Post to pay fines of Buddy Myer and Earl Whitehill assessed by League President Harridge following last Tuesday's game in Washington.

"Whether or not the fines were justified, I regard them as a matter of American League discipline, which must be maintained, and I am opposed to any reimbursement of the players.

"I believe such a collection would set a bad precedent in such cases and strip the league president of his disciplinary powers, which are so necessary to the proper conduct of the games. Baseball must maintain its high standard and support the authority delegated to the league officials, and I am certain you will bear with me in that belief.

"I appreciate the spirit in which The Post sponsored the collection and the restriction of each contribution to 10 cents, but I think baseball would best be served by abandoning the collection."

Huttick Near K. O. in 7th, But Outpoints Kimrey

By DAVE HERMAN.

PERILOUSLY close to being knocked out in the seventh after slumping to the canvas for a count of five, Arthur Huttick, hard-hitting German-American light heavyweight, weathered a menacing storm of punches in the last two rounds of his eight-round fight with Dewey Kimrey, of North Carolina, last night at Portner's Arena, but was awarded the decision unanimously, thanks to the aggressive New Yorker's advantage on points piled up earlier in the battle.

Coming with startling suddenness, at a time when it looked as though Hutting was coasting on to another one of his easy victories, the knockdown injected into the contest the necessary fluid that turned an otherwise drab and colorless feature match into a thrillingly tense finish.

For six rounds, Huttick, leaping in fast and furiously, tore through the big Tarheel's defense with comparative ease, riddled his body with smash after smash, and numerous times had him hanging on for dear life.

Huttick Takes Count Of Five.

The seventh round was hardly a few seconds old before the aroused Kimrey chased Huttick over to the latter's corner, caught him off guard, and nailed him with a terrific right cross flush on the New Yorker's jaw.

Huttick doubled up and dropped to his side, apparently in great agony. For a while it appeared to be a certain knockout, but, the ambitious youngster came up before the sixth count, and stalked around the ring dazedly and drunkenly. The old courage seemed to be with him, and he finished the round without another jolting. Try as he might, Kimrey failed to put over another punch in this round that was labeled a knockout. A smart and experienced fighter could have finished his man under such conditions.

In the eighth Huttick took a terrific beating, as, Kimrey, realizing that his opponent was weakened, cracked him with at least five stiff rights, and two lefts that had the New Yorker wobbling around the ring, and almost out on his feet.

Huttick easily was the best boxer of the two, but 'tis true that he was negligent with his defense. Kimrey, outweighing his rival by 15 pounds, did not impress the old faithful present—and there was a rather slim attendance—but his gameness won him numerous admirers. He has much to learn. Before fighting again, Kimrey should learn to stop holding, one of the biggest faults with some of the big boys who come down this way.

Smith Knocks Out Groves.

Jimmy (Kid) Smith, the roving Huntington, W. Va., wildcat, got off to a flying start in his semiwindup debut performance, by knocking out Baltimore Harry Groves in the fourth round with a crashing right to the pit of the stomach. The finishing blow was one of a number that hurt Groves during the three rounds and one minute and 50 seconds the bout lasted. Groves did not drop until a few seconds after the punch was landed, for he held on to Smith with both hands wrapped around his body, falling only when Smith's seconds yelled to him to "push him away." Smith looked good, and will be brought back for another shot.

Arlington County Board Favors Charity Boxing

The plan, introduced by Commissioner Lyman Kelley, will come up for passage Saturday night at a meeting of the board of commissioners, it was stated.

Illinois Lawmakers Would Ban Wrestling

Springfield, Ill., May 2 (A.P.).—Professional wrestling in Illinois would be prohibited under a bill introduced in the Legislature today. It was advanced to second reading without reference to committee and is scheduled to come up for final house vote soon.

The bill is an outgrowth of the squabble between wrestling promoters and the Illinois Athletic Commission. The commission recently barred wrestling, but yesterday restored it under two classes to segregate mere shows from real contests.

Baseball and Tennis For Navy Teams Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 2.—Baseball with Gettysburg College and tennis with Duke University will be the midweek athletic attractions at the Naval Academy tomorrow.

In the meantime, the Middies are looking forward to another big weekend program of activity, with nine events to be staged at home and one away. Outstanding of the day's contests will be rowing with varsity and freshmen crews of Cornell, baseball with Georgetown, and field and track competition with varsity and freshmen teams of William and Mary College. The varsity lacrosse team will be on the road, meeting Penn State at State College and another varsity event at home will be a rifle match with District of Columbia guardsmen to mark the opening of the local season. The plebes will engage in three other contests, namely, tennis and lacrosse with Baltimore City College; baseball with Severn Prep School.

Ridden by Jockey E. Arcaro, who had already booted home two winners, Pulis plowed through the mud after a poor start to beat out the odds-on favorite, Adelaide A., by half a length. Dr. Jillson was third three and a half lengths behind the winner. Concisus, an early favorite, finished fourth.

Keefer Event Golf Champ Repeats

Mrs. Von Steiner's 88 Nets Victory by a Single Stroke.

Mrs. Hahn, With 163, Second; Gross to Mrs. Haynes.

MRS. ALMA VON STEINER, of Congressional Country Club, made a successful defense of the Mrs. Frank Royer Keefer Cup yesterday at Chevy Chase with a strong 18-hole medal round of 88 that enabled her to nose out the first day's leader, Mrs. Gilbert Hahn, of Woodmont, for the championship by one stroke.

After taking a 94—10—84 for the first half of the tournament, Mrs. Von Steiner made a strong comeback to shoot the two nines in 44 each, and, with her 10 handicap, finished the 36-hole event with a winning net of 162.

The bronzed Mrs. Hahn, who led the opening day by three strokes, soared past the century mark yesterday and captured second low net prize with 94—101—32—163.

Mrs. Davis' 164 Nets Third.

One stroke to the rear of Mrs. Hahn was Mrs. J. E. Davis, of Army and Navy, whose 95—97—24—164 enabled her to win third prize.

Tying for fourth low net honors were Mrs. J. F. Fross, of Indian Spring, and Mrs. A. E. Fischer, of Beaver Dam, each of whom had 165.

Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, of Columbia, captured first medal honors with two snappy rounds of 88 for a 176. Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow, 5 handicap player from Elkridge, and Maryland State champion, was one of two Baltimore entrants to win a prize. Mrs. Morrow's 91—92—183 gave her second low gross prize.

The consolation prize winners were Mrs. B. C. Hartig, of Manor, with 177 net; Mrs. Douglas Tschiffely, with 177, and Miss Edith McHenry, of Elkridge, with 178.

Mrs. Leo Walper, of Kenwood, was awarded the prize for the best low net of the first day after winning in the draw with several others. Mrs. Hahn was not eligible to receive the prize, since she already had been awarded the runner-up prize.

Coming to the thirty-sixth hole, both Mrs. Von Steiner and Mrs. Hahn were tied with nets of 157, but the Congressional ace required only five shots, one over par, while Mrs. Hahn took a six. Mrs. Von Steiner's 88 equaled the low medal turned in by Mrs. Haynes.

RED SOX BOW TO BROWNS IN TENTH

Blaeholder's Squeeze Scores Run That Wins, 2 to 1.

ST. LOUIS, May 2 (A.P.).—Pitcher George Blaeholder won his own game today when, with Burns on third, he made a safe "squeeze" bunt in the tenth inning to bring in the run which gave the St. Louis Browns a 2 to 1 victory over the Boston Red Sox in the opening game of the current series.

Boston scored its first run in the second on Jolley's double, Hodapp's sacrifice and Oliver's single. St. Louis tied the count in the fourth when Garms hit a homer. Both pitchers were so effective no more runs were scored until the tenth when Blaeholder bunted and brought in Burns who had doubled and advanced to third on Melillo's sacrifice.

Phillies Show Life In Downing Pirates

End Losing Streak of Six in Row as League Leaders Bow, 6 to 5.

Philadelphia, May 2 (A.P.).—After six straight setbacks, the Phillies defeated the Pirates, 6-5, today.

The league leaders assaulted Rhem for four runs in the first inning, but the Phils knocked Larry French, southpaw Buc ace, out of the box in the next and scored five runs, putting them into a lead they never gave up.

Chuck Klein hit his second home run of the season with two on base in this inning to drive over the final three runs of the rally.

TWO HOMERS LET REDS SCORE

Durocher, Lombardi Hit for Circuit to Beat Braves, 2-1.

BOSTON, May 2 (A.P.).—Long home runs by Leo Durocher and Ernie Lombardi today enabled the Cincinnati Reds to open their first Eastern invasion with a 2-1 victory over the Boston Braves. Durocher slammed his circuit drive down the foul line into the left-field bleachers in the third inning and Lombardi hit the first ball pitched to him by Ed Brandt in the seventh into the center-field stands.

Larry Benton, former Brave, opened against the Tribe and with one out in the first inning, he was struck on the right forearm by Baxter Jordan's single through the box, and was forced to retire. Bob Smith, another former Tribesman, took up the pitching burden for the Reds, holding his former team mates to five hits.

Brandt Gives Way to Pinch-Hitter.

Brandt started on the mound for Boston and, after holding the Reds to six hits, gave way to the pinch-hitting Bob Holland while the Braves were trying to rally in the eighth. Harry Seibold finished the game for Boston and held the Reds to one hit in the last frame.

MONEL, 4-1, LEADS FROM START IN PIMLICO FEATURE RACE

Gives Labrot Stable 3rd Winner

Action Trails Filly to Wire; Don Pedro Takes Show.

Stable Also Wins as Mexico, Toytime Annex Sprints.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, May 2.—Monel, daughter of Sir Greysteel, showed her heels to a field of six others seeking a purse over the mile and 70 yards course here today. Her victory was third of the day for S. W. Labrot's Stable and Trainer Bill Irvine. This combination had previously won with Toytime and Mexico.

Monel hopped to the front from No. 1 post position and was never headed. Action, the favorite, broke back but was quickly moved up to second, where he was forced to take the dust of the Labrot representative. Action managed to cut the margin to a length and a half at the finish.

Only 5,000 turned out for the second day's charity program and the betting was even lighter than yesterday.

Favorite Players Get Good Start.

Favorite players were off to a flying start when Toytime, a Labrot filly, took the opener at a few cents better than even money. The result was a half length away from being a startling upset. Lodorus, a filly in the field which yesterday trailed a similar group by some 50 lengths, hopped away from No. 1 post position and appeared to be on the verge of stealing the race when Toytime, Bobby Jones up, came up with a rush to take the decision. Lodorus was 56-1 to win and paid a $24.20 place mutuel. The show end of the purse went to Dontara, belonging to Mrs. Trueman.

Par Value, Mills up, and Piety, Workman up, finished heads apart in the second race, another sprint for 2-year-olds. It looked for a while like the decision might be made in the stewards' stand after the horses were unsaddled. Workman climbed the steps to tell the judges that Mills and his mount had bumped Piety repeatedly coming up the stretch, but the judges ruled that the horse and not the boy was to blame for the close riding. Doeskin collected the third money without a murmer. Par Value paid a $7.40 mutuel.

Creek and Bostwick Beaten.

The king's horses and the king's men put on quite a race in the steeplechase, which drew a field of 15 and provided much excitement. The climax was a head decision to Mrs. P. Ambrose Clark's Alpheus over Thomas Hitchcock's Creek, with George Jessell, a field horse, third. Sid hopped off in front and I. Wren, a colored boy, hustled Alpheus up and stayed behind the pace-setter. When Sid tumbled out of the race, Alpheus went to the front. On the last turn Pete Bostwick, Mr. G. H. to you, brought Creek up with a rush, but both horse and rider were having trouble at the jumps. Coming over the last fence virtually on even terms, Creek bobbled slightly, but enough to give Alpheus another grip on the lead, and in the battle to the finish line Wren held his advantage over Bostwick.

Alpheus was only slightly regarded and paid a $23 mutuel. Creek and Bostwick represented the favorite players.

Another favorite bit the dust in the fourth race, when Wise Count bowed in defeat to Chlo Boy, a 23-1 shot. Coucci, who had the mount on Wise Count, pulled and hauled his mount all over the track and then was blocked in the stretch. Finally in the clear, Wise Count closed fast, but not fast enough to take care of Chlo Boy, which had raced Too Late, a 184-1 shot, into defeat. The latter was third, however, at a $46 mutuel.

After the race, Coucci went before the judges, but the official lights were soon on. Apprentice H. Langley did a clever piece of work in escaping injury when Gay Party stumbled. The boy went over the colt's head, but swung to the reins until clear and dropped in the clear.

The fifth race provided a mile-and-one-sixteenth romp for Learoyd, which won as Hanford pleased, by five lengths. Fluffy Lee, a long one, was second, and Archwood, another long one, third.

Mexico moved up in the stretch to take the sixth race from the speedy Benish Way, which set the pace most of the way. Below Cost was third.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TOYTIME, $4.40, $3.00, $2.40; LODORUS (field), $24.20, $8.40; DONTARA, $4.60.

TOYTIME, kept close in pursuit of LODORUS, came courageously when straightened into the home stretch and, taking a brief lead in the final furlong, held on stoutly to the end. LODORUS, displaying good early speed, was inclined to bear out rounding the turn, but continued stubbornly. DONTARA raced well placed and finished gamely when placed to punishment. COMING BACK was hard ridden and showed a good effort. She came wide into the main stretch. HAIR TRIGGER broke well, but could not keep step with the leaders. TOPPLE was outrun. MISS MASCARA stopped. EVA S. had no excuses.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PAR VALUE, $7.40, $3.40, $2.40; PIETY, $3.20, $2.60; DOESKIN, $2.60.

PAR VALUE moved into command when midway of the turn and, responding stoutly when placed to punishment in the closing furlong, came again to outstay PIETY. Latter sprinted around her field with a rush to gain a slight lead in the closing furlong, but could not shake off the winner. A claim of foul was lodged against PAR VALUE but was not allowed. DOESKIN, a factor all the way, continued stoutly and outfinished STIMULAW. Latter raced well under strong handling, but faltered during the final furlong. DAWNCHILD finished stoutly on the inside after going wide rounding the turn. WILD ROSEBUD displayed keen speed for three furlongs. WARGRAVE showed a high flight of speed leaving the barrier, but raced greenly thereafter.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ALPHEUS, $23.00, $8.60, $6.40; CREEK, $4.40, $4.60; GEORGE JESSEL (field), $5.60.

ALPHEUS, rated close to SID for the first mile, went into command at the ninth fence, jumped cleverly and held on stoutly to outstay CREEK. Latter moved up full of gas going to the eleventh fence, bobbled when on even terms with ALPHEUS at the twelfth jump, and landed badly at the final fence, but then finished with excellent courage. GEORGE JESSEL improved his position steadily while fencing boldly and was gradually reaching the leaders. WILLINGDON was allowed to drop far out of contention and raced on his own courage most of the journey. ISOLATEUR was never a factor. PROOF POSITIVE was outrun. WAR MIST was done after the first mile. DEPART tired. HATBROOM lost rider at the third fence. NAYLOR lost rider at the ninth. TECH was pulled up after the tenth jump. SID fell at the twelfth and HOTBRAIN was pulled up after the same fence.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHLO BOY, $49.00, $15.40, $9.00; WISE COUNT, $3.60, $3.60; TOO LATE, $46.00.

CHLO BOY crossed over sharply at the break, raced TOO LATE into submission, drew clear entering the home stretch and held WISE COUNT safe. Latter, taken up at the break and wretchedly handled, was taken up several times in the first five furlongs, was blocked again at the final furlong pole and finally was taken to the outside to close with a rush. TOO LATE raced under strong handling and held on well. MACK SENNETT was away forwardly and had no excuses. CONSIDERATE saved ground, but could not menace leaders. BEL ORA raced on the outside all the way. HACKY H. dropped back early.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LEAROYD, $4.00, $3.40, $3.20; FLUFFY LEE, $35.80, $18.20; ARCHWOOD, $26.20.

LEAROYD sprinted into a long early lead, was inclined to bear out during the running, but easily held command throughout. FLUFFY LEE moved in nearest attendance of the winner when midway of the back stretch, but could not make up any ground in the final drive. ARCHWOOD, prominent under weak handling, held on well when saving ground at the end. STANDOUT raced on his own courage early when Haines lost his stirrup irons. He closed gamely on the outside approaching the finish. GADAROUND had no mishaps. EVERPAIR was shuffled back going to the first turn.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $700; claiming. The Pikesville (second division). For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:47. Off at 4:59. Winner, S. W. Latbrot's b. or br. g. (4), by Eternal—Antipodes. Trained by W. Irvine. Value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:13.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MEXICO, $8.20, $5.60, $4.00; BENISH WAY, $18.60, $12.80; BELOW COST, $4.40.

MEXICO, kept near the leaders, moved up stoutly when approaching the home stretch and, wearing BENISH WAY down inside the closing furlong, was under pressure when drawing clear. BENISH WAY displayed smart speed, saved ground and held on stoutly. BELOW COST worked his way up on the outside and finished with good speed. INSTIGATOR, rated close to the leaders, could not improve his position when hard ridden. BRAVE AND BOLD made a short effort rounding the turn, but tired suddenly in the final quarter mile. WESTY'S LAD raced evenly. BUSTED was never dangerous.

SEVENTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $700; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:25. Off at 5:30. Winner, S. W. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MONAL, $10.40, $4.80, $2.60; ACTION, $3.20, $2.20; DON PEDRO, $2.20.

MONEL, having much speed and moving into an easy lead, was steadied in front, shook off a stout effort from ACTION midway of the final turn and was well in hand during the final stages. ACTION, breaking from quarter pole to the stretch, was ridden up while offering stiff contention, but was no match for the winner when the real test came. DON PEDRO, on the outside of the leaders from the start, could not threaten the first two when vigorously ridden. ALL ROWES went evenly. AIR PILOT weakened in the last quarter mile. He should benefit by the race.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $700; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:56. Off at 5:56. Winner, Mrs. H. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ARUNDEL, $13.60, $6.20, $4.60; DARK MIST (field), $14.20, $6.20; TAZEWELL, $5.30.

ARUNDEL, forwardly placed, moved up stoutly when straightened into the home stretch, came through on the inside and outfinished DARK MIST nearing the end. DARK MIST, hurried into the lead, was rated along, but bore out badly entering the home stretch and then weakened. TAZEWELL, taken wide for racing room, finished stoutly. GLEN BURNIE showed a good effort. GARLIC was unable to reach the leaders. HIS WAY showed good speed all the way.

Derby 'Prep' To Head Play

Bargain Colt Shows Class; Charley O. Is Third.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2 (A.P.).—Head Play, Mrs. William Crump's bargain colt, fully justified the confidence of backers who have made him the West's favorite to win the Kentucky Derby when he came from nowhere to easily defeat a field of the better class of Western eligibles at Churchill Downs today.

J. W. Parrish's Isaiah, a lightly regarded Derby prospect, which has raced surprisingly well this spring, ran second after leading when coming into the stretch. The R. M. Eastman estate's Charley O., Florida Derby winner, captured third place after leaving the post last.

Head Play Scores Handily.

Head Play won by a length and a half. His time for the mile was 1:39 2-5, a fair performance over a drying-out track. The $1,000 purse will more than pay his entry fee in the Derby Saturday, when he is expected to be secondary favorite to W R. Coe's Ladysman, leading Eastern hope.

Charley O., by racing excellently after breaking last, established himself as of Derby caliber. Head Play worked out an additional eighth after the finish, negotiating the mile and furlong in 1:54 3-5, and Charley O. did likewise, closing fast to work the mile and eighth in 1:54 4-5. Isaiah was rapidly tiring at the finish.

Col. E. R. Bradley's Boilermaker, which will not start in the Derby, led most of the way, but tired coming into the stretch. The Shandon Farm's At Top, filly which won the Jefferson Derby, finished fourth. The Calumet Farm's Warren, Jr., performed disappointingly after racing with the leaders during the first half. Other also rans were Pingal, Knockaway, Thistle Play and Ben Minturn.

Shows Unexpected Endurance.

Head Play, which Mrs. Crump purchased for only $550 as a yearling, but which won more than $16,000 last year, was expected to take an early lead because of his fast workouts, but revealed today he had the endurance to wear down the leaders after leaving the post slowly.

Ridden by Jockey H. W. Fisher, Head Play was the favorite and paid $4.16 for a $2 win ticket, $3.56 to place and $3.26 to show. Isaiah paid $6.50 to place and $4.32 to show, and Charley O. paid $3.56 to show.

Three other Derby eligibles finished among the also rans in a six and a half furlong race on the card, won by S. S. Friedlein's Fortunate Youth, a 6-year-old. They were J. C. Milam's Captain Red, the favorite; Laffoon and Yeiser's Flying Cadet, and Jewell Brother's Friend Charley.

CENTRAL ROUTS EASTERN, 9 TO 5, IN SCHOOL SERIES GAME

Guyon's Club Is Unsteady Afield

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

SOMEBODY accused Eastern of having a baseball team, but the boys from Lincoln Park absolved themselves of all blame in the matter yesterday as they bowed to Central by a score of 9-5 in the inter-high school series. It was Central's first game and the second for Eastern.

Errors at crucial moments committed by Eastern players and a trio of Central home runs proved to be the undoing of Charley Guyon's proteges. Cliff Keyser, the sandy-haired kid, who caught for the winners, distinguished himself with a pair of healthy whacks, both of which cleared the center field barrier in true Ruthian fashion.

Nobody was on the bags when Keyser delivered his first blow in the second frame, and the pathways were also deserted when he duplicated the feat in the eighth. But Shorty Chumbris and Buddy Nau were hugging the sacks in the third inning when Bill Bryant drove the ball out onto A street for another four-baser.

Wahler Scores for Eastern.

Freddy Wahler tallied Eastern's first run in the next inning on a lusty blow to deep left center field that enabled him to circle the bases while the Central outfielders were hitchhiking back to the diamond after retrieving the ball.

C. Chumbris and Nau added two more runs to Central's score in the fifth inning when Bryant's hot liner got through Joe Mills at shortstop. Chumbris had singled and Nau hit by one of Joe Sullivan's southpaw slants just before Bryant came to the plate.

Cecil Hale undertook to pitch Eastern to its second straight series victory but retired under fire in the third when Central threatened to knock the fence down. Sullivan held his opponents well in check and had he started the game it might have ended differently.

But Claude Cowan, on the mound for the Mount Pleasanters, was effective too, as the box score indicates. Cowan had a nice curve and a fair change of pace, and more than anything else, absolute confidence in himself. Eastern batters came up to the plate flaunting their big bottle bats at him, and shortly thereafter popped up, or rolled out. Eastern collected nine hits, two more than Central, but they were very cold and distant toward one another.

Central gave its pitcher airtight support, especially around the short-stop area, patrolled by little Shorty Chumbris.

Suburban Net League Sets Tourney Dates

Gathering for their annual meeting last night, members of the Suburban Tennis League voted to hold their annual tournament September 16 and 17 and 23, on the courts of the Argyle Country Club. Raymond E. Gable was elected president for the ensuing year. Other officers are Maurice S. May, vice president; Byron Schmid, secretary-treasurer.

Play will begin May 27, but a change was made in the number of matches this year. Three singles and four doubles will be played instead of the four singles and five doubles.

W. & M. GOLF TEAM BOWS TO C. U.

Jankowski Defeats Jaffee in Cards' 5-1 Victory.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY'S golfers swept William and Mary into defeat yesterday at Columbia, winning by 5 to 1, with Capt. John Jankowski upsetting the ranking Indian linksman, Mortimer Jaffee, in the feature match of the day.

The victory marked the third straight of the season for the Cardinals, who already have brushed aside University of Richmond and Boston College.

Jaffee's defeat came as the big surprise of the day. Conqueror of Roger Peacock, and beaten only twice in intercollegiate competition, Jaffee bowed to Jankowski, the husky football star, by 2 and 1, after a tense match.

Waters Lone Visiting Victor.

William and Mary's lone triumph of the day came when Waters turned back Parks, 6 and 5, but in the best ball Parks and Jankowski beat Jaffee and Waters, 1 up on the nineteenth hole. Parks' 74 was the best of the day. Jankowski shot a 77.

Washington and Lee invades Columbia on Saturday to engage Catholic University.

Results of yesterday's matches:

Jankowski (C. U.) beat Jaffee (W. & M.), 2 and 1; Waters (W. & M.) beat Parks (C. U.), 6 and 5. C. U. won best ball, 1 up on nineteenth.

Maginnis (C. U.) beat Burke (W. & M.), 1 up; McCarthy (C. U.) beat Bocock (W. & M.), 5 and 4. C. U. won best ball, 6 and 4.

Bethesda-C. C. Upsets Roosevelt Nine, 3 to 2

Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School sprang an upset yesterday by nosing out Roosevelt High, 3 to 2, in a seven-inning game.

Walter Johnson, son of the famous big league hurler, and Nichols, shared in the hurling, and held the Roosevelt team to four hits. Bethesda garnered six.

Bethesda scored a marker in the fourth and two more the fifth, and Roosevelt's two-run rally in the sixth fell shy a run of knotting the count.

Baltimore Golfers Accept Challenge

Indian Spring's 20-Man Team to Play Maryland Group.

The challenge, which Indian Spring Golf Club recently hurled at a group of Baltimore linksmen for a 20-man team match, has been accepted by William D. Waxter, jr., chairman of the Maryland State tournament committee, it was reported yesterday from the Monumental City.

Winner of the last two Maryland State team championships, the Indian Spring golfers will meet the Baltimore all-stars in a match to precede the State amateur championship scheduled from July 18 to 22, at Indian Spring.

The intercity engagement may take place either on June 24 or July 8. The Baltimore line-up will be selected from various clubs in and near the city.

Indian Spring has a number of golfers in its ranks that are versatile performers. Roger Peacock, District champion, and Duke University captain, is the outstanding player at the club; Dr. Larry Otell, champion; Tom Belshe, towering siege gun of the links; Arthur Urban, Craig McKee, and J. W. Harvey, jr., are others who will be players of ability.

Golden Glove Ring Event Tonight

15 Preliminary Bouts Listed; Finals Due on Saturday.

BEFORE a distinguished audience, including Representative Mary E. Norton, "Mayor" of the city, and Senators Walsh and King, the second annual Junior Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament will be inaugurated tonight at the Washington Boys Club with a program of fifteen bouts.

Admission will be by invitation only due to the limited seating facilities. Members of clubs who have boys boxing tonight have been given tickets and from the first couple of 60-pounders stepping into the ring until George Abrams and Bernard Sizeman, 120-pounders, battle it out, the gym will reverberate with cheers of the youngsters.

Finals at Stadium Saturday.

Fifteen bouts are scheduled tomorrow night and six Friday night, all at the Boys Club. Saturday afternoon, starting at 2:30 o'clock, the championship matches will be put on at Griffith Stadium with free admission.

After six weeks of intensive training Washington's future Jack Dempseys and John L. Sullivans are in perfect condition for the tournament. None is so proud as the boy who sports a miniature golden glove at the conclusion of the affair.

Participants in tonight's bouts are requested to report tonight at 6:30 o'clock for physical examination. The program will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Dr. H. J. Russell McKnitt, Dr. James Kane and Dr. J. L. Cardwell have volunteered their services for examining the boys.

80 pounds—Preston Drew (Merrick) vs. Harry Browning (B. C.); Darwin Morton (B. C.) vs. Francis Wiles (unattached); Sammy Fusco (N. E. B. C.) vs. Joe Harrison (Alex. B. C.); Angelo Papas (B. C.) vs. William Tuell (Georgetown B. C.); George Kalavatinos (B. C) vs. Joe McDermott (Mercury).

ST. JOHN'S GOLFERS WIN.

St. John's golfers scored a 5-to-1 victory over Takoma-Silver Spring in a match played over the Rock Creek course yesterday. Whittlesey's victory over Ortman, which earned Silver Spring's lone tally, was the most interesting of the matches.

Stanley defeated Keele, 4 and 3; Whittlesey (S. S.) defeated Ortman, 2 and 1; Whittlesey defeated St. John's 2 and 1; O'Leary defeated Pitzgerald, 5 and 3; Sullivan defeated Robertson, 6 and 5; best ball, St. John's, 6 and 5.

G. W. Meets Wake Forest Under Lights at Stadium

Contests for Sandlot Players to Precede Game Tonight; Howell Is Coach Morris' Selection for Mound Duty.

THE lanterns will be lighted at Griffith Stadium tonight for such an exhibition of baseball such as Ye Nation's Capital has not witnessed in many months. George Washington faces Wake Forest at 8 o'clock in the outstanding attraction. But before the Deacons and Colonials begin their argument there will be contests in hitting, base running and throwing for sandlot players of Washington and vicinity.

The first event in the athletic carnival is scheduled for 7 o'clock, at which time all contestants are requested to report to Richard S. Tennyson, director, at the Washington dugout. For one solid hour the boys will compete for trophies donated by local sporting goods shops, and then will come the ball game.

Heartened by the Colonials' spirit and work in recent practice sessions, Coach Ed Morris openly admits that Wake Forest will have its collective hands full if it expects to win tonight. Morris points to the batting spree of G. W. in its second game with Delaware, when the invaders were turned back by a score of 15-4.

The lads have been laying the wagon-tongue against the ball with pleasing force and regularity, and Morris looks for them to hold their own against the high-powered Southerners.

Unquestionably one of the strongest collegiate teams in the South, Wake Forest descends on the city with a record of seven consecutive wins, numbering Michigan and Duke among its victims.

G. P. Doherty, jr., coach of Delaware U., claims the Deacons have three of the best college players he has ever seen in his many years of coaching in Hicks, catcher; Brodgen, first base, and Earp, shortstop. All can field well and are heavy hitters. John Caddell, a veteran, is coaching the North Carolinians.

Jimmy Howell has been nominated for mound duty by Morris. He faces a tough assignment in suppressing the potent attack of the visitors. His opponent will be Joe Mulhern, a seasoned campaigner.

Central Tennis Team Defeats Eastern, 6-1

While their classmates were busy handing Eastern its first defeat in the interhigh school baseball series, Central's smooth-stroking tennis team was busy plastering a 6-to-1 defeat on the Lincoln Park netmen in their match yesterday. Central won everything but their rival's racquets. Contrares, playing in the No. 3 singles, trounced Rosenberg for Eastern's lone point.

Crabill defeated Stasulli, 6—3, 7—5; Yeomans defeated Pearce, 6—2, 6—1; Contrares (E.) defeated Rosenberg, 6—0, 6—2; Root defeated Fletcher, 6—2, 6—3; Robins defeated Evan, 6—4, 6—2; Crabill and Yeomans defeated Dungin and Daly, 6—1, 6—3; Harrison and Rosenberg defeated Contrares and Fletcher, 6—1, 9—6.

INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE.

Blue Ribbons and Dixie Pigs battled seven innings to a 6-6 tie in the Industrial League yesterday. The Dixies outhit their opponents, but were unable to bunch their blows effectively. Eddie Radtke connected safely on each of three trips to the plate.

Friends Nine Beaten By St. Alban's, 4 to 1

Driving over three runs in the third inning, St. Alban's defeated Friends School by a score of 4-1 in their game yesterday. It was a pitchers' battle all the way. Patton, who hurled for the winners, limited Friends to 3 hits and whiffed 12, while his opponent, Clark, granted only 4 hits and struck out 11.

WASHINGTON AND THE NEW FOOTBALL.

("The President and his advisers liken the crisis to a football game in which the tactics are constantly changed."—News item.)

PRESIDENT—What I want to do is to work out a scheme which combines the forward pass, the field goal and the 60-yard run for touchdown in one play.

Old-Timer—But it's impossible. It's never been done.

Old-Timer—No.

President—That's just the point. Old forms and old systems must go.

Old-Timer—But the field goal, the forward pass and the touchdown are separate and distinct plays. In one you kick a ball, in the other you toss it and in the third you carry it.

President—We'll coordinate and combine the three plays.

Old-Timer—How?

* * * *

PRESIDENT—My Brain Trust will work it out. I never bother with details. And another thing: I propose a different shaped gridiron. A circular one.

Old-Timer—Circular?

President—Yes. All plays will start from the center. This will make touchdown possible no matter which way the player runs.

Old-Timer—How?

President—I don't know. I'll leave it to Moley and Tugwell.

* * * *

President—I'm for a new type football. The present one is too hard. I'm going to defiate it by decreasing its air content 50 per cent. The ball will not go far and it will increase the number of plays.

President—The Brain Trust will get around that by using more footballs in each play.

Old-Timer—Where will you get them?

President—I'll print them!

Old-Timer—You can't print footballs.

President—Professors Moley and Tugwell—the devil we can't.

AMERICAN DIALOGUES.

What for?

Things have happened so rapidly during the past few months that Howard Scott, daddy of technocracy, is now being referred to as an old-fashioned standpatter and reactionary.

LINDBERGH TO TAKE STAND HERE MONDAY AT TRIAL OF MEANS

Definite assurance was received yesterday by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will be ready and willing to testify here Monday when Gaston B. Means and Norman T. Whitaker are scheduled to go on trial on an indictment charging them with conspiring to steal $35,000 from Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean.

Col. Lindbergh was contacted yesterday by the Justice Department. He is said to have readily assented to the suggestion that he appear here as a witness against the two men. Means has already been convicted of taking $104,000 from Mrs. McLean, in return for which he was supposed to effect the return of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby.

Mr. Rover was loath to call Col. Lindbergh, because it would necessitate his going through all the harrowing details of the kidnaping of his son, and the tragic finding of the body. However, demands made by attorneys for Means and Whitaker made this step a legal necessity.

Kidnaping Testimony.

It will now be necessary for the Government to prove the kidnaping of the baby and the finding of the body. Only Col. or Mrs. Lindbergh could testify to these events, and defense attorneys have indicated that they would insist upon such proof. Col. Lindbergh will also be called upon to testify as to his identification of the corpse of his son.

Means and Whitaker are charged with conspiring to steal $35,000 from Mrs. McLean through a scheme in which Mrs. McLean would give them $35,000 in good, easily negotiable money for $49,000 in "hot money" that had been collected by the kidnaping gang.

Negotiations to Be Aired.

The Government expects to prove that the Lindberg baby was dead at the time of the negotiations with Mrs. McLean, having either been deliberately or accidentally slain at the time he was taken from his crib, or shortly thereafter.

The prosecution also expects to show through Mrs. McLean that Whitaker told her he had the missing baby in his arms only 48 hours before seeing her. This claim will be met by medical testimony that at that time the baby had been dead for weeks.

Demand for Tickets Brings Operetta Shift

Due to the demand for tickets, the Estelle Wentworth Opera Group, sponsored by the Community Center Department, will present the operetta, "The Pirates of Penzance," at the Roosevelt High School auditorium the evenings of May 9 and 10 instead of May 9 as previously planned.

Women Legionnaires Open Convention Today

The morning session will open with an address by Mrs. Needham C. Turnage, president, and followed by talks by Mabel Boardman and the Rev. Edmund Walsh. The afternoon meeting at 2 o'clock will be devoted to business and election of officers.

Citizens' Unit Hits Drainage Situation

Asserting that water from the refrigeration plant of the Home for Incurables is allowed to run into the Upton street valley and stand in stagnated pools near the Phoebe Hearst School, the North Cleveland Park Citizens Association last night asked the Health Department to remedy the situation, since during the summer months it will be a menace as a mosquito incubator.

The association also asked the Commissioners to fill all executive positions in the Fire Department by promoting deserving members of the fire companies.

Restoration of the full appropriation for the Community Center was likewise asked after it was brought out that the depression had created a greater need for this work than ever before.

D. C. Marks Time On Relief Program

Policies to Be Unchanged Pending Enactment of Lewis-Wagner Bill.

District welfare officials are marking time until the Lewis-Wagner national relief bill actually becomes a law before changing any local unemployment aid policies, George S. Wilson, public welfare director, said yesterday.

He estimates, however, that the District will receive $133,000 on the basis of a third of past expenditures and that this will do little more than tide the emergency relief work over until July 1, when the new appropriation under the District bill becomes available.

Under the present scale of $40,000 expenditures, existing funds will be exhausted by June 1 or before. More than 10,000 cases are on the active relief list at present.

Riddick Seeking Partners in Gold

Prospector Has Claim in British Columbia He Wants Help to Work.

Merrill K. Riddick, World War and air mail flyer, wants partners to go with him on a gold hunting expedition into the mountains of British Columbia, where he will work a claim about 400 miles north of Spokane, Wash.

He says that he wants 4 or 5 men in good physical shape who are willing to pay their own expenses to get into the gold country. "Of course, it is all a gamble," he said, "but there are indications that there is gold in bonanza proportions where I intend to put up machinery."

Riddick is well known in Washington. He has just returned from three years' prospecting in Alaska, where, he said, he managed to make a living.

TO DATE

Statistics, to many, represent cold statements of facts, even when they tabulate death, injury and loss of property. However, statistics may become personal and from the digits counting the death toll due to automobile accidents names of friends and relatives may be interpreted.

BEER "TESTS" MADE AT PRESS CLUB

Thirsty newspapermen last night offered themselves in the interest of better brew when they gathered in the auditorium of the National Press Club to test the beer offered by members of Congress from famous beer brewing States. Left to right, front row, Representative Henry W. Watson, of Pennsylvania; Representative John J. Cochran, of St. Louis; Raymond Brandt, president of the National Press Club, and Representative John J. O'Connor, of New York. Rear, Representative Raymond Cannon, of Milwaukee (left), and Representative James M. Mead, of Buffalo. The judges pronounced the samples of equal virtue and offered to serve again in a "new trial."

150 LEADERS IN GAS BUSINESS REGISTER

Hewitt Welcomes Delegates to Southern Convention; Allen Is Speaker.

More than 150 leaders in the gas utility business in the United States and Canada were registered at the Shoreham Hotel yesterday for the silver anniversary convention of the Southern Gas Association.

A welcome was given the delegates by Arthur Hewitt, of Toronto, Ontario, president of the American Gas Association. Alexander Forward, managing director of the American Gas Association, spoke on "The Public Utility Contribution to Economic Stability." An address on "Public Relations" was given by N. Henry Gellert, president of the National Public Utilities Corporation, of Philadelphia.

David P. Allen, of the Washington Gas Light Co., was among the speakers at the afternoon session. He spoke on meter accuracy.

The local committee in charge of arrangements for the convention is headed by M. L. Sperry, president of the Washington Gas Light Co.; Edgar Morris and Wilton J. Lambert.

The sessions are being interspersed with a varied entertainment program, including dinners, dances, golf and sight-seeing trips. The convention will continue through Thursday.

Man Tries Suicide At House Building

Boston Representative Is Mentioned in Note of Philadelphian.

Cornelius Manley, 43, of Philadelphia, swallowed a quantity of poison outside the House Office Building last night. Taken to Providence Hospital he was given first aid, and it was announced he was out of danger.

In his pocket was a note complaining of repeated misfortunes and mentioning Representative John W. McCormack, of Boston.

Mr. McCormack last night recalled that some time ago he had helped Manley obtain an award from the Federal Compensation Commission for injuries suffered in the Philadelphia Navy Yard. He said that Manley had refused the award, which the representative said was the limit permitted by law. He said he had not seen Manley for more than a year.

Trio Kidnap Victim, Beat Him and Get $40

William Grogan, 53, of 1432 Perry place northwest, was attacked by three men while waiting for a bus at Sixteenth and Oak streets northwest yesterday. The trio forced him into their automobile, and, taking him to Rock Creek Park, struck him over the head with a tire tool and robbed him of $40.

Throwing him out of the car, the men escaped. Grogan walked to a drug store at 3620 Sixteenth street northwest and was given first aid treatment. He was treated by his family physician later.

Misses Drink

Escape From Death Seems Miracle for Baby Who Falls.

A frantic scream, a flash of white, and startled passersby near Fourth and C streets southeast, watched in horror last night as the tiny form of a little girl hurtled from the second-story window of a house to disappear below the cement sides of a deep cellar areaway.

Neighbors rushed down steps to the basement door of 329 C street southeast. There they found Mildred Miller, 3-year-old daughter of Mrs. Doris Miller.

She was carried to an awaiting automobile, which sped to Providence Hospital. Although little Mildred showed no outward signs of her fall, physicians admitted her for treatment of possible internal injuries.

The child's mother, overcome with grief, sobbed the story of her daughter's plunge. Mildred, she said, climbed upon a chair to reach a glass of water on a table near an open window. She lost her balance.

Witnesses, standing on the street, said the baby's escape from death was miraculous.

SINGING IS STILLED; WOMAN FOUND DEAD

Gas Takes Life of Wife After Husband's Disappearance Week Ago.

A woman who hummed and sang through her household duties was found dead late yesterday of gas poisoning in her quarters after neighbors who thought she was "happy as a bird" had sought for several days to trace illuminating gas odor in a boarding house at 1112 New York avenue northwest.

The woman, about 40, and identified as Mrs. J. E. Manson by the boarding house agent, left a note that read:

"To whom it may concern: Nobody cares for me. I have no friends and no money and am going by the gas route."

A. M. Cooper, who runs the boarding house for the W., B. & A. Railroad, said the woman and her husband had lived at the establishment for about a year. The husband has not been seen for a week by neighbors.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald said the woman had been dead since Saturday at least. He indicated he would issue a certificate of suicide.

The woman's body was slumped in a kitchenette. Two burners on a small gas stove were on but unlit. A pillow had been arranged on the stove, but the woman had slumped from her chair to the floor. The body is at the Morgue.

Three Representatives Will Speak to Union

Other speakers will be John P. Costello, District national committeeman, and John Colpoys, chairman of the District central committee.

Perfect

Mrs. G. L. Siecshnaydre Is Holder of 13 Spades in Bridge Game.

While playing contract with her husband and their friends, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Patton, Mrs. G. L. Siecshnaydre of East Clifton Terrace Apartments last night assembled her hand and could hardly believe her eyes when she saw thirteen spades. But she quickly suppressed her surprise and bid three spades. After her partner had passed and her opponent had bid six hearts, she raised her bid to seven spades.

She managed to control her excitement until the hands were played, but there was little bridge after that.

BEER SELLING NEAR CENTRAL SCHOOL HIT

Strenuous opposition to the sale of beer near Central High School was voiced last night by the Columbia Heights Citizens Association in a resolution asking that a permanent license be denied two operators who are selling beer on a temporary license in the vicinity of the school.

The operators cited by the association, one at Fourteenth and Euclid streets and the other in the basement of the Clifton Terrace apartments, were said to be catering to students, and to have turned their places of business into hangouts of an "unwholesome nature." The stand at Fourteenth and Euclid streets was also said to operate late into the night, annoying residents of the section.

Thomas P. Littlepage, president of the Chamber of Commerce, addressed the association on "Civic Conditions in Washington," and installed the officers, who were all reelected.

In his address Mr. Littlepage said that the world today is breaking forth into a new era, and that Washington is bound to be affected. He pointed out that Washington is about the only city of its size free of debt.

Speaking of the economic crisis, he attacked the "cheese-paring" of Federal salaries, only to spend hundreds of millions of dollars on a project like the Boulder Dam. He also disapproved the attitude Congress takes toward the District of Columbia, stating that the District will get a fair break only when it is represented on Capitol Hill.

Officers of the association who were reelected are: Margaret Hopkins Worrell, president; Seneca B. Bain, vice president; Marie F. Maddux, second vice president; W. H. Coneby, third vice president; Charles K. Scott, recording secretary; Walter I. Swanton, corresponding secretary; William C. Strauss, treasurer; Albert E. Stephan and Albert E. Westrater, delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

A resoluton passed by the National Conference of Jews and Christians at their March meeting was indorsed by the association. The resolution proposed a national planning board for human welfare and set forth seven points for the betterment of society.

Camp Exposition Will Open Friday

Washington's first Camp Exposition will open Friday at Barker Hall of the Young Women's Christian Association.

The show is designed to represent what Washington offers in camping and recreation and will consist of exhibits of camps which have been selected with the view of helping those whose budgets are small.

Groups participating in the exhibit are the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Holiday House, Vacation Lodge, Boys Club, Salvation Army, Summer Outings Committee, Playground and Community Center Departments, Tuberculosis Society and the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks.

Policeman Shoots Man In Chase on Rooftops

Sought in connection with the shooting of his wife, Samuel Palmer, 25, colored, 909 Desmond Court southwest, was shot and seriously wounded early last night by Policeman Frank A. Myers.

Located in a house at 418 Eleventh street, Palmer escaped onto the roof, ran across buildings at 416, 414, and 412, and to the street after entering a window at 410 Eleventh. Myers fired at the man on Virginia avenue near E street. He declared he fired because he thought the man, who had stopped running, was about to draw a gun.

COED INHALES GAS TO GAIN SURCEASE, MOURNING FIANCE

Ruth O. White, 21, of G. W., Is Discovered Dying in Sorority House.

Grief-stricken since the death of her fiance, Miss Ruth O. White, 21-year-old George Washington University student, penned a note that told of her melancholia and then sought surcease from her sorrow by bringing death by inhaling gas.

The girl was found unconscious early yesterday in the gas-filled kitchen of the Alpha Delta Pi Sorority suite in an apartment at 2020 G street northwest. A sorority sister, Janice Hale, of 4423 Hunt avenue, Chevy Chase, Md. found her unconscious form. After futile attempts to revive her, she was pronounced dead.

Poem Found on Lap.

"How can I cease to pray for thee?
Can He not reach thee with His tender care?
Can He not hear me when for thee I pray?
What matters it to Him who holds within
The hollow of His hand all worlds, all space
That thou art done with earthly pain and sin,
Somewhere within His ken thou hast a place.
Somewhere thou livest and hast need of Him.
Somewhere thy soul sees higher heights to climb;
And somewhere still there may be valleys dim
That thou must pass to reach the hills sublime.
Then all the more because thou canst not hear
Poor human words of blessing will I pray.
Oh, true, brave heart! God bless thee wheresoever
In His great universe thou art today!"

The girl's fiance, Julian B. Peters, accidentally shot and killed himself April 4 near Glenn, Md. He had left his home to kill a hawk and was found later with the shotgun near his body. Since then Miss White had been wearing mourning garb.

Artificial Respiration Tried.

When Miss Hale found the body, she summoned Charlie Couser, janitor at the building, who carried her to an open porch. The Fire Rescue Squad applied artificial respiration for two hours. She was removed to Emergency Hospital, where she was pronounced dead.

Miss White, who was a senior at the university, lived in Springfield, Fairfax County, Va. She had been a member of the rifle team since 1931. She became manager the following year. In 1930 she served on the editorial board of The Hatchet, the university paper. She was taking a course in library science at the university.

Commuted From Fairfax.

The girl commuted to the university, her father driving her back and forth each day. On Monday night she attended a sorority meeting and decided to spend the night in the city.

Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued a certificate of suicide. Detective Sergt. John Wise said four gas jets in the kitchen stove were open when the body was found.

36 Organizations Accept Invitation

Vocational Education and Reconstruction to Be Studied Tomorrow.

Thirty-six national organizations have accepted invitations to attend the citizens' conference on vocational education and the problems of reconstruction which opens here tomorrow and continues through Friday, it was announced yesterday by John A. Lapp, secretary of the conference and director of the National Rehabilitation Association.

The meeting at the Willard Hotel has been called by the American Vocational Association, the American Council on Education and the National Education Association.

Senator Robert M. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, will speak at the opening session on problems relating to employment and emergency relief. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins will preside. Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace will preside at the afternoon session tomorrow.

Sokolowski to Speak Before Polish Club

The Polish Club of Washington will have Wladyslaw Sokolowski, Charge d'Affairs of the Polish Embassy, as guest speaker tonight at a banquet at the Willard Hotel celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary.

The banquet will be followed by a dance. Representative John Lesinski will be master of ceremonies.

BANK LOANS READY IN RENOVIZE DRIVE

$500,000 Is Available to Washingtonians Who Join Campaign.

Officials of the Renovize Washington Campaign announced last night that banks will carry out the original plan of giving loans to depositors for repair work. The original fund of $500,000 is still available and loans up to $500 a person may be obtained, it was announced.

Property owners of Washington, regardless of race, religion or color, will stand an equal chance of obtaining the loans, it was stated. The regular rate of 6 per cent will be given, and the loans will be repayable in installments and must be repaired within a year.

Home owners who are not depositors may obtain loans when the note is indorsed by a satisfactory deposter. Applicants will be required to set forth the amount and character of the work to be done and produce at least two bids, showing that the work is being done at a minimum of expense. Applicants must also show receipts to prove that interest due on the mortgage has been paid and that taxes also have been paid.

Loans will be available until August 19 of this year.

Blueprints are still available for both draftsmen and laymen intending to enter the competition to supply a design for renovizing the dilapidated house at Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

The winner of the competition will be chairman of the committee in charge of designing the new form into which the present structure will be renovized.

Civitan Program Devoted to Boys

Speakers Urge Cooperation of Business Men in Training Youth.

The Civitan Club of Washington at its meeting yesterday joined in the national celebration of boys' week, devoting its program to that purpose.

Frank Wood addressed the club in behalf of the youth of the city, requesting the cooperation of business men in the interest of the boys, and pledging the good will of the boys to the end that the city be benefited by their good conduct.

Fred J. Rice, Washington attorney, who has devoted some twenty years of his life to work among boys, principally as an athletic coach, also addressed the club.

Shoe Store Loses $90 to Bandit Pair

Two colored men held up the manager of a shoe store at 911 Pennsylvania avenue northwest yesterday and, kicking him into submission, forced him to open the safe. They escaped with $90.

G. Leonard Boyer, jr., of Alexandria, Va., manager of the store, told police the holdup men threatened him with a revolver and told him to open the safe. When he tried to gain time by stalling with the combination, the colored men kicked him about the body.

CHILDRESS BOOMED AS COMMISSIONER AT ELEVENTH HOUR

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

With the District Commissioners variously reported as likely to be appointed within a few days and not likely to be named for another ten days or two weeks, one of the outstanding booms in the closing days of the struggle has been launched in behalf of John W. Childress, former chairman of the Public Utilities Commission for the District.

When the name of Mr. Childress was first advanced it wasn't taken very seriously because of the much-advertised "liberal" attitude of the Roosevelt administration on public utilities matters. Mr. Childress was considered as a very conservative chairman of the local utilities commission.

Behind his candidacy, however, is reported to have been lined up powerful national influence which has been induced by Harley P. Wilson, the North American Co. representative, who is bossing some of the local public utilities. Tese powerful persons are said to have persuaded several members of the House and of the Senate to bespeak kindly consideration for Mr. Childress and their bespeaking is thought by backers of Mr. Childress to have had considerable effect.

Talks With Delano.

Selection of the new District Commissioners is said to have been discussed by the President in the course of his yacht trip down the Potomac Sunday. The President is said to have gone over the various candidates with his uncle, Frederic A. Delano.

It is well known that Mr. Delano does not approve of the present form of the District government. He believes there is too much divided authority. He believes that efficiency demands greater concentration of authority and consequent responsibility. It is no secret that the President has reorganization of the local government in mind, but he has been advised that this is not the time to launch the reorganization proposal in Congress. Word has gone out that whoever are named Commissioners will be given the jobs purely as temporary appointments, with the idea of reorganization in the background.

Havenner Urged, Too.

Dr. George C. Havenner, former president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, is said to have been boosted to Postmaster General James A. Farley by one or two of the reputedly important and influential members of the Senate, one of whom was reported a few weeks ago as slated to be Mr. Roosevelt's spokesman.

Ernest G. Walker, Melvin C. Hazen, Malcolm S. McConihe, Harry King, John A. Korman and a couple of dark horses whose names haven't been published still, however, are strongly in the running.

Catholics to Hold May Day Exercises

Rites to Honor Blessed Virgin Are Set for Next Sunday.

The first annual May Day celebration in honor of the Blessed Virgin under the title "Sedes Sapientiae"—Seat of Wisdom of the Catholic University will be held next Sunday afternoon in the university stadium and will be sponsored by the Students' Spiritual Council. The Very Rev. Edward Fitzgerald, O. P., student chaplain, is in charge of the program, which is expected to draw 10,000 persons.

The following school and college organizations will take part in the procession: Georgetown University student body; Georgetown University R. O. T. C., Georgetown University Band; Trinity College; Immaculate Seminary; Georgetown Visitation; George Washington University Newman Club; Howard University Newman Club. The Catholic University will be represented by the lay and clerical student body and faculty.

Invitations have also been extended to the following local organizations: Curley Club of Washington; fourth degree Knights of Columbus; members of the five councils, Knights of Columbus; Ancient Order of Hibernians and Ladies Auxiliary; Washington Section of the Baltimore Archdiocesan Union of Holy Name Societies; Sodality Union of Washington; Catholic Daughters of America; Knights of St. John and Ladies Auxiliary; Catholic Knights of America; Catholic Students' Mission Crusade; Daughters of Isabella; Mamrosa League of Laymen's Retreats; District of Columbia Chapter, International Federation of Catholic Alumnae; Assumption Girls Club; Aloysian Club; St. Stephen's Club; Order of the Alhambra. In addition, the children of the local parochial schools will attend.
